PRESIDENT SEEKS TO LINE UP VOTES TO SUSTAIN VETO

MIGHT ACCEPT RATE RISE

His Talk Is Taken to Show Sympathy With Proposal of Senator Sterling.

NEW WILL PRESENT PLAN

Postmaster General Is Busy on Measure to Insure Revenue to Meet Higher Salaries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge invited a baker's dozen of Republican Senators to the White House today to discuss his recommendations for keeping the expenses of the Government within the budget, in order to make it possible to further reduce Federal taxes next year. The special purpose of the President, apparently, was to so line up the Republican forces in the Senate so as to prevent an early vote on the veto of the bill granting increased compensation to postal employes.

It is understood that Mr. Coolidge gave assurances that if the Senate would forego action on his veto he would arrange for legislation that would provide additional revenues intended to meet increases in the compensation of the postal workers. This was taken as indicating that the President was in sympathy with the proposal of Senator Sterling, Chairman of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, for increasing rates on periodicals and newspapers, with a view to obtaining enough additional receipts to cover any increase in postal salaries without touching present estimated revenues of the Government.

When he left today's Cabinet meeting Postmaster General New said he would send to Senator Sterling a proposal for raising adequate revenue to cover the proposed salary increase.

Conference Due to Veto Flurry.

Today's conference at the White House was the direct outcome of a flurry in the Senate yesterday over an effort to bring up the President's veto for immediate action, when it was proposed that the Senate agree by unanimous consent to have a vote on the veto in February. Senator Couzens of Michigan declined to acquiesce, thus preventing unanimous consent.

After today's conference it became known that Mr. Coolidge had shown that he feared another attempt to arrange a date to pass the salary increase measure over his veto would be made soon.

Mr. Coolidge, according to those close to him, has been uncertain as to what course was open to him in dealing with Congress in the interest of keeping down governmental expenditures. He has hesitated to take any other action than the warning to Congress in his annual message that the strictest economy was necessary to make possible further tax reduction after the current fiscal year. Whether he would be justified under the circumstances in making a direct appeal to individual Senators and Representatives to hold down appropriations apparently has been a problem in the President's mind. Today's course of Mr. Coolidge showed that he has decided the situation demands more direct treatment.

The conference is expected to have more far-reaching importance than its application to the postal salary increase bill. One outcome was that it laid the foundation for an effort by the President to amalgamate the Administration forces in the Senate with a view to presenting a united front of regular Republicans in support of Administration policies, thus tending to obviate the criticism that there was no Republican Party solidarity in Congress and that the leadership of the President was a mere form.

Thirteen Senators at Conference.

Those who attended the conference were Senators Cummins of Iowa, President pro tem. of the Senate; Moses of New Hampshire, Watson of Indiana, McLean of Connecticut, McNary and Stanfield of Oregon, Reed of Pennsylvania, Shortridge of California, Means of Colorado, McKinley and McCormick of Illinois, Howell of Nebraska and Harreld of Oklahoma.

Another indication that President Coolidge intends to insist upon his program of economy in governmental expenditures came from the White House after the conference. The Presidential spokesman said that Mr. Coolidge had not changed his attitude of opposition to any increase in appropriations for river and harbor improvement projects. No doubt was left from what the spokesman indicated that the effort in the House of Representatives to pass a bill providing $53,000,000 for such purposes was emphatically disapproved by the President. That total is more than double the amount recommended for river and harbor improvements in the budget for the next fiscal year.

In his annual message the President discussed this subject briefly with a view to impressing upon the Senate and House the necessity of holding down river and harbor appropriations within the budget figures. Today his spokesman called attention to this advice and added that the President believed that less pressing projects should be eliminated from consideration at the present session of Congress.

Changes the Navy's Slogan To 'Join and Show the World'

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 12.—Theodore Douglas Robinson, the new Assistant Secretary of the Navy, has changed the old phrase "Join the navy and see the world," frequently heard in naval recruiting stations, to "Join the navy and show the world." This, he said, is what it ought to be, in addressing the apprentice seaman brigade of the naval training station here today.

The new Assistant Secretary was making his first official inspection of the local naval establishment, and incidentally he had his first boat ride since his appointment to his new post when he was taken in the barge of Captain Ralph Earle to the torpedo station from the Government landing.

MOTHER OF THE CZAR DENOUNCES CYRIL

NICOLAS SUPPORTS HER

He Disagrees With Cyril's Manifesto—Says Choice Should Be Made in Russia.

The recent action of the Grand Duke Cyril in proclaiming himself Czar of Russia brought forth strong criticism of Marie Feodorovna, Dowager Empress of Russia, mother of the murdered Czar.

There was disclosed yesterday the text of a letter written by the Dowager Empress to Grand Duke Nicolai Nicolayevitch, oldest member of the Romanoff family, and with it a statement by the Grand Duke, made soon after Cyril's proclamation of his new standing. Both were made public by Ernest Iselin, the banker. Mr. Iselin said the letters were sent to him by his brother-in-law, a native Russian, who said that the Empress had requested that they receive publicity in this country.

The wife of Cyril, the Grand Duchess Victoria Feodorovna, is now in this country on a visit, while Grand Duke Cyril, according to Berlin dispatches published on Dec. 5, faces expulsion from Coburg, Germany, because of his proclamation of Czardom.

The letter of Empress Marie, dated Sept. 21 last at Villa Hvidoere, near Copenhagen, was as follows:

Your Imperial Highness:

My heart was painfully depressed by reading the manifesto of the Grand Duke Cyril Wladimirovitch, who declared himself Emperor of all Russias.

There is no definite news up to now about the fate of my beloved sons and grandson. I, therefore, consider the act of Grand Duke Cyril's proclamation as premature. Nobody is in a position to deprive me of the last gleam of hope.

I am afraid that this manifesto may create division and instead of improving will render still worse the state of tortured Russia.

If it would please the Almighty, in His unknown ways, to take unto Himself my beloved son and grandson, I believe, without any forecast of the future and with firm hope in Divine Grace, that the future Emperor will be designated by our fundamental laws in unison with the Orthodox Church and altogether with the Russian people.

I pray the Almighty to spare us His anger and to save us by those ways known only to Him.

I am sure that you, as the oldest member of the House of Romanoff, share my views.

MARIE.

The Grand Duke's statement, dated Oct. 20 at Choigny, was as follows:

I am happy to state that her Imperial Majesty the Dowager Empress Marie Feodorovna had no doubt that I share her feelings in regard to the act of the Grand Duke Cyril Wladimirovitch in proclaiming himself Emperor of All the Russias.

I had already many opportunities of expressing my deep conviction that the form of the future organization of the Russian State can be decided only on Russian soil in accordance with the aspirations of the Russian people.

Disagreeing with the steps taken by the Grand Duke Cyril Wladimirovitch, I appeal to every Russian sharing the thoughts of her Imperial Majesty and mine, and I urge them to fulfill their duties to their country by continuing energetically and without interruption the holy task of the liberation of Russia. May God help us.

GRAND DUKE NICOLAI NICOLAYEVITCH.

TWO BOATS SEIZED IN BAY

Shot Across Bow Halts One and the Other Runs on Rocks Near Shore.

NEW INDICTMENT IS ASKED

Dry Agent Who Found Captured Truck Empty When He Came Out of Police Station Is Named.

The New Jersey bootleg syndicate flaunted open defiance of Federal and State authorities yesterday. Despite the twelve indictments thus far returned as a result of investigations into charges of bribing officials and politicians to protect the landing and transportation of millions of dollars' worth of liquor, attempts to smuggle it into Hudson County continue unabated.

After a pistol battle, during which a Hudson County policeman on a motorcycle and another in a side car were rammed by a truck loaded with whisky and narrowly escaped with their lives, the vehicle was seized. The seven men on it escaped. It contained $35,000 worth of liquor.

Seven prisoners were captured on two rum-running boats caught yesterday in an endeavor to land their cargoes on the Jersey shore. In one instance a speed launch surrendered only after a three-inch shell had been sent across her bows by a Coast Guard cutter.

The Hudson County Grand Jury spent most of the afternoon in an examination of Alfred E. (Breese) Ransom of 100 Belmont Avenue, Jersey City, a prohibition agent attached to the staff of Divisional Prohibition Agent R. Q. Merrick of New York and in charge of the field work in Northern New Jersey.

Seek Ransom's Indictment.

At the conclusion of his examination County Prosecutor John Milton asked Assistant Federal Attorney Walter D. Van Riper to request Ransom's indictment by the Federal Grand Jury in Newark next Tuesday on a charge of malfeasance in office. Mr. Van Riper said that he would present the evidence and that, in addition to Ransom's own story, it would be augmented by other testimony, the nature of which he would not at present disclose.

Ransom said that he had been offered $1,000 to release the vehicle and that William F. Griffin of Jersey City, now under indictment, "might" have been inside the Weehawken Police Station when he entered.

"I never acted as a collector for any one and I never took a dollar in graft," Ransom declared in the crowded Court House corridor as he entered the Grand Jury room.

Ransom's story, as repeated by him in Prosecutor Milton's office after he left the Grand Jury room, was that at 11 o'clock on the night of Nov. 20 he had been called on the telephone by William P. Verdon, one of the Republican leaders in Hoboken, who told him that a shipment of liquor was to be landed that night at the Baldwin Avenue pier in Weehawken. Ransom said he tried to get Charles Thaler, the Federal Prohibition Agent, with whom he always works, but that Thaler was not at home, so he started alone.

Got Allen to Go With Him.

"I got word from Vernon about 10:45 o'clock," said Ransom, "but my wife begged me not to go. 'That's where a lot of men have been killed and they'll kill you, too,' she said, and she was crying when I drove off. I didn't want to go alone, so I went around to the home of David J. Allen and asked him to come along, more as company than anything else. He was just going to bed."

On Thursday Allen resigned, upon the demand of Attorney General Stone, as an Assistant Purchasing Agent of the Department of Justice, stationed at the Atlanta Penitentiary. He is prominent in Republican political circles in Jersey City and is said to have been the "original Harding man" there.

"We went up to Weehawken," Ransom continued, "along the West Valley Road and turned into Boulevard East. We didn't drive down to the Baldwin Avenue pier, but turned all the lights out on the taxi and waited there in the dark, about a block from Weehawken Police Headquarters.

"Before long a covered truck came up the hill. We followed it until we were nearly in front of Police Headquarters,

Sixty-four Veterans Have Refused the Bonus, 1,785,000 Out of 4,051,606 Have Applied for It

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Sixty-four veterans of the World War have so far refused to accept the bonus authorized in the Adjusted Compensation law which was passed over the veto of President Coolidge last May.

It was learned upon inquiry at the War Department that 1,785,000 applications for the bonus had been received up to this afternoon. The applications are coming in at the rate of about 15,000 a day, and by the close of business tomorrow will probably aggregate 1,800,000.

The approximate number of persons who may make claims is 5,250,000, though many of these are ineligible for various reasons. The number of men who performed actual military service was 4,061,606. Consequently, less than half of those who performed service have so far applied for the benefits of the Bonus law.

The mere fact that a veteran may have refused to accept the bonus is not yet final, and will not bar him or his heirs from filing claims under the act until after Jan. 1, 1928.

If the application is not made before that date the claim will be held to be void. Veterans, therefore, will have three years after Jan. 1 in which to file their applications, and any refusal made by a veteran before that date may be withdrawn by himself or his heirs until that time.

The War Department, which faces the huge administrative task of handling the provisions of the Adjusted Compensation act, has for some time been distributing application blanks for the use of veterans. Fifteen million application blanks have been printed and arrangements made for their distribution through the Post Office Department, the American Legion and various military and civic societies.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 12.—At the close of business tonight, according to Controller James W. Fleming, $34,000,000 of the $45,000,000 provided for the State soldier bonus had been paid.

$1 GAS LAW INVALID, MASTER DECLARES

James G. Graham Issues Tentative Report Declaring Rate Confiscatory.

STATE ATTACKS FINDING

Attorney General's Assistant Mentions What He Declares Are Errors in Calculation.

James G. Graham, the special master appointed to take testimony in the litigation instituted by the gas companies to make ineffective the dollar gas law, has completed a tentative report, in which he sustains the contention of the companies that the law is confiscatory and unconstitutional. A similar report was made several months ago by Mr. Graham in relation to two subsidiaries of the Consolidated, the Queens Gas Company and the Bronx Gas and Electric Company.

Mr. Graham's report consists of 150 printed pages of figures and facts relating to the gas industry in this city. Hearings in the case were concluded last August. Mr. Graham has set Dec. 22 as the time when the counsel engaged in the proceeding may appear before him and make their objections. James A. Donnally, a special assistant to the Attorney General, said that it would be impossible to make a satisfactory digest of the report in so short a period, and expressed surprise that more time had not been accorded. He said:

"I shall ask for an extension of time because it is impossible to go through this report and prepare a synopsis in less than a month. The report is necessarily involved and contains computations of numerous tabulations of complicated figures—the cost of manufacture and distribution of gas, the original and reproduction costs of the plant of the company and similar matters.

12,000 Pages of Testimony.

"The hearings have been going on for five months, during which 12,000 pages of testimony have been taken, and approximately 1,000 exhibits have been submitted. The hearings were closed on Aug. 1 and Mr. Graham, presumably, has devoted the intervening time to preparing his report. To give counsel only a little more than a week to file objections seems unfair. I must carefully study the report in order to gather from it the basis on which the master reached his conclusions."

Mr. Graham finds not only that a dollar rate would be confiscatory, but that it would also be confiscatory to compel the company to furnish a quality of gas of 650 British thermal units, and that the $1.15 rate fixed by the Public Service Commission fails to yield a reasonable return on the investment. The dollar rate, he states, would not have yielded more than 3.4 per cent. on the investment at any time since the law was enacted, and only 2.5 per cent. on the present value of the property.

He also finds that the bare operating expenses of the company were 85.89 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas in 1922, 82.43 in 1923 and at least 80.76 at the present time. Taking these costs as a basis the master finds that in order to obtain an 8 per cent. return on the investment the price of gas should be substantially more than $1.25 per thousand cubic feet. The total reproduction cost of the property used in the service, the master states, is $162,559,217.63, and the total actual investment is at least $99,159,763.77. The present value of the property he finds to be $134,080,162.10. The company is allowed $9,000,000 for growing value, $7,781,000 for franchises, and $6,500,000 for working capital.

Says Unused Plants Were Included.

Commenting on the findings, Mr. Donnelly said that the master had included in the property of the company on which a return should be earned property that was not used in the service.

"As a concrete example of this," he explained, "an attempt was made in 1920 before the special master in the company's litigation then to include in the property the old coal-gas plants in Fourteenth and Forty-second Streets, North River, which had not been used for years. Federal Judge Learned Hand threw these parcels out, on the ground that the company was not entitled to include them. But Mr. Graham includes them in his present report. In June, 1923, both these properties were sold to the New York Edison Company, which is controlled by the Consolidated."

William Ransom of counsel for the Consolidated Company said:

"Although the special master has decided several of the controversial questions sharply against the company and has given the defendants the benefit of every reasonable doubt, the confiscatory character of the $1 rate is shown beyond all dispute, as is also the unwise and dangerous character of the 650 B. T. U. requirement.

"As to the amount of operating cost, extent of useful property and their present value, the special master has adopted a nicely conservative and minimum basis of decision. Actually the companies' costs are higher than he found, and the company uses some properties of which he excluded a part."

GOMPERS IS BETTER, BUT STILL VERY LOW

Removal From Higher Altitudes Brings Improvement, but Condition Is Unfavorable.

HE ARRIVES IN SAN ANTONIO

Is Taken to a Hotel There to Await His Personal Doctor, Called From New York.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 12.—Samuel Gompers's condition was pronounced unfavorable in a bulletin issued tonight by Dr. Lee Rice of San Antonio, who was called into consultation. Mr. Gompers arrived here this afternoon soon after 5 o'clock after a forty-six-hour ride from Mexico City.

The following bulletin was issued at 9:35 o'clock tonight on the condition of Mr. Gompers:

> Samuel Gompers's condition is practically unchanged, but the lower altitude may have a favorable influence, and it is hoped he will have a comfortable night. The condition is still grave.
> Dr. W. B. RUSH,
> Dr. W. S. HANSON.

Dr. Rice, however, at the conclusion of the thirty minute consultation, told newspaper men that he felt Mr. Gompers was in little danger of approaching an immediate crisis. Mr. Gompers, he said, felt somewhat refreshed.

Most of the party were to remain in San Antonio only a few hours, expecting to depart for the East tonight. Dr. Rice said it would require several days' rest before any improvement could be brought about in Mr. Gompers's condition. He said a further consultation would be held and bulletins issued.

"At this hour Mr. Gompers is greatly debilitated from effects of an excessive altitude," according to a statement given out by Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, after consultation with Dr. W. S. Cockrell, who has attended Mr. Gompers since leaving Mexico City.

"His condition is much improved over last night," Mr. Morrison said. "He is taking adequate nourishment. His temperature is normal and his pulse ranged from 85 to 90."

Quotes Physician's Bulletin.

Mr. Morrison quoted Dr. Cockrell as follows:

"President Samuel Gompers is suffering from a condition which has been acute for about a year and a half. This was aggravated by the altitude of Mexico City. On Saturday it became urgent that he be removed. The beginning of the journey was made under great strain. There was little improvement in Mr. Gompers's condition after leaving the crest of Central Mesa last night. With the descent to a lower altitude there was gradual, continuous improvement."

Secretary Morrison said that Mr. Gompers probably would remain in San Antonio for two or three days, or until his condition warrants continuation of the trip East.

Every possible attention and courtesy were shown Mr. Gompers in Mexico City, his friends said. President Calles went to the station to bid him farewell and to see if there was anything he could do for the departing guest. Luis N. Morones, Secretary of the Mexican Department of Industry, also was at the station.

A great throng greeted Mr. Gompers as he was taken off the train, despite the fact that his coach was halted in the yards, several blocks from the passenger station. A moving picture camera man attempted to take pictures of the stretcher as it was being passed slowly through the rear door of the car and carried to a waiting ambulance, but the crowd prevented it.

Mr. Gompers was taken immediately to a local hotel, where he will remain until a change comes. His nurse, Miss Mathilda May of Atlantic City, who has been attending him since his illness of last August, stated that she believed the rest at the hotel and the more familiar atmosphere of San Antonio would bring her patient back to normal in a few days.

Await Personal Physician.

Mr. Gompers's personal physician, Dr. Julius Auerbach of New York, who was telegraphed for, was said to be on his way to San Antonio to take charge of the patient. Dr. Cockrell said he was anxious to consult with Dr. Auerbach and to get some relief from the constant vigil he has kept day and night for the past few days. Dr. Cockrell said that if Mr. Gompers had remained six hours

HYLAN NOW DECIDES TO AID, NOT RESIST, THE TRANSIT INQUIRY

One of His Advisers Says That Smith Assured Mayor of Fair Treatment.

GOVERNOR IN THE CITY

Denies That His Visit Has Anything to Do With the McAvoy Investigation.

CITY'S COUNSEL INCREASED

Louis Lande to Assist Max D. Steuer—Formal Notice of Hearing Read to Estimate Board.

Despite Mayor Hylan's assertion that he would participate in the transit investigation to be conducted by Justice John V. McAvoy "only to the extent required by law," the City Administration has abandoned any intention of trying to thwart the inquiry and will give at least a measure of cooperation.

This was learned yesterday from a city official who is one of the advisers of the Mayor, and the change of attitude was said to have been brought about by word from Governor Smith that there was no intention to treat the City Administration unfairly in the inquiry and that the charges brought by the Board of Estimate against George McAneny, Le Roy T. Harkness and General John F. O'Ryan, the members of the Transit Commission, would not be lost sight of by the investigator.

Information to this effect was said to have been conveyed to the Mayor by John H. Delaney, Chairman of the City Board of Transportation, who called upon Governor Smith at Albany this week. When word of this reached the Mayor and his advisers, they were said to have decided that it might be the best policy to cooperate in the investigation, particularly as study of the law had convinced the Mayor's counsel that there was no way to stop it or even to prevent Justice McAvoy from requiring city officials to testify on all matters pertaining to transit.

Governor Smith arrived in town yesterday afternoon, but said his arrival had nothing to do with transit. The Governor declined to discuss the transit investigation, saying that it had passed out of his hands with his appointment of Justice McAvoy.

Still Some Dissatisfaction.

Although the word from the Governor was considered somewhat reassuring by the city officials, they were said still to be dissatisfied with the Governor's course in directing a transit inquiry under the Moreland act instead of placing the Transit Commissioners on trial on the charges and to believe that the scope of the investigation might require explanations of the Board of Estimate's action in transit matters, which the Transit Commissioners will undoubtedly contend has resulted in serious delays in the construction of new subways.

The employment of Max D. Steuer as special counsel for the Board of Estimate and Edmund L. Mooney as special counsel for the Board of Transportation was said to have been a precautionary measure, designed to protect the Mayor and other members of the Board of Estimate from attack by the Transit Commission and to defend them on any charges the Commissioners might make.

Further reinforcement of the city's legal staff was made yesterday when Louis Lande, a lawyer with offices at 290 Broadway, was appointed as a Special Assistant Corporation Counsel to assist and cooperate with Mr. Steuer and Mr. Gordon. Mr. Lande lives at 126 Claremont Avenue and was Chairman of Local Draft Board 146 during the World War period.

A conference of the City Administration's array of counsel, including Mr. Steuer, Mr. Mooney, Mr. Lande, Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson and Harry A. Gordon, named as special counsel to the Board of Estimate in transit matters before the retention of Mr. Steuer, will be held today or tomorrow to consider a plan of action.

LEAGUE NEEDS US, BRIAND DECLARES

America's Entrance Would Give It Effectiveness in Preventing Wars, He Says.

HE EXPECTS US IN SOON

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 12.—"The League of Nations will become great and powerful only when America enters it," said Aristide Briand, former Premier of France, to American newspaper men after today's sitting of the League of Nations Council, on which he represents France, and he then proceeded to make a strong appeal for American assistance in arbitrating wars out of existence.

"I think that it is merely a matter of time, because after all to send 3,000,000 soldiers across the ocean to fight is far more difficult than to send a few representatives to an arbitral court to discuss."

"At present the absence of the United States is the League's greatest weakness, and progress will be checked till this grave deficiency has been remedied. When America eventually enters—as she will eventually enter—the League will indeed become universal and all-powerful in settling conflicts between nations, and will receive that last impetus it requires to become what it was in the late President Wilson's dreams."

Declaring that both he and France have the greatest faith in the future of the League, M. Briand went on to state that he does not see any valid reasons for wishing America out of it, and that he is pleased to notice that no very serious opposition to the League exists in America.

"I believe that the League is perfectly in line with American sentiment and ideals," he continued. "America has always been a strong believer in arbitration and common sense as preventatives of wars, and in this connection I need only mention President Wilson's offer of mediation at the height of the most bloody period of the World War. When he made that proposal he was backed by the consent and support of almost all American citizens, who cannot now remain indifferent in the face of the attempt to apply the principles which inspired Mr. Wilson's action whenever the peace of the world is threatened.

Says We Cannot Stay Out Long.

"America by its wonderful generosity, by its marvelous willingness to relieve distress and suffering, has proved to the world that its reserves of human sympathy and charity are inexhaustible. This means, in other words, that the American people are naturally sympathetic toward the League and cannot long keep out."

Asked how he thought America could be induced to enter the League, he replied:

"Time is our greatest ally. Give time and you will see. I remember that when I signed the Pacific convention in Washington I thought that this was another little League of Nations. I visualized this little league taking contact with the other League and gradually forming a bridge to carry America to Geneva. This has not happened, but we see that America is always ready and willing to send its experts to advise and collaborate with us on any technical question. This is already much, but for us French it is not enough, as we ardently desire to see America enter the League.

"Perhaps at some later date America

FIRM NOTE ASSERTS OUR CLAIM TO SHARE IN DAWES PAYMENTS

LONDON SEEKS COMPROMISE

COOLIDGE BARS ARBITRATION

LONDON, Dec. 12.—An American note in reply to British representations concerning American claims on Germany was received this morning at the Foreign Office. It has not been published, but it is understood to contain the detailed answer of the American Government to the legal contentions put forward by the British, and indicates that Washington sees no reason for altering its position.

Great reticence is maintained here concerning the controversy, pains being taken to suggest that it deals merely with business details of arrangements between the two countries which will undoubtedly be settled amicably as soon as both sides have made clear their points of view.

The London Times says the United States Government in the note maintains its claim against the British arguments, "the only concession being consent of the Government of the United States to place ex-enemy property held in the United States under wartime legislation in the common reparation pool."

One point raised unofficially here concerns the auditing of American claims. The British claims on Germany for damages and personal injuries, it is pointed out, have been reviewed by the Reparation Commission and have been scaled down under its direction. The United States, however, as it is not a party to the Treaty of Versailles, has naturally not submitted the claims of its nationals to that commission. It is therefore suggested that a considerable step would be made toward settlement if the United States could find it feasible, without impugning its rights under its separate treaty with Germany, to submit its claims for review by the machinery which considered similar claims of the British and French under the Treaty of Versailles.

So far it appears neither Government has gone beyond submitting to the other its strict legal view of its rights, but it seems likely that a compromise may be sought by raising such points as this.

Note Awaits Chamberlain's Return.

LONDON, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—The American reply to the British note of Dec. 4 will not be touched until the arrival of Foreign Secretary Chamberlain from Rome. Mr. Chamberlain is expected to reach London on Saturday night.

The Foreign Secretary will probably appear in the House of Commons on Monday or Tuesday to answer questions relating to foreign affairs. After this question period he is likely to consider the American note and present it to a Cabinet meeting on Wednesday.

It is generally believed the Cabinet will adhere to the policy that, while claims in connection with the occupation forces and property losses will be admitted, the British Government will hesitate to make an agreement previous to the Paris meeting of Finance Ministers as to payments to the United States.

Notes Are Said to Be "Firm."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Announcement was made at the State Department today that the American reply to Great Britain's note in which that Government objected to our participation in the Dawes plan proceeds to settlement of claims due us from Germany had been dispatched last night and that it had been delivered by Ambassador Kellogg to the British Foreign Office. The texts of both the British note and Secretary Hughes's reply will be made public simultaneously.

Meanwhile it has become known that the British note was quite firm and that the reply of the American Government, drafted by Secretary Hughes, is equally firm, though couched in cordial language.

The American reply firmly supports the well-known position of the American Government, that the United States has every right accorded to the Allied and Associated Powers to make its objections from Germany under the Dawes plan.

A suggestion that the American contention should be referred to an international court of arbitration was considered favorably in high official circles today.

It was evident from what was said at the White House by a spokesman for the President that President Coolidge feels the position of the United States with regard to the manner and source of payment of these claims, when adjudicated by the Mixed Claims Commission now sitting in Washington, is perfectly clear and plain as well as fair and equitable, and does not require any change.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—A Russian woman, widow of an American named Dickson, of New York, was arrested yesterday in front of the Russian Embassy, armed with a revolver with which she said she intended to shoot M. Krassin, the new Soviet Ambassador to France.

Special police constantly guard the entrance to the Embassy, and one of these, noticing a woman loitering about at a time when M. Krassin was expected to leave the Embassy, spoke to her in Italian. She answered in the same language, and asked when the Ambassador was likely to leave. The policeman's suspicions were aroused by the fact that she kept her hand hidden in her sleeve, and he seized it and found that it held a loaded revolver.

When examined, the woman declared her intention to kill M. Krassin.

"It is shameful," she said, "to see him here in Paris. If some one doesn't kill him he will kill others. He will cause a revolution in France, as in Russia. I want to kill him to spare this country the horrors I have seen. In Russia I saw my own brother killed. The famine was terrible. Mothers ate their children, and I want to spare France these horrors.

Mrs. Dickson said she was born near Odessa in 1883 and her maiden name was Marie Erguewiews. She was married in New York to Mr. Dickson, who has since died. She has been working here two months on an evening newspaper. When arrested she was found to have forty-two cartridges in her handbag.

This afternoon M. Krassin paid his first official visit to the President of the Republic to present his credentials. In accordance with instructions by the Soviet Government that its Ambassadors should avoid pomp, the Ambassador refused to be attended by the escort of French cavalry usual on such occasions, and drove to the Elysée in a hired automobile.

Rumors had been current in the past few days among Russian exiles that M. Krassin wouldn't get so far as to present his credentials. Moscow was in the first place displeased by the action of the French Government in expelling so many Communists from the country, and secondly by the attitude of M. Herriot in the Chamber. M. Krassin himself received a rebuke because immediately on his arrival he hastened to inform the French Government that he had nothing to do with the return of Jacques Sadoul, who had been sent back by Zinovieff personally.

M. Krassin declared that the aim of his mission would be to reaffirm the relations of friendship "so happily reestablished between the two peoples, and develop and consolidate an intense economic collaboration."

To this President Doumergue replied that such was the wish also of the French people, who already had given many proofs of sincere friendship for the Russian people.

German and Italian Towns Are Shaken By Earthquake Which Does Much Damage

FRANKFORT, Germany, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Reports from Reutlingen and other points in Southern Germany say that the Swabian Alp region has been visited by an earthquake which heavily damaged numerous houses at Pfleishausen, Etsingen and Mittelstadt. Two shocks moving in an eastward direction terminated in the Lake Constance region.

FREIBURG, Germany, Dec. 12.—A light earth shock was felt in the Black Forest region, manifesting itself chiefly in the rattling of windows. At Stuttgart the shock is estimated to have lasted twenty seconds.

ROME, Dec. 13.—Earthquake shocks at Trieste, Fiume, Friuli and in the Venetian Provinces today caused considerable damage, but thus far no casualties have been reported.

While roofs fell and walls toppled in many places, the gravest damage was reported to the cathedral at Tremezzo. Telegraphic and telephone communications were interrupted.

UDINE, Italy, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—An earthquake shock was felt at 4:20 o'clock this morning at Tolmezzo, twenty-five miles northwest of here, at the foot of the Carnic Alps. Several houses were damaged. There were no casualties.

PADUA, Italy, Dec. 12.—An earthquake occurred here at 4:30 o'clock this morning. It is estimated that the centre of the disturbance was 150 kilometers distant. No damage was reported.

tion payments under the Dawes plan and that therefore Washington's refusal to accept London's objections does not advance matters.

French, Belgians and Italians will probably be found in accord that their agreement to the American demand can be of no avail without an English agreement.

It is argued here that the issue is not one which can be decided by a majority vote of the Reparations Commission, since under Paragraph 13, Annex II., Article VIII of the Treaty of Versailles such a decision is indicated as one on which unanimity is required and not among those questions which, like the default of Germany, could be decided by a majority vote. Furthermore, it is stipulated in the London agreement that the Governments are to decide on the distribution of the proceeds of the Dawes plan 400, naturally, in all conferences of Ministers of sovereign Governments, unanimity is necessary.

It is recognized here that an argument can be based on the provision in the Dawes plan that the payments it stipulates shall represent the total of all demands on Germany by the allied and associated powers and also the provision in the London agreement that Dawes plan payments shall be distributed by the allied and associated powers. Against these two American points, it is contended that the American Government has nothing to do with the Dawes plan, and said so frequently, and therefore can search out no gain advantage from it, since the American members of the Dawes Committee did not represent Washington but were private citizens called upon by the Reparation Commission for advice. It is held that the Dawes plan represents a method adopted by the Reparation Commission to collect from Germany for the Allies under the Treaty of Versailles, and that because the Dawes plan stipulates no other claims may be made upon Germany, that does not bind the United States at all.

However, it is said here, that these two cited provisions of the Dawes plan and the London agreement constitute a much better base of support for the American claim than the argument about the equal validity of the Berlin treaty and American's right under it to enjoy any benefits it would have under ratification of the Versailles Treaty. This argument has never found any favor in European eyes.

French circles lay emphasis on the part in Finance Minister Clementel's statement last night, that while he had accepted in principle American participation in reparation payments he had given no agreement on the amount. This might indicate to the French intent to argue that their claims against Germany as fixed by the board on which they had one member out of five have been reduced more than half, and therefore it is only fair American claims should be cut.

One hears it said here that Washington is trying to play both ends against the middle, and while unwilling to shoulder any responsibility for making Germany pay, nevertheless wishes to share what others oblige her to pay. This brings the conclusion that the right thing for America to do is to take a full role in the Reparations Commission in order to obtain the share she wishes in the commission's collections. The French ask what America intends to do in case her claim is granted and Germany default again. However, so far as they are concerned, the French insist they are ready to allow the American claim if the other Allies will. Having said that they intend to keep clear of the debate between Washington and London.

PARIS, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Jan. 6 has been definitely fixed as the day for the conference of allied Foreign Ministers which is to consider the distribution of payments received from Germany since Jan. 1, 1925, and the receipts under the Dawes reparations plan.

James A. Logan, American observer with the Reparation Commission, will represent the United States.

DR. ELIOT URGES JEWS TO UPHOLD TRADITIONS

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 12.—Intermarriage with Christians and abandonment of the traditions of their race are two evils seriously threatening the Jewish race today, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, told the Harvard Zionist Society here today.

Dr. Eliot said that the Jews had not in the past been assimilated by other races and that they should not be, but should keep their race individuality in America just as the Irish have done.

"I have noticed with regret, said Dr. Eliot, "the increasing tendency of Jews to marry Christians. I have had a long observation of such intermarriages between peoples who are not kindred, and I have never known them to turn out well. I hope that you Jews will consider that.

"What we want in this country is a number of races, with various gifts, each contributing its own peculiar quantities to the common welfare."

In substantiating his theories, President Eliot spoke of the emigration of the Irish to America, declaring that the Irish "have never been assimilated in America, anywhere, and that it is not desirable that they should be. So it should be with the Jews."

"Americans," President Eliot continued, "do not expect to assimilate any foreign people, even the Jews. It seems that non-assimilation is better for the future of the nation."

During several visits to New York, President Eliot said, he noticed the tendency among young Jewish people to disregard the customs of their parents. He mentioned a luncheon at Columbia where three Jewish couples ordered dishes which seemed selected for the sole purpose of showing their independence of their religion and added that their conversation partook of the same spirit.

"This tendency is unfortunate, not only for Jewish people but for all other people," he declared. "It sets a bad example for all of us."

President Eliot deplored the internal division of the Jewish race. He favored a portion of Palestine for the Jews. The physical well-being of the race there might be improved by the adoption of muscular occupations, he said.

SOUTH AFRICA SEEKS TO ANNEX TWO STATES

Hertzog Wants Bechuanaland and Swaziland Incorporated Into the Union.

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Dec. 12.—Developments toward incorporating the whole of Bechuanaland Protectorate into the Union of South Africa are imminent, the Johannesburg Star is informed. A definite move in this direction, it says, will be one of the first matters to engage the attention of Parliament at its coming session.

Premier Hertzog is said to have told a deputation from the Protectorate which recently waited upon him that he thought the time had arrived to consider the incorporation of Bechuanaland and also Swaziland into the Union, and that he would obtain the British Government's views on the subject.

Bechuanaland Protectorate, which has been within the British sphere since 1885, comprises about 275,000 square miles and had a population at the time of the 1921 census of 152,988, including 1,743 Europeans.

Swaziland lies at the southeast corner of the Transvaal and is administered by the High Commissioner for South Africa. It covers 6,678 square miles and the 1921 census was 134,582, of whom 2,500 were Europeans.

WICKERSHAM TO AID WORLD LAW DRAFT

League Council Formally Names Internationally Known Jurists to Make Official Code.

APPROVAL EXPECTED HERE

Ex-Attorney General Cites Government Action Backing Idea—Italy for Protocol Delay.

ROME, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—The Council of the League of Nations today formally adopted a resolution regarding the formation of a committee to take charge of the codification of international law. The resolution invited the following to form the committee:

Dr. K. H. L. Hammarskjold, former Swedish Premier and Governor of the Province of Upsala, to Chairman; Professor Giulio Diena of the University of Turin, Vice Chairman; Professor James Leslie Brierly of Oxford, Henri Fromageaot, Counselor to the French Foreign Office; M. Matsuda, Japanese Chargé d'Affaires at Paris; George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General of the United States; Dr. Barnard C. J. Loder, Holland, former President of the International Court of Justice; Professor Charles de Visscher of the law faculty of the University of Ghent; Dr. Chung Hui-wern of China, Deputy Judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice; Professor Walker Schucking, Professor of Law at the University of Berlin; Dr. Vilhena Barbosa de Magalhaes, Professor of Law at the University of Lisbon; Sir Simon Rundstean, founder of the Polish International Law Association; Dr. José Leon Suarez, Dean of the Faculty of Political Science of the University of Buenos Aires; Dr. J. Gustavo Guerrero, Salvadorean Minister in Paris, and Dr. Adelbert Mastny, Czechoslovakian Minister in London.

The Council, which devoted considerable time today looking to a settlement of the vexatious Danzig question, is expected to conclude its work tomorrow.

Chamberlain Leaves for Home.

"My sympathy with Italy has been quickened and strengthened by personal contact with her statesmen and people," said Mr. Chamberlain in a good-bye statement to the newspaper men. "I shall carry home increased respect for the League of Nations and additional confidence in its future.

"What is the spirit of the League itself that my conversations with the heads of the Governments in Rome and Paris have been conducted. Do not let us expect too much of them, but let us not on the other hand belittle their real usefulness. What attempt is ever ready-made solution of great problems which only time, patience and good-will can resolve. But, alike in Paris and Rome, we have sought to develop points of agreement and remove points of difficulty so that our three nations may remain in peace that close friendship and perfect understanding which united them amid the sufferings and glories of our heroic years."

Premier Mussolini's declaration in the Senate that former Premier Salandra did the right thing in not signing the Geneva peace protocol was interpreted as further indication that the protocol must be carefully revised if it is hoped to obtain the ratification of Great Britain and Italy.

Wickersham Accepts Post.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—George W. Wickersham of New York, former Attorney General of the United States, expressed gratification today over the announcement that he had been appointed a member of the League of Nations Advisory Committee for the Codification of International Law and announced his acceptance of the post.

"I feel it is a rare privilege," said Mr. Wickersham, "to be given the opportunity of collaborating with such an eminent group of jurists for the purpose of taking preliminary steps in the direction of the further codification of international law. This work has received constant support from the American Government, regardless of party lines, and it appears to be a matter in which America can cooperate heartily with the League of Nations without danger of complications or misunderstandings.

"Indeed, our Government is, I believe, now cooperating with those of the South American countries which are to meet shortly at Lima for the same purpose. All of these efforts, as well as those of the American Society of International Law, are directed toward a common end.

"The codification of international law is a problem in which this country has always taken a peculiar interest. We were among the chief supporters of The Hague conferences, which made decided progress in handling this question in pre-war days, largely under the inspiration of President Roosevelt. It is, moreover, a matter on which a distinguished representative of this country, Mr. Elihu Root, has already cooperated with a commission of the League of Nations, the commission which drafted the statute for the International Court in 1920.

"That commission recommended a general program for the codification of international law. The League did not see fit to put it into execution at the time, but it went on with the work of codification through the adoption of international conventions on specific questions, such as the white slave traffic, labor conditions, rail and water transportation. The experience of the last four years has led the way to further developments, and our committee will consider in what other fields the codification of international law may usefully take place.

"It is a tremendous task, and I feel that the League is tackling it in a very sensible manner by dealing with special subjects squarely rather than by attempting to write the law of the world in its entirety at one time. Our committee does not represent Governments. We are only technical advisers to the League. It will be for the Governments to decide later on as to the effect to be given to our proposals."

DAIL IS DEADLOCKED OVER 'WET' MARCH 17

Senate Persists in Its Efforts to Make St. Patrick's Day 'Dry.'

DUBLIN, Dec. 12.—The question of whether St. Patrick's Day, March 17, shall be wet or dry has caused a deadlock in the Dail Eireann and the Free State Senate over the Government's compromise liquor bill. The Senate today persisted in its decision to insist on the reinsertion in the bill of a provision making St. Patrick's Day dry. This provision had been struck out by the Dail.

The Senate is not empowered to change the measure, but its action probably will have the legal effect of holding up the Bill nine months, thus permitting St. Patrick's Day next year to be as moist as usual. Meanwhile temperance is becoming as active and political issue, reformers insisting on a popular referendum on the liquor bill.

Enright Honored in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12.—Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner of New York City, arrived here this evening from Brazil. He was received at the pier by Buenos Aires police officials who brought along the police band for the occasion. An elaborate eight-day program of festivities and sight-seeing tours has been arranged.

SOVIET NOW SEEKS AID OF THE INTELLIGENTSIA

Need of Engineers and Technical Experts in Industry Brings Offer of Reconciliation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—Among the problems now facing Russia in her economic re-establishment program, the existing diversity between engineers and other technical specialists on the one hand, and the working masses on the other, plays a great part. This difference is sharply manifesting itself in industry, where scientists and technicians are coming closely in contact with the workingmen, Communists and trade union officials.

The present campaign to raise the productivity of labor in connection with the reconstruction of certain State industries has driven home the fact that it is indispensable to create a scientific and technical personnel at works and factories, with positions which would enable them to exert their influence over matters connected with production and organization.

The existing strained relations between the technical specialists and the Soviet authorities, which is a direct outcome of the earlier weeding-out policy of the Government during the first years of the revolution, are but slowly dispersing. Several conferences of professional bodies which have taken place in Moscow in the last few months were concerned with bridging over the previous misunderstandings and finding a common ground. The Government, holding out the olive branch, invited the intelligentsia to take the most active part in production and consolidation, the Soviet régime promising to forgive their earlier hostility.

At a conference of the Association of Engineers held this week M. Bokharin, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and editor of the Pravda, spoke of the necessity of greater contact between politicians and technical specialists, who, he said, should learn from each other, referring to the Soviet's economic policy in the early days of the revolution. He said:

"We began with a moderate economic program, which afterward became radical, not because of changes in our views but owing to objective conditions lying outside our power which have forced us to act differently. We were besieged politically and had, therefore, to resort to 'siege' economics.

"Only now we realise that the country was saved, thanks to these economic measures."

The Supreme Economic Council has passed a resolution stating that the solving of the present industrial problems could only be attained by the full and active support of technical specialists. It therefore urged that proper conditions should be created by the authorities, permitting engineers and other specialists to carry out their work.

BELGIUM ARRANGES $100,000,000 LOAN HERE

Morgan Representatives Conclude Work in Brussels—Interest Will Be 7½ Per Cent.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 12.—The Belgian Government's negotiations for two loans from the United States have reached a successful conclusion, representatives of J. P. Morgan, who have been in Brussels for the past few days, having come to an agreement with the representative of Ministry of Finance and the Banque National.

The amount of the loan will be $100,000,000, of which half will be forthcoming at once and the remaining half at the beginning of the new year. The rate of interest will be 7½ per cent., which is regarded in Belgium financial circles as very advantageous to Belgium.

A loan for the account of the Belgian Government is expected to be floated in the New York market within the next two or three weeks. Actual flotation of the bonds, it was explained yesterday, is awaiting the Belgian Parliament's approval of the offering. No action by Parliament has been taken thus far, and it is assumed by bankers that the final agreement as to terms and the like of the proposed offering would not be concluded until the proper authorities have taken official action on the matter.

POST OFFICE IN LONDON IS ROBBED IN THE FOG

Scotland Yard Uses Wireless-Equipped Car in Hunt for Bandits —Thieves Continue Harvest.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Motor bandits early this morning raided a post office in the St. Pancras district and escaped with mail bags, variously estimated at from sixteen to a hundred. The raid was made while a large extra staff of postal employes was dealing with the heavy Christmas traffic. The exact value of the loot is not known. Scotland Yard forces are using a special wireless-equipped car to track down the robbers.

This is only one of numerous incidents in the crime wave of considerable proportions which has recently been sweeping London and the surrounding country, causing the police authorities great trouble. Reinforcements of police and detectives seem unable to intimidate the criminals, who, during the past few days, have been added to in making their escapes by the extremely heavy fog.

DEFINES POLICY ON IRELAND

Britain Tells League That Treaty Is a Domestic Affair.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 12.—Great Britain has addressed an observation to the League which is likely to cause much discussion between her Government and those of the self-governing Dominions and at the next Assembly. The observation is to the effect that the League is not concerned with and not empowered to discuss or take action with regard to relationships within the British Empire. This opinion was expressed in regard to registering the Anglo-Irish Treaty with the Secretariat of the League in July.

Immediately after the arrival in power of the Conservative Government, England sent a note to the League saying that the treaty could not be registered. The League responded that it was already registered. The second note, received today, stated that it had always been the view of his Majesty's Government that no article of the covenant, nor any convention subsequently concluded under League auspices, can apply to relations between any parts of the British Empire. Consequently it does not consider the Anglo-Irish Treaty can be registered.

This note is interpreted to mean that the British Government intends to make it clear for the future that the British Empire's relations are internal affairs and that the British Empire is a closed corporation to outside interference.

CLEARS CABINET OUTLOOK

Coalition Based on Right Parties Now Seems Unlikely—Nationalists Become Suddenly Silent.

By T. R. YBARRA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—Though the final solution of Germany's Cabinet crisis has been postponed until next week, the political skies have cleared up sufficiently to justify the following two statements:

When Chancellor Marx said yesterday that he would not assume responsibility for forming a new Government including the Nationalists he not merely spoke for himself personally but for the Centrist Party as a whole.

Chancellor Marx's stand makes improbable the formation of any Government including the Nationalists and means either a continuance of the present Government coalition—Centrists, People's Party and Democrats—or the extension of that coalition leftward so as to include the Socialists, the most powerful party in the new Reichstag.

Either of those solutions would undoubtedly mean the continuation of German governmental support for the Dawes plan and for a policy of conciliation toward the Entente. Above all, either would mean a continuation of the pleasanter international atmosphere created by the London compact and the passage of the Dawes plan laws in the Reichstag last August. This atmosphere would be bound to suffer if the Nationalists participated in the new Government irrespective of whether they adhered to their ferocious anti-Dawes and anti-Entente election slogans.

Foreign Opinion Influences Republicans.

In Republican quarters here it is but too well understood that foreign public opinion is disinclined to differentiate between a wild Nationalist pro-monarchistic stump speaker and the same person when he has become a tamed and time-serving Reichstag member. Once a Nationalist always a Nationalist—so argue the German Republicans and so argue Entente observers of Germany's kaleidoscopic politics. They have not forgotten the fact that nearly half the Nationalist members of the Reichstag voted for the Dawes plan on Aug. 29 last because, beginning with Aug. 30, the Nationalist party began to attack as if the Dawes plan was a wicked scheme to enslave Germany and as if the Nationalists voting in its favor had merely done so in their sleep and thereupon awakened to become their normal Dawes-hating selves.

The German Republicans know the Nationalists are great hairsplitters who might after all accept the foreign policy of the present Government as a fait accompli and continue it with as good grace as possible if they were allowed to enter the new Government. But the fact remains that their entry, as the German Republicans hope, would cause great distrust in Entente countries. They think that a German government with Nationalists' participation would be construed there as a slap at the creators of the Dawes plan, the Paris Premier Herriot. It would probably, they fear, arouse ex-Premier Poincaré from his enforced silence and start him off on a new series of weekly lectures against Germany.

As one political observer here puts it, the execution of the German Nationalist program would mean "a complete break with Europe, a revision of the Versailles Treaty, especially as regards disarmament, revision of the Dawes law and introduction of anti-Democratic, anti-Marx, anti-Semitic internal policy, with special favor for secret militaristic organizations planning war of revenge against the Entente—all this with the restoration of the German monarchy as the final goal.

"Belief that these are the true aims of the Nationalists, despite their periodical kotowing to expediency, is what will keep the Centrist Party from allowing the Nationalists in the next Government.

Nationalists Are Silent.

Republicans drew further encouragement from Nationalist silence. During the past twenty-four hours the Nationalists have indeed had little to say. Instead of talking politics, remarks one caustic Republican organ, the leading Nationalist daily, The Tageszeitung, devoted itself today to discussing "the fruit and vegetable growing."

The reason for this, as interpreted by anti-Nationalists, is that the Nationalists were told by Foreign Minister Stresemann and his fellow-members of the People's Party to believe that the Centrists would favor their entry into the Government, and are struck dumb by sudden fear that Centrists will do nothing of the sort.

While the Centrists thus hold the key to the entrance into the next Government, the Nationalists may, after all, soon feel grateful to them. Once inside the Government, they may not obstruct the Dawes plan and refrain from sabotaging the foreign policy of the Marx régime is also a possibility.

If Foreign Minister Stresemann, the crisis-maker of Germany, should realise his darling ambition of getting his Nationalist friends into the German Government, there will be plenty of people here inclined to ask him: "Why did you waste your time making the London compact and forcing through the Dawes plan?"

Alfonso's Deaf Son Treated Again.

BORDEAUX, France, Dec. 12.—Prince Jaime of Spain, second son of King Alfonso, has arrived here for treatment by Dr. Portmann. The Prince, who is sixteen years old, was born deaf and dumb. Operations and treatment by various specialists are reported to have had little effect on this condition.

FRENCH SAY DEBT IS THEIR AFFAIR

Cannot See Why Britain Should Object if America Gives Them Better Terms.

PARIS, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—There is a disinclination in French official circles to discuss the British attitude toward the settlement of interallied debts and the disposition shown in London to take an active interest in the prospective funding negotiations between France and the United States. There is no embarrassment, however, of the surprise caused by intimations that the United States cannot allow France more favorable terms than those granted Great Britain.

It is recalled that France was neither consulted nor informed when Premier Baldwin went to Washington to negotiate the funding of the British debt, and that the French Government learned of the terms on which the debt was settled through the press, although there were certain political considerations involved in British policy at that time that seriously interested France. Therefore, the French cannot now understand why the British Government should interest itself in the Franco-American settlement.

The French have become very sensitive on the question of the interallied debts since the reduction in their reparation claims, which they assert has come about largely through British and American influence, and have cut the amount they might expect from Germany from 68,000,000,000 marks to about 20,000,000,000 marks. The feeling in official circles is represented as being that of a conciliatory attitude taken toward Germany is to be repaid by interference whenever France has a chance of obtaining any compensating financial advantage. It is too much to expect that France will bear it with equanimity.

Premier Herriot, whose disposition since he took power has been conciliatory on all foreign questions, is represented as holding firmly while France, now as always, considers a debt is a debt and must be paid, there are nevertheless abundant reasons for recalling that the war debts differ in character and that special circumstances between different pots of the Allies make different conditions of settlement not only reasonable but in some cases necessary.

"It Will Not Do," Says London Paper.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Arguing that if the United States deals with all her debtors as it is proposed she will deal with France she will become the preferred creditor of Europe and Great Britain will be placed in an impossible position. The Daily Telegraph declares editorially, "It will not do."

The Telegraph says the preliminary American view on Churchill's speech as a party manoeuvre is wholly unfounded since any British Government would have spoken just the same way. It maintains that Poland has arranged to fund its debt to Great Britain on the same terms as the debt to the United States. It observes that whereas the United States did not hesitate to ask Great Britain to fund its debt to her though there were at the time 2,000,000 British unemployed, Great Britain has not pressed its claims in any quarter.

"The strength of the moral case of Great Britain," says The Telegraph, "is said to be generally admitted in the United States by those who understand the real position, and we lay stress on the moral case because American public opinion claims a special sensitiveness in with regard to moral issues of international questions. All we ask of America is to judge the case by her own best standards.

"It is most desirable, debtors should pay and it is right the creditor should have discretionary power to scale down obligations of a poor debtor according to capacity to pay. But as between two great nations like Great Britain and America there can be no just discrimination. And when the principal creditor nation is also by far the richest and has stacks of gold bullion which she cannot use and which actually, according to experts, operate to her disadvantage, is it enough merely to say 'business is business' and no other consideration can be admitted to the reckoning?"

JEST ON DEBTS AT DINNER.

Reed Tells British Ambassador We Don't Want to Be Euchred.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—An echo, in less serious tone, of the remarks of Senator Reed of Missouri, on the Senate floor yesterday concerning discussion in the British Parliament of the American French debt conversations provided sauceful entertainment for guests last night at the banquet of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, stating in his after-dinner remarks that he believed any differences between England and the United States could be settled "around the table in amicable fashion," added, smilingly, with a glance toward the Missouri Senator:

The Senator took up the challenge in good humor when his turn came.

"I know things can be settled around the table as you say, Mr. Ambassador," he said, "but I want to be assured that you won't euchre us. I am not so confident of the ability of our diplomats when they go up against the experience and training that you British round-table talkers have."

POLAND TO PAY BRITAIN.

Debt of £5,000,000 Will Be Wiped Out in Fifteen Years.

WARSAW, Dec. 12.—Two agreements regulating the payment of Poland's debt to Great Britain have been concluded in London after months of negotiations conducted by the Polish Minister, M. Skirmunt, and a special delegate from the Finance Ministry, M. Wojtkiewicz.

Under the arrangement, according to information reaching here, £5,000,000 will be paid by Poland within fifteen years in repayment of relief credits. The rate of interest will be diminished from 6 to 5 per cent., and the unpaid interest for the preceding years will be added to the total debt.

Other obligations of Poland to Britain, amounting to 5,000,000 slotys (about $1,000,000) also are to be funded.

LEAGUE NEEDS US, BRIAND DECLARES

may suggest some changes or modifications to be made in the League before she can enter. If she does she can rest assured that all her suggestions will be considered with the deference to which her importance in the world entitles her."

Says France Is for Protocol.

Speaking more particularly of the Geneva protocol, M. Briand stated that France believes in it strongly and will defend it to the utmost and try to induce as many nations as possible to accept it. It is certain to be approved by the French Parliament, he said, though it is possible that some reservations may be made against the possibility of it not being accepted by a majority of the nations.

"Obviously," he said, "France could not accept a protocol and disarm on the strength of it unless all the other nations did likewise."

He expressed his belief, however, that Britain, after thorough examination, will accept it and that the other nations will follow her lead.

"Whoever examines the protocol with his mind made up that wars can be prevented," he continued, "will be forced to admit that no measure that common sense can suggest to avoid wars has been neglected. I consider the Geneva protocol to be the most perfect device for the preventing of wars that the human mind has yet been able to devise, and I believe that not many years will pass before it is universally accepted and applied."

M. Briand also considers the day not far distant when Germany, too, will be a member of the League.

"She has too many questions to settle to be able long to remain outside," he said. "The case of Russia is somewhat different and her entrance into the League is more difficult. Russia has a system of government which is in direct opposition to the principles which inspire the League, and for this reason I do not see any likelihood of her entering for the present."

Cause an American Woman.

ROME, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Recalling his experiences at the Washington Conference, M. Briand said he had the impression in Washington that there was a kind of embargo on the League of Nations. He thought this Washington atmosphere would be produced to encircle the world, and he declared that if America was convinced that the Covenant of the League must be revised before the United States would enter the League, then all the powers certainly would agree to study the American suggestion.

The belief was expressed by M. Briand that time would satisfactorily settle the position of the United States toward the League and that American women would play a mighty rôle in this settlement.

"American women who lost sons in the Great War," declared M. Briand, "know that it is better to send three statesmen to Europe than to send three million soldiers."

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—A dispatch to The Japan Advertiser, an American newspaper published in Tokio, from its correspondent in Shanghai says that the best informed authorities believe that Sun Yat-sen will become the head of the Chinese Government at Peking within two weeks or less and that his first act will be to repudiate treaties with the foreign powers.

According to this dispatch, demonstrations have all been arranged to carry Dr. Sun into power, backed by General Feng and others, with 100,000 troops, and in cooperation with M. Karakhan, the Soviet Ambassador.

"Sun Yat-sen's first pronouncement," the dispatch continues, "will be the abolition of all treaties and disclaiming foreign financial obligations, following Lenin's methods. The opinion is that the Sun Yat-sen régime would be brief, but, even granting this, the difficulty will be to repair the damage in public favor."

PEKING, Dec. 12.—The Military Governors of Kiangsu and Anhwei provinces have been dismissed by mandate and replaced by nominees of the Provisional Government of Tuan Chi-jui. Both officials threaten to resist the orders from Peking but it is said to be doubtful whether their military forces will remain loyal to them. Efforts also are being made to squeeze out other Yangtse chieftains by their own subordinate officers.

Chang Tso-lin's Mukden force on the Chili section of the Pukow Railway are reported to be preparing for operations in the South. The situation in the Yangtse area is extremely confused and the only hopeful sign is that, except for the Governors concerned, all of the provinces involved are eager for peace and quiet.

The tension between Chang and Feng Yu-hsiang, the "Christian General," remains. Although Feng has been granted one month's sick leave, he persists in offering his resignation, which the Government apparently does not want to accept for fear of arousing his active opposition. Feng's partner in the Peking coup, Hu Ching-yi, has been appointed Military Governor of Honan Province, and now has about 40,000 troops there. It is said that he is trying to influence the large Shantung army, which at present is neutral, to go over to Feng. This concentration of Mukden troops may be a precautionary measure against possible developments in Shantung.

Chang has withdrawn all his troops from the neighborhood of the capital, but remains in Tientsin with an army of about 50,000 men within call, and is reasonably prepared to support Tuan in case of need. So long as Feng remains a doubtful quantity the power of the new Peking Government to impose its will seems certain to be limited elsewhere.

SOVIET HEADS DENY SHELVING OF TROTSKY

Insist That Ill Health Is the Only Reason for the War Minister's Departure.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Reports from abroad that War Minister Trotsky's imminent trip for his health really means exile are characterized in official quarters as wholly unfounded and as on par with extravagant stories circulated last year, after his retirement to Sukum, on the Black Sea, to build up his health.

The correspondent of The Associated Press was informed tonight by high authority that Trotsky's physical condition is so unsatisfactory to his doctors that they will probably insist that he recuperate in the Caucasus for at least six months.

No attempt was made here to deny that wide divergencies of opinion exist within the Communist Party between Trotsky and the Central Controlling Committee, nor to conceal the fact that the committee recently urged all Communist organizations to reject the war chief's ideas, but it was insisted that medical reasons alone had dictated Trotsky's temporary retirement.

The present movement against Trotsky for his views in his recent book is called only a "literary" campaign. A spokesman said that no attempt would be made to discuss Trotsky.

VON MALTZAN AIMS TO AID DAWES PLAN

New German Envoy Outlines Policy to Berlin Correspondents —Press Praises Appointment.

BERLIN, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Baron Ago von Maltzan, newly appointed German Ambassador to the United States, today received the American correspondents at the Foreign Office and told them of his pleasure in being assigned to represent his country in America.

"When I arrive in your beautiful country," he said, "I shall not fail to tell your countrymen that, owing to America's cooperation, Germany, on the basis of the Dawes plan, has started on the road to economic recovery and healthier conditions.

"I shall take up the task awaiting me in the spirit of having for my aim the carrying out of the Dawes plan."

He expressed himself as especially pleased with his appointment in view of his cordial personal relations with Secretary Hughes, Ambassador Houghton and Owen D. Young, former Agent General of Reparations. He expects to start for Washington about the middle of February, after remaining here at the Foreign Office through the present political crisis and later taking the cure near Dresden.

Referring to the commercial treaty with the United States which is still unratified by the Reichstag and Congress, Baron von Maltzan said that he expected early ratification but believed that the relations between the two countries were already running so smoothly as "between man and wife" and that a treaty was almost unnecessary.

The choice of Baron von Maltzan emphasizes the importance attached by the German Government to the Washington post remarks the Vossische Zeitung in commenting on the appointment. Von Maltzan, it says, is considered the ablest diplomat at the disposal of the Reich at the present time.

Germania also pays tribute to the new Ambassador's ability, and says his familiarity with all the questions of Germany's foreign policy, which he gained as Secretary of the Foreign Office, renders him especially capable to represent this country at Washington.

SAYS POWER OF WAR LIES WITH FINANCE

Prof. Soddy Urges Caution at London Anti-War Congress— Debt Question Is Discussed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Speaking at a "no more war" congress in London yesterday on the effect of monetary and credit systems and the problems of war, Professor Frederick Soddy said that behind Parliament, behind even the Throne, there was a great unseen power which could make war and peace and render a nation stagnant or prosperous—the power of finance. He said it was an invisible devil at work producing periodic outbursts of national fury, and unless the financial question was squarely faced it was quite likely that in the course of a generation this country would be fighting even America.

In a discussion on reparations and interallied debts, F. W. Hirst said a general settlement had been made difficult by the isolated settlement with America, and that the latter ignored the existence of other interallied debts and took no account of the fact that principal and interest had to be paid in gold unless America accepted British goods—and she would not—and also ignored the United States tariff, which after the agreement was signed was almost doubled against most classes of British goods.

He said that a nation which demanded war debts from another nation should facilitate payment, and not make it difficult.

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—In his first speech before a Japanese audience tonight Ambassador Bancroft made a plea for a closer understanding between the United States and Japan to dispel the suspicion and distrust which he said could only be removed by confidence and a true knowledge of the facts. The occasion was the welcome dinner given by the American-Japan Society in honor of the new American Ambassador, which was attended by many of the most prominent Japanese, including Prince Tokugawa, who presided, and Mr. Hanihara, the former Ambassador at Washington.

Ambassador Bancroft said that Japan counted more friends in America today than ever before.

"My message to you," he said, "is to have faith in Japan and America and to judge them by their past records and their fifty years of unbroken friendship and helpfulness."

Dr. Soyeda, a well-known banker and politician, speaking in behalf of the Japanese members, declared that Japan and the United States should guard against any possible conflict in the Far East by a closer understanding of their problems. He said that the two nations should not indulge in competitive armaments and should beware of precipitating a conflict. He also advocated closer cooperation to remove the present misunderstandings.

MOTHER OF CZAR DENOUNCES CYRIL

"court" of Duke Cyril at Coburg the report was called to the attention of the Grand Duchess, then a guest at the Waldorf-Astoria. He shrugged his shoulders and replied that the Grand Duke is always a Grand Duke, you know."

Grand Duchess at Mount Vernon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Grand Duchess Victoria Feodorovna, wife of Grand Duke Cyril of Russia, with the two ladies of her suite, Mme. Maharoff and Mme. Orloff, and Mrs. Henry P. Loomis of New York, by whose invitation the visitor made her present trip to America, were luncheon guests today of Mrs. George Marye, wife of a former Ambassador to Russia under the Imperial Government.

Mme. Riano, wife of the Spanish Ambassador, and Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British Ambassador, were among the sixteen additional guests invited to meet the visitor, who is the first member of the Russian royal family to visit America in fifty years.

Earlier in the day the Russian party made a motor trip to Mount Vernon, returning via Alexandria and Arlington, stopping a moment at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

At 5 o'clock the Grand Duchess and her party met a company of one hundred or more at Mrs. Lansing's, and later were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, where covers were laid for twenty-four. Here, as at Mrs. Marye's luncheon, there was a faint official flavor, as the Secretary of War and Mrs. Weeks, Senator and Mrs. Francis E. Warren and Senator McKinley were among the guests.

Mrs. Lansing's company was the largest of the day, with many personal friends included as well as the majority of the members of the Russian Relief Association.

Mrs. Chandler P. Anderson, whose husband was counselor of the State Department under Mr. Lansing, poured tea. Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant and Mme. Ekengren assisted in receiving.

Visitor Tells Her Impressions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The former Grand Duchess Alexandra Feodorovna, who arrived in Washington last night, held her first audience here today with newspapermen, who were summoned to her hotel by telephone calls, which members of her suite said must have come from her friends in Washington rather than from members of her party.

The consort of the aspirant to the throne of the Romanoffs graciously received the correspondents, shook hands cordially and pleasantly answered personal questions about first impressions of the national capital. Meanwhile Washington society leaders waited impatiently to escort the former Grand Duchess to Arlington and Mount Vernon.

Speaking her native language—English—with only a slight Russian accent, the visitor said she thought the light-flooded dome of the Capitol as she saw it upon her arrival last night was "beautiful and impressive."

Members of the New York police bomb squad who came to Washington passed a quiet night, and this morning explained that they were traveling strictly "incog," but that they could say no attempts had been made upon the life of the former Grand Duchess.

ARMS PARLEY CALL WAITS ON EUROPE

President Hopes Renewal of Interest in Plan There Will Warrant Invitation.

NO SIGNS OF CHANGE YET

COMPETITION IS COSTLY

Secretary Wilbur Shows Desirability of Limiting Navy Expansion Along Permitted Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Nothing has taken place to show a favorable prospect of bringing about an international conference for the further reduction of naval armaments, as advocated by President Coolidge, official Washington indicated today. While inquiries at the White House brought an expression of the hope that events might take such a turn as to justify a favorable reaction in Europe toward the President's desire, they gave no intimation that this hope had substantial foundation.

Opposition to holding such a conference in America was expressed publicly by Ramsay MacDonald, as head of the Labor Government of Great Britain, replies to the inquiries pointed out, and subsequent developments gave the belief that the British attitude found a sympathetic response on the Continent, with an indication that the subject was not likely to receive consideration by important nations in the near future, even should holding a conference on European ground be advocated.

Coolidge Waiting on Europe.

The present attitude of the United States, as explained by the White House spokesman, is one of waiting. Developments in Europe, he said, would determine the course of Mr. Coolidge, would enable him to decide whether he would be justified in issuing a call for another naval armament conference. The hope was expressed that it might be possible for him to issue a call next year.

Meantime naval officers are emphasizing that there is still much competition in naval development, costly to both the United States and nations setting the pace.

The situation was brought out by Secretary Wilbur this week when he appeared before Congress to discuss new construction and improvements for which he has asked appropriations. He explained that the last armament conference had left the construction of light cruisers, submarines, destroyers and destroyer leaders entirely unrestricted as to number, although light cruisers were restricted as to tonnage and size of guns.

"In view of the fact that enormous expansion of a navy of any power along lines permitted by the limitation of naval armament treaty," he said, "would have the effect of destroying the ratio, and that the only present method of keeping up the ratio is by competitive shipbuilding along such lines, it is obvious that an agreement limiting within reasonable bounds the exercise of this right would be desirable for all powers concerned."

In the meantime, the assertion is made that this country has been left behind, and even the enactment of the bill providing for construction of eight scout cruisers and six river gunboats, the latter for service in Chinese waters, does not afford much relief if compared with the efforts of certain other major naval powers.

The last official tabulation, which does not include the eight new cruisers just authorized, gives to the United States nine such vessels built and one building, as compared to Great Britain with forty-seven built and ten building, a total of fifty-seven, and Japan with eighteen built and ten building. This gives to the United States an actual ratio in light cruiser tonnage of 1 as against Britain 5.06 and Japan 3. The French building program is also regarded as elaborate.

Hopes Aroused in Europe.

While the French have been represented unofficially as being unwilling to take part in a further arms conference in this country, the fact that the United States has accepted the invitation to attend the League of Nations conference which will endeavor to restrict international traffic in war munitions has aroused encouragement in European quarters that this will pave the way for further participation by the United States in other parleys on European territory.

Officials of this Government, however, have not been sounded on any such further steps, it is understood, and have not looked beyond the present approaching conference, which it has been emphasized is in no sense to be confused with a conference on limitation of armaments.

The discussion today of the prospects for another conference for the reduction of naval armaments revealed that the review of the American situation contained in a statement sent to Chairman French of the Naval Subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations by the Secretary of the Navy had been prepared personally by Secretary Wilbur. The impression had prevailed that this review, which naval experts regard as an informative, even masterful, presentation of the subject, was the work of the General Board of the Navy.

NAVY SUPPLY BILL READY FOR ACTION

Appropriations Committee Will Report the Measure to the House Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The first of the bills furnishing money for the national defense will be sent to the House tomorrow when the navy bill is reported from the Appropriations Committee, which has been listening for some weeks to the pleas of the Secretary of the Navy and his staff officers.

How much the bill will carry is kept a secret, but it is a good guess that the sum will not be very much larger than the $278,175,460 allowed by Congress last year for the navy. The budget officer has set the figure at $287,323,028 as the appropriation to be allowed, but it is probable that the Appropriations Committee has scaled down this total by $1,000,000 or $2,000,000.

While the budget estimate was $287,323,028, this should be added $2,460,050 in appropriations for fines and forfeiture, navy and Marine Corps pay and other such items. This extra $2,500,000 is an expenditure which never is questioned and does not vary greatly from year to year. Last year it totaled $2,120,210.

Bitter days are in prospect for the navy bill when it is taken up in the House next week, the opponents of a "big navy" being ready for a massed attack. The recent statement of Secretary Wilbur that the navy is gradually deteriorating and is now in a 5-4-3 ratio when compared with Great Britain and Japan will not deter the antagonism that annually appears from the agricultural, Middle Western and Southern groups in the House. The Secretary's admonition will serve to unite the friends of the navy in a drive for sufficient money to keep it up to standard, but it will take decisive facts and figures to convince those who are against large appropriations.

Although it is not known what the Appropriations Committee has done with the estimates handed on by General H. M. Lord, the budget officer, the following tabulation will show the amounts he approved as compared with those granted by Congress last year for expenditure in 1925.

Naval records	45,640	44,880
Judge Advocate General	89,220	102,000
Naval Operations	68,840	66,000
Inspection and Survey	22,260	22,000
Naval Construction	133,240	130,000
Naval Intelligence	42,820	35,520
Navigation	10,843,681	10,986,810
Construction and Repair	15,918,000	17,315,000
Ordnance	10,894,600	33,197,000
Medical	2,347,620	2,288,400
Yards and Docks	5,128,000	2,820,500
Aeronautics	15,328,800	14,981,000
Naval Academy	2,000,157	1,833,260
Marine Corps	25,586,140	23,974,650
Increase of the navy	8,430,000	7,440,000

Included in the extra $2,460,050, which is put down as "permanent and indefinite appropriation," is $100,000 for the pay of the navy, $400,000 for payment of the Marine Corps, $250,000 for fines and forfeitures, and $50,000 for "indefinite," these sums being identical with the appropriations for 1925. The sum of $190,000, out of $5,160, is asked for the Navy Home in Philadelphia; $320,000 instead of $330,000 for ship's stores, and $1,000,000 instead of $645,000 for the Navy Hospital fund.

Will Begin Work on Florida at Once.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Indications at the Navy Department today were that modernization work on the six old battleships, authorized in the bill passed yesterday by the Senate, would begin with the Florida, now at the Boston Navy Yard, as soon as the measure is signed by the President.

The Florida has been awaiting repair work in excess of the $300,000 limit of cost which may be undertaken without specific Congressional authority. Funds are available, however, to begin on a larger program even before appropriations to make the modernization bill effective are provided by Congress.

TWO PROPOSALS MADE TO DELAY SHOALS BILL

Senators Wadsworth and Jones of Washington Want Commissions to Report to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Underwood Muscle Shoals bill was subjected in the Senate today another storm of debate, which ended with the introduction of two new proposals for settling the question.

Consideration of the measure, however, has reached the point where the next vote will place the Senate on record as favoring either Government or private operation of the project. This vote will come on the amendment of Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, which would strike out of the Underwood bill the entire leasing provision and provide for Government operation of the plant during experimentation with fertilizer production.

Senator Underwood, Democrat, of Alabama, differing with Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, who objected that a vote on the amendment was not in order, declared that he favored a vote on the Smith amendment. He wanted the Senate to consider it, he said, as a "full expression" of whether the Senate wished Government operation or the leasing of Muscle Shoals.

Two proposals were introduced to create a commission to recommend to Congress a solution of the Muscle Shoals problem. Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, offered an amendment, which would constitute a substitute to the Underwood bill, calling for the appointment of a commission composed of the Secretaries of War and Agriculture and a third person, to be appointed by the President. Senator Wadsworth, Republican, of New York introduced an amendment proposing a commission composed of five Cabinet officers, to recommend a plan for disposition of the property. Senator Wadsworth has been the sponsor for the Hooker-White-Atterbury profitsharing proposal.

Leaders of the opposition plan to hold back the final vote with the hope that their forces will crystallize to the extent that the Underwood bill will be voted down. Thirty-five amendments so far have been offered to the bill, and less than half of them have been disposed of.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders virtually have given up hope of bringing the question to a vote this week and are now striving to get action with as little delay as possible, so as to give the right of way for other important legislation.

An amendment by Senator Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, was adopted, which extended the time from the fourth to the eighth year when the Government corporation would be required to close down operations if interest on bonds was not being carried. Another Harrison amendment, to include Dam No. 2 in the leasing provisions, was rejected by a vote of 39 to 25.

CHARGES AGAINST SOLDIERS' LEAGUE

Representative Fish, Veteran, Calls Soliciting Group "Parasites" and Asks Inquiry.

CALLS FOR HOUSE ACTION

He Wants Organization's Books Opened, Which Previous Investigators Failed to Achieve.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A denunciation of the National Disabled Soldiers' League was made this afternoon by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, a World War veteran. Mr. Fish asserted that the promoters of the league were nothing more than "professional parasites," and scathingly referred to the practice of the organization in sending out lead pencils to sell to the public.

Through a resolution which he introduced, Mr. Fish demanded an investigation of the league, which he said, had been looked into by the Veterans' Bureau, Department of Justice and Post Office Department, but with little result, because there had been no authority up to now, to examine the books of the association.

A statement which Mr. Fish issued when he introduced his resolution, follows:

"A small group, calling themselves The National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., with headquarters at Washington, has been, and is flooding the country with appeals for money under the guise of helping our disabled veterans. This organization has been sending out hundreds of thousands of cleverly worded letters to every part of the country, designed to win the sympathy of the unsuspecting and patriotic reader, accompanied by a package of five lead pencils.

"In my opinion these people are professional parasites, trading on the misfortunes of our wounded and disabled comrades, and resorting to methods used by the common pauper in the streets.

"The disabled soldiers are being well provided for by the Government, and are not seeking, and never have sought charity, but only justice and a square deal. They are bitterly opposed to any organization that degrades them by branding them as beggars, and extorting money from sympathetic public which is already paying taxes to defray the expenditure of a million dollars a day to care for our disabled veterans.

Sees Government Aid Ample.

"There is not a single red blooded patriotic American man, woman or child who begrudges the provisions made by Congress for the support, hospitalization and training of our disabled. The American Government, with fewer disabled soldiers, is spending more on them than any other country, is proud of it.

"The Veterans' Bureau, Department of Justice and Post Office Department have all investigated the National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., but have found difficulty, without the power to examine their books, to obtain sufficient evidence to warrant criminal action. The National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., was sued by the Reuben H. Donnelly Corporation of New York, manufacturers of pencils, for $15,790.34, which is the balance claimed from $61,413.13, a magnitude of the transaction can readily be understood from the above statement, which shows that $45,622 has already been paid to the Donnelly Corporation.

"The purpose of the resolution, which I have introduced, is to expose the contemptible abuses of public confidence and to prohibit this organization, similar ones and individuals from fraudulently imposing and preying upon the sympathies of the public at the expense of the disabled veterans of the World War."

The resolution introduced by Mr. Fish is as strong in its terms as is his statement. In the course of the resolution, these allegations are made:

"The appeals imply that Congress has failed adequately to provide for the care and treatment of the disabled, and thereby convey a false impression to the public.

"The record of the National Disabled Soldiers' League is of unworthy character and of fraudulent nature.

Charges Hiring of Cripples.

"The officials of the national convention of this organization were ejected by the Mayor of Atlantic City for improper conduct in hiring cripples who were never in the service as ostensible delegates.

"The actions of the National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., prejudice the rights of disabled veterans, alienate public sympathy and tend to undermine and discredit the splendid work that the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the American Red Cross and other worthy organizations and individuals have been and are doing to help the United States Veterans' Bureau fulfill the nation's obligation to our disabled veterans.

"This organization has no standing with the United States Veterans' Bureau, and its contribution to the disabled is negligible.

"The funds raised by the National Disabled Soldiers' League, Inc., have been, and are being diverted to improper uses and personal gain.

"Under the resolution, a committee of five House members would be authorized to conduct the investigation.

FUNDAMENTALIST GONE, DR. VAN DYKE RETURNS

Back in First Church, Princeton, When New Pastor Replaces Professor Machen.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—It became known today that coincident with the selection of Dr. Charles R. Erdman of the Princeton Theological Seminary as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, Henry van Dyke had returned to the church. He left the congregation last Winter because of the "schismatic and irritating" sermons of Professor J. Gresham Machen of the Theological Seminary, who then occupied the pulpit.

Dr. van Dyke said that he had transferred his attendance from the First to the Second Presbyterian Church because of the sermons of Dr. Machen, an ardent Fundamentalist, but that with the change in preachers he had taken his old pew in the historic First Church.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 12.—The National Assembly in today's session adopted a bill to amend the standing rules recently proposed by the Government. The new rules empower the Speaker to cut short any discussion at will and to exclude the Opposition from the sessions. This is regarded as equivalent to a dictatorship for Premier Count Bethlen.

As the amendment is to take effect in the next session, a writ by the Regent, Admiral Horthy, was read today proroguing the House. The second session will be opened tomorrow.

The budget figures just published show a deficit of 620,000,000 for the year. This is said to compare favorably with Austria's showing in the first year of her League reconstruction scheme.

PROGRESSIVES CALL PARTY CONVENTION

Decide to Put Formation of Permanent Organization Before Meeting in February.

RAIL UNIONS OPPOSE MOVE

But Plan Is Agreed To After a Long Debate by a Vote of 30 to 13.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—In the face of the defeat suffered in the November election, the forces that conducted the La Follette-Wheeler campaign decided today to subject the proposal for the organization of a new party to the test of a national convention to be held in Chicago Feb. 25.

The date was settled at a meeting of the committee tonight. It was decided to send a committee, consisting of Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, Charles MacGowan, Mrs. Bertha Hale White, John A. Lapp and Farley P. Christiansen to Chicago next week to make arrangements for the February meeting.

The decision to call the conference was reached in an all-day session of the Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action. It was agreed that all the radical elements opposed to the conservation of the older political parties should be invited to attend the Progressive convention.

The La Follette leaders divided on the question. The motion to hold a convention for the formation of a progressive or radical party was adopted by a vote of 30 ayes to 13 noes.

Opposition to the convention idea developed among the representatives of the railroad labor unions, which form the backbone of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, and which were active in the fight in behalf of Senators La Follette and Wheeler.

Rail Men Urge Delay.

The railroad men advocated a policy of delay, asserting that the conference should not venture into the uncertain field of politics as the sponsor of a third party organization without first making a survey to determine whether the country could respond to such an appeal. They took this position in defiance of the mandate of the Cleveland convention, which directed the National Committee to "call a special national convention to be held in the latter part of the month of February, 1925, the object being to consider and pass upon the question of forming an independent political party for national and local elections."

Official announcement was made that the railroad labor representatives who voted against the convention idea acted in obedience to instructions from their chief executives. It is regarded as highly probable that the sixteen railroad brotherhoods will withhold their support from the third party movement. The American Federation of Labor is opposed to the plan, and today's developments are taken to indicate that if a new party is formed it will not have extensive support among organized labor executives.

The official announcement, made following a long discussion, reads:

"The National Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action had a lengthy discussion with reference to the following resolution:

"'It is the sense of this meeting that a special convention be called in accordance with the directions of the Cleveland convention of July 4.'

"This resolution was adopted by a vote of 30 ayes to 13 noes.

"The majority of those voting in the negative were representatives of railroad labor organizations, who stated that they took this action in accordance with instructions from their chief executives. Representatives of the railroad labor organizations who voted against calling a convention are awaiting instructions as to further action."

Keating Leads Opposition.

Edward Keating, former Representative from Colorado, led the fight against the resolution. As the spokesman in Washington of the "big four" railroad brotherhoods, his opposition excited a good deal of comment among those urging the formation of an independent party.

William H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists and Chairman of the conference, supported the convention program. He had the backing of the Socialist representation, led by Morris Hillquit of New York. Mr. Johnston declared that the results of the recent election warranted the organization of a new party, and he urged immediate action.

The Socialists indicated that they were prepared to go along with the movement, and announced that they would be represented by numerous delegates in the February convention.

Despite today's action the future of the proposed Third Party is not assured. Neither Senator La Follette nor Senator Wheeler appeared at today's meeting. Representative John M. Nelson, the La Follette campaign manager, did not attend. Other notable absentees were Senators Ladd, Frazier and Brookhart, the Republican insurgents who were barred from the Senate Republican caucus because of their support of La Follette and Wheeler in the late campaign.

Robert M. La Follette Jr., son of the Wisconsin Senator, took part in the conference and supported the resolution that was adopted.

Some progressive leaders fear that the February convention may prove a fizzle. They believe that if the railroad brotherhoods hold aloof, as now seems certain, the other groups, made up of a few labor unions and farmer-labor organizations, will not be strong enough numerically to form a national party. They declare that if the January convention adjourns without result the effect will be disastrous to the progressive cause.

Among those who attended the meetings of the National Committee today were the following from New York: Miss Fannie M. Cohn, Ladies' Garment Union; Morris Hillquit, Alexander Kahn, Algernon Lee, Miss R. Schneiderman, Norman Thomas and Mrs. Gordon Norrie.

DRY AGENT ACQUITTED.

Green Miller Wounded Two Men Who Resisted Prohibition Raid.

Green Miller, Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer for Kentucky and formerly an agent with the New Jersey force, was acquitted in the Federal Court in Newark yesterday, where he had been on trial for a week on a charge of assaulting with intent to kill.

The charge grew out of the shooting of two West Orange grocery clerks in 1921. Miller alleged that he shot and wounded them slightly in self-defense when they attacked him as he seized a quantity of gin that was being transported by bootleggers.

Greek Envoy Presents Credentials.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—C. Simopoulos, the new Greek Minister to the United States, today presented his credentials to President Coolidge. He is the first fully accredited Minister that the Government of Greece has had in Washington since 1920, and the presentation of his credentials, therefore, marked the final resumption of complete diplomatic relations between the two countries. These relations had never been officially broken, but simply had been allowed to lapse after the Greek elections in November, 1920, which resulted in the recall of King Constantine to the throne.

BOOTLEGGERS DEFY JERSEY AUTHORITIES

when I blew my whistle and ordered it to stop. Two men jumped off the seat and escaped. I told the driver he was under arrest and started to take him to Police Headquarters when he asked me if he couldn't go back and get his coat. I told him he could and he beat it. I didn't shoot at him because we have orders not to shoot at anybody in making an arrest, and I wouldn't kill a man, anyway."

$1,000 Bribe Offered.

"When I first stopped the truck," went on Ransom, "a fellow came up to me and offered me $1,000 to let it go. He was tall and well dressed, but I don't know who he was. I said, 'Not for a million!'"

"Did you arrest him for attempting to bribe a Federal officer?" Ransom was asked.

"I couldn't arrest him for that. It's a human frailty. The first thing a man does when we arrest him is to say, 'Can't I fix this up?' We would clog the courts if we arrested all of them, for it happens four or five times a day."

Ransom said that although he left Allen beside the truck when he went into Police Headquarters, Allen left it and that some time later, he heard the truck's engine start. He ran out, he said, and saw two men at the wheel driving away. Ransom said he drew his revolver and halted them and jumped up on the truck. He sat with his gun under his arm but made no attempt to arrest them, he declared, because his war was fairly ended.

"A big crowd had collected by this time," Ransom said, "and there was a good deal of excitement. If I had taken that $1,000 that was offered me the truck would have driven off and there wouldn't have been any excitement at all. There was a crowd of twenty-five or thirty men standing against a stone wall—New York gunmen, I guess they were. One of them came up to me and said, 'You're flirting with death and you'd better get off that truck and go inside the police station.' Another one told me, 'There are four guns trained on you.'

"Allen had nothing to do with that night's affair," Ransom said. "I just took him along for company."

Ransom has been a prohibition agent for the last four months. He was appointed on the recommendations of the Rev. Dr. James Parker, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church in Jersey City; Colonel George T. Vickers, recently named Special Prosecutor in the present inquiry into the bootleg scandal, and Samuel Wilson, Assistant Superintendents of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey.

Mr. Wilson issued a statement charging that the attempt to indict him in Newark was "political" and that it was due to the fact that Ransom had done much to "clean up Northern New Jersey," whereas the State enforcement officers, Mr. Wilson said, had done nothing.

William B. Verdon, a Republican, a former city official of Hoboken, and an uncle of Charles D. Kirk, whose affidavit was the basis of the twelve indictments, acted about the tip to Ransom, said last night:

"The tip was given for political reasons. It came to my notice that Democratic leaders and the party in Hudson County were receiving large contributions from bootleggers. The tip was to stop this."

Saves Escape From Truck.

Sergeant Arthur Foley and Patrolman James Quinn of the Hudson County police, reported to Prosecutor John Milton yesterday that, while on a motorcycle and side car they saw a motor truck emerge from a factory yard on Passaic Avenue, East Newark. They called upon the seven men on the truck to halt, they said, and when the demand was ignored they opened fire with their revolvers. A chase ensued in which both sides exchanged shots.

The two policemen gained on the fleeing truck and it halted. The motorcycle was stopped directly in front of it whereupon, so Foley and Quinn said, a sudden effort was made to run them down. They jumped and barely escaped going under the wheels and their motorcycle was smashed. Then the seven on the truck jumped and fled.

Sergeant Charles Wardell and Patrolman Michael Bergen of the Harrison police heard the shooting and as they turned into Cleveland Street several bullets whizzed by them, and they too opened fire on the truck. Sergeant Foley said that when he halted one of the men in front of the truck, and just before the effort to run him down was made, one of its occupants offered $2,000 if he and Quinn would make no further effort to detain them.

"We're getting protection all along the line from everybody, and there's no reason why you fellows shouldn't get yours," Sergeant Foley said the man told him.

Liquor Cleared from Amsterdam.

One important result of the seizure was the discovery of evidence which leads Prosecutor Milton to believe that much of the liquor which has been handled by the bootleg syndicate goes from England. It is shipped from England to Amsterdam, he says, and then cleared from that port for Scotland or Ireland. In making the long voyage the liquor ship crosses the Atlantic to a point just outside the twelve-mile limit off Sandy Hook, where the whisky is transferred to the syndicate rum runners and landed here.

Evidence bearing out this contention was found in the shape of a tag attached to one of the cases of liquor on the captured truck. It read:

"Carriage paid on 498 packages for shipment by Steamship Harriet to Antwerp. Consigned to D. Shed, Ireland. Consigned to Edinburg Dock. Consigned to Leith, Messrs. Gilson, Rankin, from Hill, Thompson & Co., 45 Federal Street, Antwerp."

The Coast Guard cutter Paterson yesterday sighted motor boat K-9956 nine miles off the mbrose Light, headed for the Jersey shore. Captain Ryan of the Paterson said the boat made every effort to get away and that it was necessary for him to send a shell across her bows before she hove to. The motor boat was seized, with fifty-one cases of champagne which were found on board, and its crew of three was arrested. They described themselves as James T. Fagan, Joseph Martini and Arthur Letts, all of New Jersey. They were each held in $1,500 bail for a hearing next Tuesday by United States Commissioner Edward Stanton in Hoboken.

Fugitive Boat Hits Rocks.

The motor boat Elizabeth K., which was headed for New Jersey, with 200 cases of liquor, was captured by the Marine Police yesterday after an eight-hour chase in the lower bay. She was brought to the Barge Office with four prisoners, who said they were Joseph Frick, 741 Amsterdam Avenue; Thomas Marahall, 201 West Nineteenth Street; Hans Nelson, 23 Second Place, Brooklyn, and Harold Hansen of the same address.

The capture was made by Sergeant Thomas Hayden, assisted by three patrolmen in a Police Boat 3. The Elizabeth K. is a speed boat. She circled Governors Island in her efforts to escape and then twice rounded Bedlow's Island, heading for Greenfield, N. J. The police say that the fleeing motor boat endeavored to lead them on to Greenfield flats, which are shallow and rocky, but they refused to follow the lead and prevented the rum-runner from landing at Greenfield. The Elizabeth K.'s hull was stove in on the rocks, and the four occupants were standing knee deep in water when they were taken off by the police. It took two hours to pump the water from her hold.

Mr. Milton said that when the Hudson County Grand Jury resumed its sessions next Tuesday he would proceed with the investigation and that he expected further indictments. He did not believe, he said, that Father George F. Bennett, pastor of St. Lawrence's Roman Catholic Church at Weehawken, would be called. Father Bennett's testimony, he explained, would simply corroborate that given in the affidavit furnished by Charles D. Kirk.

State May Act Alone.

Howard Jones, special assistant to Attorney General Stone, before leaving Newark yesterday called the Department of Justice in Washington by telephone and recommended that it "keep its hands off" and let the New Jersey State authorities handle the bootleg conspiracy investigation. Mr. Jones, who was assigned to investigate and report, said he was making this recommendation because "the State is taking care of the rum scandal most efficiently."

"It is a State matter pure and simple," Mr. Jones said, "and Colonel Vickers is handling the matter with vigor and apparent success. I have advised the department to adopt an attitude of watchful waiting. Federal and State indictments would cause confusion in the courts and might result in the failure of both cases."

Walter G. Winne, Federal Attorney for New Jersey, has not given up hope of impressing the Department of Justice officials with the necessity for supplying him with a staff of Federal investigators. At Trenton yesterday Mr. Winne said:

"Howard Jones, who was sent to Newark by the Attorney General's office in connection with another case, is leaving for Washington with data regarding the situation. I am communicating with Washington through him. I have asked him to say that my position in favor of a Federal investigation seems to be supported almost unanimously by the people and newspapers of the State."

Ex-Policeman Indicted.

Prosecutor Milton expressed great interest last night in the indictment yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury in New York of Michael J. Kelly, a former policeman, and two others for impersonating prohibition enforcement agents.

Kelly was discharged from the Police Department after he had been found on a rum-runner overhauled by a police boat in the lower bay. He had previously reported sick to his precinct commander. According to Assistant Federal Attorney Jac M. Wolff, Kelly was the head of a gang which is alleged to have collected more than $300,000 in graft through intimidating bootleggers, rum-runners, operators of chemical and perfumd plants and other concerns using alcohol in their business. Mr. Milton will seak to trace Kelly's possible connection with the New Jersey bootleg ring.

The Federal authorities were informed yesterday by Prosecutor A. C. Harr of Bergen County that Edward Castel, alias Castellano, now serving as a prohibition agent in Northern New Jersey, is an ex-bandit, having been convicted as one of the participants in the daylight robbery of the men in charge of the Spencer Kellogg Company payroll on March 5, 1923.

"I don't think Castel is a proper person for just this sort of work," said Mr. Harr. "I want to see him get along, but there is too much opportunity in the bootleg game in this section."

At Bayonne Chief of Police O'Neill yesterday was proceeding with his investigation of bootlegging activities there, as directed by Commissioner of Public Safety Daly.

Inspector Daniel A. Cady, who was Chief of the Police Department there from May, 1922, until last October denied that rum-running had doubled during his tenure of office, as was charged Thursday by Chief O'Neill, who succeeded him in office.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS REPORTED AT ODDS

U. S. Attorney for Jersey and Department of Justice Differ on Bootleg Disclosures.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Statements made here today indicate that the relations between Walter G. Winne, United States Attorney for New Jersey, and officials of the Department of Justice charged with the duty of enforcing the Volstead Act are rapidly reaching the breaking point as a result of recent developments in connection with the Weehawken liquor scandals.

A report that could not be verified in official quarters was received here from Newark today to the effect that Howard Jones, special assistant for the Department of Justice in New Jersey, had recommended that the Federal authorities refrain from taking part in pressing the cases against the men accused by the State in connection with the alleged landing of $50,000,000 worth of contraband liquor at Weehawken.

Mr. Jones made this recommendation, it was said, after a conference with Mr. Winne on the Weehawken disclosures. Mr. Winne turned over to Mr. Jones copies of the affidavits and a summary of the evidence upon which the Hudson County Grand Jury based its indictments. Mr. Jones is said to take the position that the State should be permitted to proceed with the prosecution of these cases. This is contrary to the conclusion of Mr. Winne, who plans to submit the cases to the Federal Grand Jury in Newark next Tuesday, according to advices received here today.

In taking up the Weehawken scandals with a view to Federal prosecution, it was explained at the Department of Justice today, Mr. Winne proceeded on his own initiative, as he had a right to do. Whether he will be asked to withdraw from the cases in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. Jones probably will not be known until the Jones report has been examined by Mrs. Mabel W. Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Two years ago, as a result of representations made by ex-Senator Frelinghuysen, Mr. Winne's administration of the office of United States Attorney was made the subject of a searching investigation. According to friends of Mr. Winne, he was completely exonerated. The attack made on him at the time was attributed to political motives.

The whole subject of the New Jersey liquor scandals probably will be threshed out by officials of the Department of Justice in a conference to be held tomorrow or Monday.

PROHIBITION AGENTS RAID LIQUOR PLANT

Seize Contraband Valued at $40,000 and Stock of Labels in Mulberry Street.

Liquor valued at $40,000 and a "cutting" or adulteration plant and bottling works were seized by prohibition agents yesterday afternoon in a raid at 114 Mulberry Street. Three men arrested in a four-room apartment on the fourth floor of the building gave their names as Carmine Tommaso, alleged proprietor; Edward Tiessie and Joseph Russo.

Prohibition Agents William McCay, Daniel Kennelley and Thomas Mulholland called at the place, and McCay knocked on the door. He was pushed back and the door was slammed and locked. He left the two others on guard and went before United States Commissioner John N. Boyle for a search warrant. McCay also sent a call for reinforcements to prohibition headquarters, and Agents Michael Sand, Daniel Kurzman and Thomas Shannon were sent to assist.

The six raiders forced the door of the apartment and said that they found the three occupants labeling bottles which they were wrapping in Christmas packages. According to the prohibition agents, there was a large assortment of counterfeit labels of famous brands of imported whiskey. In each of the rooms they said they found vats of denatured alcohol in various stages of redistillation. They also found three machines for placing "non-refillable caps" on bottles which were filled, also many paste pots for labeling. The liquor in the open vats was destroyed and the bottled goods and equipment were confiscated and held as evidence.

BALFOUR EXPERIMENTS IN THOUGHT TRANSFER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Earl of Balfour appeared in a new rôle tonight, that of an experimenter in thought transference. Professor Gilbert Murray of League of Nations fame was a partner in the experiment which, it was stated at a meeting tonight of the Society for Psychical Research, took place at a private house.

The proceedings were described by the Chairman as "very much like a parlor game." Professor Murray was in the dining room with the door shut. Lord Balfour and others were in the drawing room, the door of which also was shut.

Lord Balfour whispered, "I am thinking of Robert Walpole talking Latin to George III." As Professor Murray came into the room just afterward he said, "Something eighteenth century."

Lord Balfour nodded assent and Professor Murray then said:

"I don't think I shall get it exactly. Dr. Johnson met George III. in the King's library, but I am sure he is talking Latin to him, which he would not do. I don't think I shall get it right. Wait. I have nearly got it. Eighteenth century, somebody talking Latin to a King."

Lord Balfour, who attended the society's meeting, said the experiment presented phenomena not worth while for science to interpret, since probably anybody who, from a basis of accepted physics or physiology, started investigation would simply waste time. Physicists had made great strides in dealing with touch, sound and light, but none of these things would explain telepathy.

Professor Murray's experiments, he continued, seemed to prove conclusively that there was a wholly unknown, unexplained, unconjectured method of traversing space between two self-conscious organisms upon which neither the theory of sound nor of electricity, nor any other theory of the moment, could throw any light.

BUYS RARE DUTCH PAINTING.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—An interesting sale of pictures by old masters attracted a large number of purchasers from the Continent and elsewhere to Christie's today. The most important sale was that of an admirable little portrait of a young man in a brown dress with a breastplate and a black cap, by one of the rarest Dutch masters of the seventeenth century—Carel Fabritius. It was signed and dated 1654.

The artist was born about 1620 and perished in the explosion of a powder magazine on Oct. 12, 1654. So this portrait is one of his last. Fewer than thirty of his works are recorded, and the one sold today has hitherto remained unrecorded.

The picture attracted wide attention while on view during the week, and the opening bid was 500 guineas. The bids finally mounted to 6,900 guineas, at which price it was knocked down to a bidder for the National Gallery.

FIND $50,000 IN HOUSE.

Boston Police Are Unable to Learn Its Source From Owner.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—Police officers searching a North End house that was under suspicion as a rendezvous for bootleggers found no liquor, but did discover nearly $50,000 in bills of many denominations tucked away in a bureau drawer.

Sergeant Maurice Sullivan, head of the raiding squad, got varying explanations from the owner of the house as to the source of the money, but finding no evidence to warrant police action accompanied the man to a bank with the money. It took two tellers forty-five minutes to count it. The owner said he did not know how much there was in the pile.

What the Six-Day Bike Riders Ate

Any one passing Madison Square Garden last week would have thought there was a food show on instead of a six-day bicycle race. Tons of food for the 30 riders and their many trainers were taken into the Garden. According to the New York World the meat order alone was 500 steaks; 600 pounds of lamb chops; 50 pounds of bacon; 10 boiled hams; 400 chickens. During the week 700 quarts of milk and 3600 eggs were consumed.

Refrigeration kept this food fresh and sweet—just as the refrigeration of pure Knickerbocker ice will protect perishable food in your own home.

HYLAN SEEKS HELP FOR ROUTINE TASKS

CRAIG'S DEPUTY OBJECTS

Motion Is Carried, However, Proposing Aid Should Represent Executive on 28 Boards.

Mayor Hylan went into the meeting of the Board of Estimate, sitting yesterday as the upper branch of the Municipal Assembly, and told his associates of the board that routine of the Mayor's office was growing too onerous for one man to bear. Mr. Hylan then presented and urged the adoption of a bill empowering the Mayor to delegate to the assistant to the Mayor certain of the powers of the Mayoralty office. Under the terms of the bill these would include authority to act for the Mayor on some twenty-eight municipal boards or commissions of which the Mayor is either Chairman or a voting member.

The assistant to the Mayor upon whom these responsibilities would devolve if the bill should become local law is Joseph Haag. Mr. Haag has held the appointive honor for nearly a year, but has not yet drawn a cent of salary because Controller Charles L. Craig has refused to approve his pay checks. The bill would not confer upon the Mayor's assistant the prerogative either of appointment or removal of employes, nor would it empower him to sit as a member of the Sinking Fund Commission or of the Board of Estimate. In most other respects the bill provides that his assistant, when so designated in writing, shall represent the Mayor and shall perform the duties of the city's Chief Executive.

After a sharp tilt between Mayor Hylan and Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial, who was sitting as Controller Craig's representative, the bill was ordered reported favorably. Before final action it must lie over, under the rules, for seven days "upon the desks of the members of the Municipal Assembly."

After the Mayor had made his appeal for the measure, Deputy Controller Prial said: "I suggest that there should be a public hearing on the bill and, in fact, on all bills."

"That is unnecessary unless it is requested by citizens," cut in Mayor Hylan.

"The request of one citizen is enough," retorted Mr. Prial. "I am a citizen and I ask for a public hearing on this bill."

"I renew my motion that this bill be favorably reported out," insisted the Mayor. "No citizen has requested a hearing."

"I have requested it!" snapped the Deputy Controller.

"You are not a citizen now; you are an official member of this body," declared the Mayor as he put the motion to the vote. It was carried. Mayor Hylan expects to leave about Feb. 1 for his Winter vacation in Florida.

Favorable action was also taken by the upper branch of the Municipal Assembly on a bill which permits the Assembly to increase the salaries of the heads of city departments. It also must lie on the desks of members seven days before it comes up for final action. Heretofore, departmental chiefs could not hope to get an increase of salary during their tenure of office. Salary increases could be provided only for future incumbents.

STILL OPPOSE MANOEUVRES

Japanese Fear "Anglo-Saxon Nutcracker Policy."

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—The misgiving here at the coming manoeuvres of the United States naval units in Hawaiian water continue, especially as they seem here to coincide with the resumption of the British Singapore plan.

The Press regards this combination as "the beginning of the Anglo-Saxon nutcracker policy," ultimately circumscribing and stopping Japanese expansion.

A mass meeting to protest against the Hawaiian manoeuvres has been arranged for Dec. 21 and the following resolution will be proposed:

"The manoeuvres are a threat to Oriental peace and contravene the spirit of the Washington conference. It is hoped that America will see that they are abandoned."

ARGUES FOR MORE BUSES.

Fifth Avenue Coach President Sees Way to Transit Relief.

A plea for greater use of buses as at least a partial solution of the transit problem was made by Frederic T. Wood, President and General Manager of the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, in a speech last night at the University Forum of America, 308 West Ninety-third Street. In discussing "How the Motor Bus Can Help Relieve Street Congestion," Mr. Wood gave the results of several surveys, which he said showed that that there would be a great increase in the passenger-carrying capacity of streets by the use of more buses.

"The first survey showed that in a half-hour period on Fifth Avenue 330 vehicles, of which 66 were motor buses, passed in one direction and carried 4,016 people," he said. "As compared with this, 538 vehicles passing in one direction on Seventh Avenue carried 916 people, and 512 vehicles passing in one direction on Park Avenue carried 859 people.

"So that with practically the same number of vehicles passing in one direction on these three streets, Fifth Avenue with 66 coaches, or 12.3 per cent. of all the vehicles, has a passenger-carrying capacity of nearly four and one-half times as great as Seventh Avenue or Park Avenue, on which there is no motor bus service. It also demonstrates that neither Park nor Seventh Avenue is carrying its share of the traffic burden."

Mr. Wood added that a survey in Chicago showed that on the average automobiles required about 54 square feet of street space per seated passenger and that only three square feet per passenger were required by the motor bus.

$1,384,573 FOR SCIENCE.

Carnegie Institution Makes Appropriation for Its Work in 1925.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Institution of Washington appropriated $1,384,573 today with which to carry on the scientific research and administrative work for 1925.

Among the departments of the institution to receive appropriations are the department of embryology, Baltimore, Md.; the department of genetics, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I.; Mount Wilson Observatory, California; Nutrition Laboratory, Boston, and the department of plant physiology, near Tucson, Ariz.

Vacancies on the Board of Trustees caused by the resignation of Cleveland H. Dodge and the deaths of William L. Hutchinson, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Robert S. Woodward, were filled by the elections of Secretary Mellon, Speaker Gillett of the House, William Benson Storey of Chicago and Cass Gilbert of New York City.

Resignations of Charles P. Fenner and Henry P. Walcott were received and these vacancies will be filled next year.

ARRESTS STIR UKRAINE.

Eight Leaders of the "Ukapisti" Are Seized on Various Charges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Dec. 12.—Considerable excitement has been caused in Ukranian Communist circles by the arrest of eight prominent Ukapisti or members of the Ukranian Communist Party. This party consisted of the so-called Nationalist Ukranian Communists who have absorbed many of the extremest elements of the Social Revolutionary and Menshevist Parties. The Ogpu decided to crush this movement.

The official announcement says the Secretary of the Ukapisti Central Committee, Dragomiretsky, has been arrested because he endeavored to emancipate the Ukapisti from the Third International; the Ukapist leader, Bielotsky, for demanding freedom of the press for all Ukrainians; Malakhato for demanding expulsion of Great Russians from the Ukraine; Akdienko for predicting that a similar fate awaited Lenin's statues as had befallen Czarist statues, and Progrebnoi for unduly criticizing the Soviet Government and the Russian Communist Party.

HYLAN WILL NOW AID TRANSIT INQUIRY

Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, was read by Mayor Hylan at the Board of Estimate meeting yesterday.

The notice, which was signed by Henry L. Sherman, counsel to Justice McAvoy, and which was identical with copies served on the Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate, read:

"Gentlemen:

"Please take notice that the hearing before Hon. John V. McAvoy, a Commissioner appointed by the Governor of the State of New York under Section 8 of the executive law to examine and investigate the management and affairs of the Transit Commission will be held on Monday, Dec. 15, 1924, at the building of the Bar Association of the City of New York at 42 West Forty-fourth Street in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York."

Upon Mayor Hylan's motion the notice was referred to Corporation Counsel Nicholson and added to the board's calendar on Monday, when it will meet at noon for special business.

There was no discussion of the notice at the meeting. Mayor Hylan was asked afterward if he would attend the hearing before Justice McAvoy in person.

"I am in the hands of my counsel," he replied.

Another member of the Board of Estimate said the notice had been referred to the Corporation Counsel to determine whether the members of the board would have to abandon their special meeting and the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, both scheduled for Monday, and "go up to the Bar Association building and sit around." It was suggested that the first day's hearing might be devoted to the outlining of the procedure that would be followed.

The three members of the Transit Commission, with its special counsel, Clarence J. Shearn, will attend the opening hearing in person. It was learned that the Transit Commissioners have received no other official notice from either Justice McAvoy or Mr. Sherman, except the formal notice of the beginning of the hearings.

Mr. Sherman passed the day in examination of records and data obtained at the offices of the Transit Commission and the Board of Transportation in preparation for the beginning of the investigation. In addition to getting the record of the meetings of the Board of Transportation since its organization last July and the board's plans for new subways, so far as they are completed, Mr. Sherman requested Controller Charles L. Craig for detailed figures on the city's debt limit, indicating that he intended to go into not only the physical aspects of Mayor Hylan's plans for new subways, part of which was announced this week by the Board of Transportation, but how the city administration proposed to pay for them.

Borrowing Margin $47,000,000.

Inquiry at the Controller's office disclosed that the city's present borrowing margin is approximately $47,000,000. This is expected to be reduced before Jan. 1 by $26,400,000 by the appropriation of about $9,000,000 to complete the Fourteenth Street-Eastern subway and authorizations of $3,000,000 for the Staten Island tunnel and $16,000,000 for new schools, all of which are expected to come before the board at its special meeting on Monday.

Mr. Craig will inform Mr. Sherman that $26,000,000 will be added to the city's borrowing capacity by the refunding of city securities on Jan. 1, when an appropriation of that amount for that purpose becomes available from the 1925 budget. The amount that will be added on March 1 next, when the new assessments become effective, was said to be uncertain because of the impossibility of making an exact estimate of reductions in the assessments between now and that time. The best estimate available was said to be about $15,000,000.

The amount of unincumbered borrowing margin likely to be available was said to be enough to start construction of the Mayor's system of subways, but in view of other projects for which bond issues will be sought, will make it difficult for the city to finance the construction of the Mayor's entire proposed system, cost of which has been estimated at about $450,000,000, without action of some sort by the Legislature. A renewal of Controller Craig's plan for the exemption of $275,000,000 of the city's investment in subways from the debt limit by the enactment of a constitutional amendment is expected by the City Administration.

Further Delay on Fourteenth Street Line.

The Board of Estimate again failed to give its approval to contracts aggregating more than $9,000,000 for the construction of the uncompleted part of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern subway. Mayor Hylan said that the board was ready to appropriate the money immediately, but that he understood that the officers of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, which had consented orally to a change in the contract to permit the construction of a subway instead of an elevated railroad, had refused to sign an agreement.

"That is correct," said William G. Fullem, counsel of the Board of Transportation. "The B. M. T. agreed to the change but has refused to sign the necessary agreement because of a technicality which they believe may affect their $30,000,000 suit against the city."

Mr. Fullem added that he thought the agreement might be signed if another week were allowed.

"We will lay it over for a week and see if they have a change of heart," said Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, whose motion to that effect was adopted.

On invitation of the Mayor, the eight Bronx Democratic Aldermen, who accompanied him on his trip to the elevated railroad station at 149th Street and Third Avenue the night before, conferred with the Mayor at City Hall to formulate charges against the Transit Commission of responsibility for conditions which the Mayor characterized as "atrocious."

General John F. O'Ryan of the commission visited the same station two nights before the Mayor did and had suggested certain changes there to his associates, according to officers of the commission. It was said at the commission's offices that each of the Mayor's personal inspection trips had followed some sign of activity by the commission, indicating an intention on its part to bring about improvements at those particular points.

A denial of the reported rift between Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan over the transit situation was made by Arthur J. W. Hilly, Assistant Corporation Counsel, in his speech at a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club at the Commodore. Mr. Hilly declared that Governor Smith was a loyal Democrat and would not do anything to turn over the New York City Administration to the Republicans.

Announcement of his intention to present a resolution for a legislative transit inquiry, coupled with criticism of Mayor Hylan, was made yesterday by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier in a letter to General O'Ryan. Mr. Cuvillier, although a Democrat, frequently has been a critic of the Mayor and of Police Commissioner Enright.

DR. CARREL ROBBED, 4 ARRESTS REVEAL

2 Girls, 2 Men Held for "Dinner-Time Burglary" of Noted Researcher's Home.

MUCH LOOT IS RECOVERED

One Prisoner Alleged to Have Admitted Theft, the Other Disposing of Stolen Goods.

The theft of $1,200 worth of jewels on the night of Nov. 26 from the home of Dr. Alexis Carrel, member of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and winner of the Nobel Prize in medicine in 1912, was disclosed yesterday by the arrest of two young men, charged with burglary, and two girls, charged with acting in concert with them.

William Tierney, 24 years old, of 316 West Ninety-sixth Street, who said he was a radio engineer, admitted, according to the police, that he climbed a rear fire escape of the building at 456 East Fifty-seventh Street and ransacked the bedrooms of the Carrel apartment while the surgeon and his family were at dinner. Tying his loot up in a bundle, he said, he dropped it from the fire escape to the courtyard, where he later picked it up and escaped in an automobile.

The police said Tierney admitted he was the "dinner-time burglar" who had robbed many apartments in Park Avenue, Madison Avenue on on the west side recently. He has committed at least ten burglaries in two months and has stolen more than $20,000 worth of jewels, furs and fine clothing, according to detectives.

Other Alleged Victims.

Among the persons robbed by Tierney, according to the police, were P. H. Hayes of 163 West Seventy-third Street, from whom an ermine coat worth $2,000 and several articles of jewelry were stolen; a family named Klenk in Madison Avenue near Eighty-seventh Street, and a family named Hamilton in Madison Avenue.

Frank W. Durenan, 17 years old, of 558 West Thirty-sixth Stret, who said he was an art student, admitted disposing of the goods stolen by Tierney, according to the police.

The girls arrested were Margaret Lowen, 18, a model, of 320 West Ninety-sixth Street, and Dorothy Huzel, a saleswoman, of 509 West 158th Street. According to the police, they wore some of the clothes, furs and jewelry stolen by Tierney, knowing that they had been stolen, and also enjoyed the fruits of Tierney's burglaries by accompanying the two men to restaurants and cabarets whenever Tierney stole something that Durenan could pawn.

Detectives recovered several thousand dollars' worth of the stolen goods from pawnshops and other places where it had been taken by the burglars. Tierney said he had met the Lowen girl at a dance in Greenwich Village and she had introduced the Huzel girl to Durenan. Asked why he became a burglar when he had a job as a radio engineer, Tierney replied that he made only $30 a week and could not afford to pay for the entertainment and presents demanded by the girls.

Each of the four prisoners was held in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Brodsky in the Yorkville Court for examination next Friday. Dr. Carrel, who made the complaint on which Tierney was arrested, sailed for Europe last Wednesday. The police said they would have other complainants in court next Friday.

Another "Dinner Burglar" Caught.

Another "dinner time burglar," who was also a "matinee burglar," who was arrested in Yonkers on Thursday night, confessed yesterday and led the police to his rooms at 237 West Forty-fifth Street, Manhattan, where stolen jewels, furs, clothing and other articles worth from $10,000 to $15,000 were recovered.

The Yonkers burglar was Henry Knott, alias H. T. King. He was arrested leaving the home of George Arnold on Lewis Parkway, Yonkers, near the home of William H. Anderson, former State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Knott admitted robbing several Yonkers homes when the occupants were at dinner, shopping, or at the theatre in the afternoon. The police said he had served five years in prison in Florida for burglary. They said he worked entirely alone and was known as "a lone wolf" in the underworld.

ROCKEFELLER BOARD DONATES $1,350,000

$1,250,000 for Minnesota University Medical School and $100,000 for Skidmore.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—A gift of $1,350,000 from the General Education Board, allied with the Rockefeller Foundation, for completion of the Medical School at the University of Minnesota, was announced today by university authorities.

The gift carries the proviso that the university obtain elsewhere $2,350,000, which will complete the $3,600,000 estimated cost of the proposed expansion, Lotus D. Coffman, President of the university, said today in announcing the gift to the Board of Regents.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Dec. 12.—A gift of $100,000 for the extension of the endowment of Skidmore College from the General Education Board was announced in chapel this morning by Charles Henry Keyes, President of the college.

The General Education Board is the corporation organized by John D. Rockefeller through which his gifts to educational institutions are distributed.

DIVORCES J. R. DREXEL JR.

Mrs. Drexel Wins Decree in Reno on Ground of Cruelty.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 12.—Charging her husband with extreme repeated acts of cruelty, Elizabeth Thompson Drexel obtained today a divorce from John R. Drexel Jr., scion of the wealthy Philadelphia family.

Mrs. Drexel asserted that her husband possessed an erratic and domineering disposition and that he would allow her no independence whatever. He was harsh toward their son, John Drexel III, Mrs. Drexel said, and on May 15, 1924, he struck her with his fist. Thereupon she came to Reno.

Property settlement was effected out of court. Custody of the child was awarded to Mrs. Drexel, who will leave tomorrow for the East, where she has booked passage for Europe.

BRITAIN STILL BARS ALIENS.

Commons Votes 176 to 37 Against Move to Let Them In.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Aliens are still barred from entering Great Britain by the third reading in the House of Commons today of the expiring Laws Continuance bill.

A Labor amendment to omit from the bill the aliens restriction amendment act of 1919 was defeated by a vote of 176 to 37.

Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks, speaking against the amendment, said: "I am not prepared at the present time, with something like 1,000,000 unemployed in this country, to allow aliens under any circumstances to come here and seek work."

REPUBLICANS OPEN WAR ON GOV. SMITH

Legislature Will Defeat His Entire Reconstruction Program, Leaders Declare.

NEW DRY LAW PROPOSED

It Will Modify the Mullan-Gage Act—Child Labor Amendment Will Win.

Republican lawmakers will go to Albany with their war paint on, prepared to make all the trouble they can for Governor Smith. Little effort to conceal their belligerent attitude was made by party leaders and lawmakers who began to gather here last night for a day of conferences over patronage and program, to be wound up with a "victory" dinner this evening in honor of the successful candidates given by the National Republican Club.

"I think Governor Smith will be very lonesome and will have not altogether a pleasant time at Albany during the next two years," one Republican leader said.

"We will give him a respectful hearing and then do as we please," said another.

In general, the talk among members of the gathering G. O. P. clans indicated that the utmost resistance would be offered to the Governor when again attempting to put through reforms for which he has contended during the two Smith Administrations that have gone before.

Governor Smith when he arrived in this city last night to do some Christmas shopping and attend to other business, public and personal, was told of the Republican threats.

"That's an old story," was his unsmiling reply. "Tell me something new," he added wearily.

Smith Program Faces Defeat.

Governor Smith's entire reconstruction program, apparently, is doomed to defeat in next year's Legislature. George K. Morris, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, made it clear in an interview some time ago that the short-ballot amendment to the Constitution, reluctantly endorsed by a Republican Assembly in 1923 and due to come before the lawmaking body for action again this year, prior to being submitted to the voters for ratification, would not find favor before the all-Republican Legislature. This was confirmed by other Republican leaders yesterday, who added that the Governor's Executive Budget proposal also would have short shrift.

A third measure included in the reconstruction plan provides a four-year term for the Governor and for Gubernatorial elections in the even year, midway in a Presidential term. This amendment the Republicans might favor if it could be amended so as to place the election of Governors in years when the President is elected.

Roosevelt Will Attend Dinner.

The dinner at the Republican Club this evening will be attended by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the defeated Republican nominee for Governor, as well as by his successful running mates on the State ticket. Among the arrivals yesterday was Lieut. Gov.-elect Seymour Lowman, who will preside over the Senate and undoubtedly will wield considerable influence with the dominant Republicans in that body.

"I judge from what I have heard on my travels through the State since election that the Republicans in both branches of the Legislature will give the Governor a respectful hearing on his reconstruction program and other recommendations in his forthcoming message and after doing that will carry out the real mandate of the Republican electorate by rejecting it," said Mr. Lowman.

"What will you do with regard to prohibition enforcement?" the prospective Lieutenant Governor was asked.

A New Dry Law Proposed.

"I understand a bill has already been prepared for introduction by Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks of Broome, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee in the present Assembly," he replied. "In general, it will follow the lines of the Mullan-Gage law, which was repealed with the approval of Governor Smith. There will be these exceptions: The Jenks bill will not provide for search and seizure of contraband liquor except on warrant issued upon the presentation of competent evidence that the prohibition law has been violated. The bill will do what the State can do to eliminate the so-called double jeopardy by providing that where prosecution has been had before the Federal courts for an offense the State authorities shall not—as they could under the old law—also start proceedings against the offender. We must depend on Congress to supplement this by similar legislation to restrain the Federal authorities from prosecuting where the State has stepped in first."

The Republicans will fight any attempt on the part of the Democrats to do away with the Motion Picture Censorship Commission. As the commission will be controlled by the Democrats after Jan. 1, it is a question whether there will be any very aggressive Democratic action looking to the repeal of the law.

Both parties represented in next year's Legislature are committed through their platforms to ratification of the Federal Child Labor amendment. From talk among Republican lawmakers yesterday it would appear that they will divide on this measure when it comes before them.

Governor Smith in Town.

Governor Smith came to town somewhat unexpectedly last night. He expects to remain away from the Capitol until the middle of next week. If he feels equal to the journey, he will go to Washington today to attend the Gridiron dinner. The Governor, as he left his train, walked with a preceptible limp, but said that he felt fit and suffered no pain. He declined to discuss transit.

"I settled that matter as far as it lay within my power to do so when I appointed Justice McAvoy to preside over the investigation, and I am not going to discuss subways until I have received his report," Governor Smith said. "And I am not going to say a word about my message. I haven't even started writing it yet."

SHOPLIFTER GETS 5 DAYS.

Young Mother Pleads Guilty to Thefts of Trinkets From a Store.

Mrs. Catherine Scheser, 22 years old, of 502 West Fifty-third Street, was sentenced to five days in Jefferson Market Women's Prison yesterday, on conviction in Special Sessions as a shoplifter, and after a probation officer had informed the Court that the woman had taught an 11-year-old girl how to steal from stores.

Mrs. Scheser pleaded guilty to the theft of trinkets worth $81.32 from McCreery's on Nov. 19. Detectives of the Street Mutual Protective Association, who had become suspicious of the actions of the woman and the little girl who accompanied her, told Justices Kelly, Fetherston and Murphy that the girl had been trained to pick up articles from counters and pass them to Mrs. Scheser, who would drop them into a large bag.

The girl was placed on probation after the arrest of Mrs. Scheser, then taken to the Children's Court.

Mrs. Scheser is the mother of a 3-year-old child.

CRAWLS INTO COKE OVEN TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 12.—A suicide recalling the Sheathley furnace mystery in Columbus, O., was recorded tonight by the Fayette County coroner when a skeleton found on a heap of burning coke in an oven on the Pittsburgh road near here this morning, was identified as that of Frank Augustine, aged 20, of this city.

Augustine is believed to have crawled into the coke oven while deranged to end his life after he had escaped death in an automobile which was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train here yesterday. The shock of this accident, the authorities believe made him insane.

The skeleton was identified by a belt buckle, key ring and keys.

Friends say Augustine worried about the accident, fearing that he would be sent to jail because of it and acted queerly.

The skeleton was discovered by a coke drawer who opened one of a battery of ovens.

3,000 TO SETTLE IN CANADA.

Russian Mennonites to Colonize $500,000 Tract in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—Fully 3,000 Russian Mennonites will establish a colony in Manitoba next year, it was announced today.

Representatives of the sect said that they had purchased 10,000 acres of farm land between Winnipeg and Portage la Prairie, on the Canadian National Railways, on which the colony is to be established. Approximately $500,000 was involved in the deal.

Current reports that 80,000 Mennonites would come here from Russia next year were denied by colonization and immigration authorities, who said that great numbers were being prevented from leaving by the imposition of heavy emigration fees by the Soviet.

STOCKS AGAIN UP, LED BY THE RAILS

After Two Days of Decline and Liquidation Market Resumes Advance.

MERGER PROGRESS HELPS

Sales Total 1,641,149 Shares and 37 New High Records for the Year Are Made.

After two days of declining prices, in which stocks were liquidated and profits taken on a large scale, the market yesterday turned squarely about and started up with a rush. The advance put many stocks back to within a short distance of their high points for the year. At the best price of the day, the railroad shares as a group were fractionally more than one-half a point below their highest for the year and in the case of the industrials the average at the day's best prices stood within five-eighths of a point of the high mark for 1924.

The sales yesterday totaled 1,641,149 shares and 512 separate issues were dealt in. Thirty-seven new high records for the year were established, of which five were in the railroad shares and thirty-two in the industrials. At the day's close, the railroad shares at 78.47 had advanced .96, and the industrials at 126.23 were up .90, the entire market at 102.37 showing an advance of .97.

It was the railroad shares that pulled the market out of the doldrums. From the opening they mounted upward in unmistakable fashion. The advance was based on what was considered a practical completion of the Van-Sweringen merger and it was the shares of roads which will be merged, especially the Nickel Plate, the Pere Marquette and the Erie, which were strongest. Early in the day the public utility stocks were strengthened by the announcement that the $1 gas rate had been held unconstitutional and this stimulated interest not only in the local utility issues but in many of the other issues based on public service of all sorts. The advance in such shares as Brooklyn Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, Consolidated Gas and others of the same sort was rapid.

In the afternoon trading some of the industrial issues, which had been dormant under quiet profit-taking, started to forge upward and some large gains were made in a great number of them, with the automobile shares probably in the most active speculative demand. Among the industrial issues in which the gains were outstanding were American Express, American Sugar preferred, Associated Dry Goods, Consolidated Cigars, Caramel Fruit, Foundation Company, Fisher Body, General Baking, Gimbel Brothers, Iron Products, Jordan Motor, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Mack Trucks, Nash Motors, Otis Elevator, White Motors, West Penn Power, Stewart-Warner, Railway Steel Spring and Pullman. Many other industrial issues advanced in less violent fashion, but generally the market was strong, with gains well distributed throughout the list.

Professional operations were apparent in many directions. Some of the pools which had been dormant during liquidation in the last few days resumed activity in their favorite issues. There was a good deal of short covering, too, by operators who had been "feeling for the top" of the market and who have decided to take in their short lines. The advances were made with only moderate rapidity and what was called a moderate volume of trading. The wire houses which had been big sellers on the previous two days once more were "buying on balance."

The day's news was constructive in nature, another step having been taken toward the conclusion of the Van Sweringen merger. In the financial district during the last month there were times when there was considerable doubt that this merger would be successful. The strength and activity yesterday of the stocks concerned in the merger were considered in speculative circles as a signal that the merger would be completed. The industrial news also was tinged with reports of higher prices, especially for metals, and continued moderate expansion in industry.

Three considerations now are uppermost in the minds of Wall Street operators. The first is that many persons who have rolled up tremendous profits in the market do not wish to sell before the turn of the year because of the income tax; second, a large number of persons who had sold stocks to cash their profits and who wanted to get back into the market took advantage of the depression of the last two days to accumulate new holdings; third, the two-day short covering of bears, who have fought the market most of the way up, is continuing to put up some measure of resistance, although it is feeble.

QUESTION THE STATUS OF BINGHAM AS VOTER

Governor-Elect Not Listed in New Haven—Holt Wants No Point Made of It.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 12.—Hamilton Holt, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, forwarded the following letter today to Town Clerk John E. Doughan of New Haven, following reports that Governor-elect Hiram Bingham, his Republican opponent, was not a legal voter of this city:

Dear Mr. Doughan:

I am informed that Colonel Hiram Bingham is not now and never has been a legal voter in New Haven.

I sincerely hope that no political capital will be made of an incident of this nature where there are such serious considerations entering into the senatorial campaign.

I trust that there may be some way found to overcome what appears to be a technical difficulty, and I am sure that I am speaking for the entire Democratic Party of this State when I say this. Very truly yours,

HAMILTON HOLT.

The disclosure that the Governor-elect has never been made a legal voter of New Haven was made earlier in the day, and added what was considered to be an important angle to an already complicated situation. Speculation centred on whether the Governor-elect would appear at the polls next Tuesday to exercise the right of suffrage and vote for himself as candidate for United States Senator.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 12.—Thomas J. Spellacy of this city has received the following letter from Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York:

Dear Tom: I am satisfied that Democrats throughout the country have their eye on the State of Connecticut. Nothing that I can think of today would give more encouragement to the rank and file of the party than the election of Mr. Hamilton Holt as United States Senator from your State. Of his unquestioned qualifications for the high office I need not speak. They are known and it is the hope of Democrats that the rank and file of the party will become sufficiently interested to go to the polls and vote. The people full negatively as well as affirmatively, and a good, forceful, vigorous minority is essential to the establishment and progress of good government.

I certainly wish that the pressure of official business in Albany was not as strong as I find it. I would like to make a personal appeal to my Democratic friends in Connecticut to stand strong by the party in this contest. I am hoping that it will be brought about anyway.

With kind regards and best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

ALFRED E. SMITH.

Why a Fellow Talks So Much About His Lionel

"LOOKS just like my Lionel, doesn't it!" That is what a boy said at the movies as the Express came rushing along the track.

Boys are always comparing their Lionel Electric Trains to real trains because they know how realistic Lionel trains are. The only difference between Lionel and real railroads is the size.

Since 1900 Lionel has specialized exclusively in the manufacture of model electric railways. Lionel makes true model trains and equipment—not mere "toys."

The maker of a "toy" expects you to soon break it or tire of it. But Lionel wants you to enjoy your Lionel Model Railroad for years and then, perhaps, pass it on to your younger brother.

Appeal for Mentally Diseased

The Reverend Dr. Leser Weingarten, District Rabbi of Bad Kreuz, Germany, appeals on behalf of the Jewish Institute for the Treatment and Cure of Mental Diseases, situated in Bonn, near Cologne, on the Rhine. The institution cares for over 150 patients and approximately 5 to 6 marks a day will support one person under treatment.

It is proposed to admit forty new patients and for this purpose 80,000 marks is needed, of which about one-half has been collected in Germany. Financial conditions among German Jews render further help impossible by them.

Due to financial stringency the institute was compelled to discharge sixty patients and send them to Government sanitariums, in many of which it is found discrimination is practiced. Jews of New York are urgently appealed to to help in this truly charitable cause. Full information may be had from Dr. Weingarten, 47 West Thirty-seventh Street.

6 TONGMEN CAUGHT SLIPPING INTO CITY

CHINESE HAVE BIG SUMS

Each Also Found to Have a Razor Concealed—Sent to Ellis Island for Inquiry.

When five Chinese were arrested yesterday morning in a taxicab at Chambers Street and West Broadway it was disclosed that members of the Hip Sing and the On Leong Tongs are now transferring members "overland" for long distances in taxicabs and automobiles in order to keep their movements secret.

A policeman became suspicious of a taxicab which came off a Cortlandt Street ferryboat at 2 A. M. because it bore a Philadelphia license number and appeared to have no occupant but the chauffeur. He followed the machine to Chambers Street and West Broadway, where he stopped the driver and looked inside. Crouched on the floor were five Chinese, garbed in ill-fitting American attire, and seemingly hiding.

"Where'd you get these fellows?" the policeman demanded of the chauffeur.

"I got them in Philadelphia," was the reply. "They bargained with me to bring them to the headquarters of the Hip Sing Tong at 15 Pell Street for $40."

The policeman took the men to the station, where they said they were all seamen and lived at 347 Market Street, Philadelphia. The chauffeur said he understood that the men had come to this city by taxicab to evade the Philadelphia police restrictions against Chinese leaving that city by train, in an effort to forestall fleeing gunmen or hatchetmen.

The five Chinese were searched at the station. Each man carried a razor in his silk blouse and the five had several thousand dollars in British and American money. All of them professed to know nothing about the feud between the Hip Sing Tong and the On Leong Tong when they were questioned later by an interpreter from the Immigration Station on Ellis Island, and declared that they had been legally admitted to this country some time ago.

The immigration officials believed, however, they had been smuggled from a British steamship in the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia and had been sent here by Tong leaders in Philadelphia. They were taken to the immigraton station pending possible deportation.

TO ARREST BRINDELL WHEN HE IS PAROLED

Federal Authorities Will Prosecute Him on Charge of Falsifying Income Tax Return.

Robert P. Brindell, former New York City labor leader serving a prison term for extortion, will be arrested on a Federal warrant charging falsification of income tax return when he leaves State Prison. He has been paroled for Dec. 26.

Brindell will be taken to Whitehall, N. Y., for arraignment in custody of a Federal officer.

United States Marshal D. F. Breitenstein said yesterday that he had heard Brindell was attempting to arrange for a Federal Judge or Commissioner to go to Great Meadow Prison at Comstock to arrange bail. This would enable the prisoner to leave prison unescorted. Marshal Breitenstein said this would not be permitted. He said he had been notified of the parole about a month ago.

United States Attorney William Hayward, who will prosecute the Federal charge against Brindell, said that he had not heard whether the Parole Board was going to free the prisoner Dec. 26 or not.

"We are not interested in what the State does with him," Mr. Hayward said. "We will get him when he gets out, whether now or a year from now."

TAX ASSESSOR SUSPENDED.

Grand Jury to Take Up Bronx Incinerator Case.

Following information, made public yesterday, that John P. Petersen, a Bronx tax assessor, had been suspended by the Board of Taxes and Assessments, charged with having more than doubled the assessment value of property owned by him at Trinity Street and the East River in the Bronx, the tentative site for the proposed new incinerator for the Hunts Point district, District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx issued a subpoena for Henry M. Goldfogle of the Board of Taxes and Assessments, directing him to produce on Monday the minutes of the board for the meeting at which Petersen was suspended.

In the order suspending Petersen, who lives at 1,890 Daly Avenue, the Bronx, it was alleged that Petersen bought the property in question last February at $40,000 and raised the assessment value to $325,000.

District Attorney McGeehan yesterday refused to comment on the case pending the outcome of the Grand Jury investigation.

Mr. Goldfogle said last night that the charges against Petersen had been duly formulated and that the matter would now take its regular course according to law.

BEATER OF BOY SENTENCED.

Father Is Sent to Sing Sing and Fined $1,000 Besides.

For beating his 10-year-old son over the head and body with a hammer, because the boy had failed to bring home money he had earned as a bootblack, Nicholas Kitesonis of 402 West Thirty-eighth Street was sentenced yesterday in General Sessions to from two and a half to five years in Sing Sing and ordered to pay a fine of $1,000. Judge Mancuso said that if Kitesonis defaulted in payment of the fine, he was to serve one day for each dollar.

Kitesonis was arrested on a charge of first degree felonious assault last week after he had evaded detectives for a month and a half. He pleaded guilty to felonious assault in the second degree the following day, and Judge Mancuso put off sentence until yesterday.

Held on Coercion Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Charged with halting motorists on the highways and inducing them to pay bail money to him on the pretext that he was serving summonses for violations of the highway laws, William Pott, a former motorcycle policeman, was held for the Grand Jury here today. Eugene Conroy of Nyack, was the complainant. The police believe that the arrest of Pott may clear up the mystery surrounding the reports of many motorists that they had been stopped by men representing themselves as police, and forced to give bail money.

GARVAN ATTACKS THE DAWES PLAN

Tells Chemists It Is Building the Sort of "Frankenstein That Caused the War."

GAS-WARFARE PLOT SEEN

Charles H. Herty Says Germans and Japanese Are Planning to Arrange Cooperation.

Francis P. Garvan, President of the Chemical Foundation and former Alien Property Custodian, attacked the Dawes plan yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel Commodore held in connection with the annual meeting of the Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturers' Association, whose membership includes many of the foremost chemists of the country. He said it was "building up the Frankenstein that caused the war," and that already German interests had borrowed "millions upon millions of American dollars," and were buying chemical plants here to go into competition "where they stand to lose nothing but American dollars."

Charles H. Herty of New York, President of the organization, charged in his annual report that the present visit to Japan of Professor Fritz Haber, the leader of chemical warfare in Germany during the World War, while ostensibly for scientific purposes, was in reality "to arrange closer relationships in the matter of gas warfare." He also criticised the State Department for not yielding to the society's contention that the United States should be represented at the London conference by technical assistants on the question of reparation dyes and pharmaceuticals.

There were four sessions of yesterday's meeting in addition to the luncheon, the last of which was an informal discussion of the relation between the manufacturers and university teaching of chemistry, participated in by members of the organization and leading chemists of Eastern universities, who included Professor Martin T. Rogert of Columbia, Professor James B. Conant of Harvard, Professor Treat B. Johnson of Yale, Professor Lauder Jones of Princeton, former Provost Edgar Fahs Smith of Pennsylvania, Professor E. Emmet Reid of Johns Hopkins and Professor James F. Norris of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Chairman of the chemical division of the National Research Council.

Mr. Garvan's Comments.

Mr. Garvan approached the discussion of the Dawes plan by telling of the struggle to build up the American chemical industry against German competition. He said:

"But the fight for a cause like that is never over. One phase of it you conquer on one front, and the attack comes on another front. We have seen the influence of Germany in our fight for legislation, in our fight for protection in Washington, in our fight against the prejudices built up by the German industry over many years. But the superiority and the quality of American national feeling has overcome those objections.

"It is an ill hour to say anything in criticism of the Dawes plan. I don't agree with it. I think it is building up the Frankenstein that caused the war. It is bringing back into the world the same conditions, without any guarantee of control of them, which brought about the war.

"But I am probably wrong. There are too many fine men, too disinterested and splendid and patriotic men, too many men superior in their economic knowledge to mine in favor of it to make me believe in my own theory about it.

"But one thing I could say, that the men who brought about the acceptance of this plan, the responsibility rests upon them that its working be not abused and be not turned to the destruction of the interests of this country. Already the I. G. has come here under the encouragement of the money lending proposition, has borrowed millions upon millions of American dollars, and has organized that fund in Wall Street to corrupt and break down the great progress which has been made. Already they dangle their dollars before the weariness of your trial. They seek to buy up this plant and that plant, not with their own money, but with American dollars, which will be bonded and sold and stuck in the estates of the women and children of this country.

"They won't have a dollar in the plants they seek to buy themselves. They seek to buy those plants to destroy you people by a competition where they stand to lose nothing but American dollars. Those funds are in Wall Street today and reach into the millions of dollars. I call upon you to answer them in the words of the Gospel: 'What came you out to see, a reed shaking in the wind?' or American citizens who are conscious of the support that this nation has given them, conscious of the support of the consuming industries of the country, conscious of the support that the great people of America in our colleges and schools are giving them?

Sees Treason Involved.

"A man who listens to their arguments I believe to be a traitor to the people who have helped and supported this industry throughout its burdensome struggle, a traitor to the American flag. Every industry of yours is an arsenal, and the introduction of every foreign control over any of the arsenals of America is treason, and it is treason to the great end and cause of all our lives, treason to our children and our children's children. Because, after all, the aim of this movement is the bettering of the conditions of our children and our children's children.

"So I beg of you all to stand firm under the new temptation, I beg of you all to bear your burdens on this new battle, on this new front, and to answer them with a snap of your good American jaw, 'What came you out to see?'"

CROSSING SAFETY ZONES AGAIN URGED ON CITY

Merchants' Association Cites Results of White Lines in Other Cities as an Argument.

The Merchants' Association's Committee on Control of Street Traffic, headed by Major Henry L. Stratton, renewed its agitation yesterday for the marking of street crossings with white lines, painted on the surface or inlaid for the safety of people on foot. The committee in reporting on the practice in other cities calls attention to the fact that the suggestion when first made last April was rejected by Dr. John A. Harriss, Deputy Police Commissioner. According to the committee's report, Dr. Harriss held that the results would not justify the expense.

"We do not agree with the conclusions of Deputy Commissioner Harriss," says the report. "We believe that the safety of pedestrians in this city would be materially increased by zones of safety at many principal street intersections and in the centre of long blocks. Such safety zones would tend to educate the public to their general use and would likewise tend to cause vehicular traffic to pass around instead of passing through the areas necessary for the safety of pedestrians entering or leaving street cars or other vehicles."

Hunter Is Shot by His Dog.

WISCASSET, Me., Dec. 12.—Theodore Sherman of Edgecomb was shot by his dog yesterday while gunning near here. Mr. Sherman had placed his loaded gun on the ground while he crawled under his automobile to make an adjustment and the dog stepped on the trigger. The charge of shot entered Sherman's leg between the knee and ankle.

FIGHT PORTER PLAN AT OPIUM PARLEY

England, France, Holland, India and Portugal Sharply Oppose Our Proposals.

FIRST CONFERENCE BLAMED

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 12.—The fate of the American plan for suppression of the traffic in prepared opium hangs in the balance tonight. For three hours this afternoon at a plenary session of the conference the supporters and opponents centred their fight for and against Paragraph 8, Article 2 of the plan dealing with the suppression of opium by a reduction in importation of 10 per cent. annually, which is considered by the American delegates as the vital point of the entire conference. If accepted, it will permit the second conference, it is said, to stop up numerous loopholes left by the opium producing nations in the convention drawn up by the first conference, and if rejected will vitiate the American program and put off to the indefinite future the suppression of opium.

In the three-hour debate Holland, England, India, France and Portugal bitterly opposed the introduction of the American measure into the conference's agenda, while Uruguay, Brazil and China lined up behind the American delegation. Japan, while attacking the work of the first conference, declared that her instructions require that she shall not participate in the second committee if Article 2 shall be accepted for the agenda.

The Americans, who have always been opposed to the idea of two conferences, stressed their belief in presenting their proposition that the second conference was empowered to deal with the question both under The Hague convention and the resolution of the fourth Assembly of the League of Nations.

The point at issue is the only one in the American plan which has not been admitted to the agenda. Representative Stephen G. Porter, in presenting it, asked that it be accepted for immediate discussion.

M. van Wettum, the delegate from Holland, vigorously opposed Mr. Porter's proposal. He described the action as without precedent in international conferences and declared the question of prepared opium already had been dealt with in the first conference. he said, and America's proposition was intolerable, as it would make null and void all the results of the first conference. To discuss again the question of prepared optium, he contended, would be not only to pass verdict on the delegates of the first conference but on the Governments represented.

Holland's delegate sarcastically referred to idealists who would reform the world in one day. He described the enormous task already performed, and said that if there were to be additional suggestions, there would be a conference in 1929 where they could be discussed. He was instructed by his Government, he said, to formally protest against the proposal and refuse to discuss it if it were admitted to the agenda.

British Delegate Attacks Plan.

Sir Malcolm Delevingne of Great Britain supported the objection of Holland, declaring that Britain would be unable to take part in the discussion if the additions were made to the agenda. He maintained that additions to the agenda should be made only by a unanimous vote. The first conference, he said, had reached an agreement after considerable difficulty, and while the results were not all that were to be desired, and while he regretted that it had not accomplished more, he did not see that the first convention deserved the attack circulated by Bishop Brent of America.

One of the principal difficulties of the first conference, Sir Malcolm said, was that it was covered with a cloud of prejudice and attacks of which the British Government had been the centre. The British Government, he declared, would agree to a small, impartial committee composed of the States of nations not directly interested being named by the Council of the League to investigate conditions in the Far Eastern countries and the colonies where opium still is used, and report back to the Council. The Pullippines, he maintained, should be included in the investigation.

France and Portugal supported the opposition to the American plan on technical juridical grounds. Japan deplored the unsatisfactory work of the first conference, and praised the ideals of the delegates who are seeking to aid humanity.

"Compassion for humanity was the principle which guided all the great teachers," said the Japanese delegate. "It was the inspiration of Buddha, Confucius and, above all, Jesus Christ."

The cudgels were taken up for the American proposal by M. Buero of Uruguay with admirable clearness and eloquence. Representatives of eight signatories of The Hague convention were present, he said, and were competent to discuss anything pertaining to the suppression of opium. There was nothing to prevent the committee from discussing The Hague convention in whole, or Part 2 in particular, he said, and despite the mandate for the work of the First Committee, the problem remained as a whole to be examined by the second conference.

Porter Explains American Stand.

Representative Porter in his address recalled that he had reserved the right to move an addition to the agenda when he had stated that the first conference's failure to reach an agreement had made obvious the wisdom of widening the scope of the second to include a discussion of the progressive suppression of the opium traffic. The Hague conference, he said, placed the responsibility in this matter on all the contracting powers without distinction. That convention he maintained, solemnly obligated the powers to take measures for a gradual but effective suppression of the manufacture, internal trade in and use of prepared opium.

"The United States and all nations except those with colonies in the Orient represented at the first conference had taken measures to stamp out the drug," Mr. Porter went on. "The right of any nation signatory to The Hague Convention which had fulfilled its obligation was not only to ascertain whether the other signatory powers had fulfilled their obligations, but also to insist, if the occasion arose, that such power take the steps necessary to that end. A nation also had the right, he said, to insist that the signatory powers take no measures by supplementary agreement to weaken The Hague Convention in such a manner as to release themselves from the fulfillment of the obligations they had undertaken.

"The United States and other countries were seriously suffering ill effects from the leakage in the distribution of enormous quantities of raw prepared opium from the Orient, Mr. Porter declared, and the only remedy was to demand that The Hague signatories comply with the agreement for suppression. He called attention to the resolution of the Fourth Assembly of the League of Nations wherein the Governments were invited to enter into negotiations for the conclusion of an agreement as to measures giving an effective application to the Eastern territories in Part II. of the convention, and the reduction in the amount of raw opium to be imported for the smoking territories where it is temporarily continued.

"We have a group of the most influential nations accepting the agreement and professing to provide for the adoption of measures for the suppression of the traffic in prepared opium, many of which are known to be less effective than the measures in operation in several of the countries represented in the first conference," the American representative declared.

After a technical opposition of the Indian delegate had been set forth, the conference adjourned until tomorrow.

OPERA

By OLIN DOWNES.

A Spirited "La Juive."

Rachel.....Florence Easton
Eleazar.....Giovanni Martinelli
Cardinal Brogni.....Leon Rothier
The Princess.....Charlotte Ryan
Leopold.....Ralph Errolle
Ruggiero.....Arnold Gabor
Albert.....Louis D'Angelo
A Herald and a Major Domo...James Wolfe
Conductor, Louis Hasselmans.

Halevy's "La Juive," given last night its first performance of the season in the Metropolitan Opera House, is one of the works which Mr. Gatti-Casazza mounts with special effect, and in which certain of his leading singers perform with an unction and enthusiasm that they do not always bring to more important works. Take Mr. Martinelli, for instance. He is one of the most intrepid mounters of high notes in the company. He has a splendid vocal organ. No one is more handsomely disposed toward the fermata—with or without the sanction of the composer—the gallant gesture, the oily phrase.

Last night Mr. Martinelli was heard in all his glory. In some scenes he was continent in the employment of his voice, proportionate in his dynamics, and then showed what he could do in artistic singing. Elsewhere he was conspicuous for robustness and enthusiasm, and the more robust the greater the pleasure of a large element of the audience. The louder Mr. Martinelli sang the louder they applauded. Mr. Martinelli acted with unusual dramatic ability, giving outward semblance, at least, to an operatic character, making much of such stage business as the conventionalities of the rôle permitted. It was, so far as the outbursts of applause showed a Martinelli evening.

Some thought, however, that Miss Easton and Mr. Rothier showed prominent talent. Miss Easton has, perhaps, certain temperamental limitations as a dramatic interpretator, but she touches few parts that her customary skill in song, her intelligence and musicianship fail to adorn. Mr. Rothier, as in many previous appearances, gave much dignity to the rôle of the Cardinal and evidenced again his past mastery of its style. Miss Ryan required more vocal resource than she had to meet adequately the demands of Halévy's Princess. Mr. Errole had a part which taxed his voice heavily, but showed talent and spirit in his performance.

More important than individual details of interpretation is the fact that this performance had a certainty, a cohesion and "go" which have not invariably been present in Metropolitan performances this season. It had also the superb scenic settings of Joseph Urban, the admirable signing of the chorus and a showy, well executed, though garishly garbed, ballet. It had, in spirit as well as letter, "ensemble," and the grand style of the Meyerbeerian opera which is of the past. At the Metropolitan its traditions are upheld with a special sympathy and splendor. This policy is more than a personal idiosyncrasy with Mr. Gatti-Casazza; it is approved and upheld by the public. What does the music say, in the sense of genuine emotional intent? Very little, at least to ears of today. What is the opera about? It is something about boiling oil. The details are unimportant. The characters are inhuman; the plot creaks with age and absurdity; the music, with the exception of a passage or two in the second act, is the epitome of commonplace.

What is the use of talking? This is ancient grand opera. Thousands will flock to hear it, and applaud it deliriously, too.

Mr. Martinelli at the end of the opera received an ovation.

WANDA LANDOWSKA PLAYS OLD MASTERS

Alternates Harpsichord and Piano in "Artists' Series" Benefit at Carnegie Hall.

Mme. Wanda Landowska, whose return in early November, following one previous season here, proved the public interest in her "renewal and revitalization" of the works of the elder masters for harpsichord and piano, appeared at Carnegie Hall last night in a program of chamber music de luxe, arranged in the "artists' series" of benefits for the local Association of Music School Settlements.

Paul Kochanski, the violin virtuoso, and Ewasel Belousseff, 'cellist, assisted in trios of Haydn in A major and G major, both with harpsichord, while Mozart's piano quartet in G minor further enlisted Rene Pollain, viola, of the New York Symphony. There was an audience of distinguished character and of numbers indicating substantial aid to the beneficiary music schools.

Mme. Landowska had prepared in French for translation into English a program note, her persuasive argument for hearing the older music in its prime estate. Her skilled hands at the harpsichord again illustrated "the cangorous majesty of its coupled keyboards," the story of the "Rod Soleil" of instruments which beguiled the leisure of more spacious days for 300 years up to the end of the eighteenth century.

"Haydn and Mozart," her note added, "were thoroughly acquainted with and employed both instruments, whose disparate accents by turns mingle and contend in their works for the keyboard—the brusque of the harpsichord, lofty, aristocratic, sparkling with a thousand luminous facets; and that of the piano, blossoming, amorous, tenderly sentimental.

"The better to illustrate this multiplicity, one ought to perform the same work successively on the two. I prefer to alternate between harpsichord and piano, leaving my hearers free to incline, now toward the one, now the other. Our garden is large enough to leave room for a handful of delicate flowers beside the stout oaks."

The great hall did not preclude striking effect in the evening's intimate classics, which the players gave from the front of Carnegie's stage, its greater depth screened by heavy curtains behind them. There seemed, in Mozart's robust "rondo allegro," a blossoming, indeed, of piano tone, the more marked by reason of quaintly florid style.

Later, in the return to Haydn and the harpsichord, it was a delight to hear violin and 'cello magnificent in contrast with plucked harpsichord dripping gold, in a Rondo of "all Ongarese" of a century before Remenyi had played to Brahms, and Liszt to the wide world, the first Hungarian rhapsodies. There was applause not only after the separate works but also at each pause in the principal numbers.

MUSIC NOTES.

Grieghar Novaes, in her benefit program for Union Settlement today at Aeolian Hall, includes the "Childhood Scenes of Schumann, Blanchet's "Garden of the Old Seraglio" and Debussy's "Evening in Granada."

Seventy-five children of the Bronx House Music School, directed by Edgar S. Stowell and assisted by Frances Sebel, soprano, will sing tonight in the hall of Morris High School in the Bronx.

Theodore Karle, tenor, will be assisted by Frank LaForge in a song recital tomorrow evening at the Educational Alliance.

THE PLAY

By STARK YOUNG.

The Actors' Theatre.

Miss Prosperine Garnett.....Clare Eames
Rev. James Mavor Morell..Pedro de Cordoba
Rev. Alexander Mill.....Gerald Hamer
Mr. Burgess.....Ernest Cossart
Candida.....Katherine Cornell
Eugene Marchbanks.....Richard Bird

The Actors' Theatre, successor to Equity Players, gave a performance of "Candida" yesterday afternoon at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre that deserved to repeat itself for months of matinees. It is a bit late, of course, to review the play at this day and time. But "Candida" stands out as almost the one classic of its generation in the English theatre. Already we think of one Marchbanks and another, and of one actress in the heroine's part as compared with a list of others. And from this latest performance we can recognize better than ever what a remarkable drama "Candida" is.

"Candida" has faults and they appeared yesterday. The insistence here and there is overstrong, as usual in Shaw; he presses too hard on the point when it seems to him to need driving over the footlights. He takes the words from the characters' mouths sometimes and substitutes lines of his own. Marchbanks, the poet, now and then speaks outside of himself or unconvincingly, the one or two long speeches especially the intention behind the words is right enough, but what he actually says either puts him down as somewhat inconsequent after all, which is not the case, or shows the dramatist's lack of enough poetic imagination to make the remarks convincing. In the last scene of the play the two men say in spirit what they would say, but the exact words are Shaw's and are words somewhat forced into their situations. But "Candida" has fine motivations, fine humor, a fine acting quality and fine satire. It is full of sensitive understanding and now and again of tenderness for life and human happiness.

It is rich with dramatic contrast, with charming dialogue and drawing; and it is more or less universally modern in its subject matter and its thinking. It has neither the garrulity nor the arbitrariness of many of Shaw's plays, and hence is reasonable in construction and holds the interest from beginning to end.

Wisely and happily from every point of view the setting and the costumes in yesterday's production were taken from the period of the play, a generation ago.

If every rôle in "Candida" is an excellent acting part, all the six of them, the interest centres on two, the poet and the wife. Marchbanks was played by the English actor, Richard Bird, who came to us earlier in the season as a soldier in "Havoc." His Marchbanks had feeling and emotional intensity, and a diction that allowed great speed in the excited passages of the dialogue. He lacked the distinction that Marchbanks must have had. He tended too much toward physical awkwardness and writhing about. Marchbanks has a strength that would give him a certain fierce spiritual dignity after all, his fear and his disadvantage in the face of brute force and in the mere contact with strangers and people in general arises from the intensely sensitive response that he makes, from the fact that things mean more to him than to any one else.

Candida in the hands of Katherine Cornell was a deep revelation of the part. Her frail presence had something in it of the light of another world. She was strong, not with womanly diplomb and maternal astuteness, but with an unfailing spiritual sense and understand. Miss Cornell's playing of all the last act was a thing so delicate and translucent and moving as we rarely see, more tender and practical and full of vision and of virile peace than the dramatist himself perhaps quite imagined. Her interpretation was womanly in the one immortal sense of the word, it was gentle and wise and beautiful.

As Morell, the clergyman, orator and lord and master of the house, Pedro de Cordoba expressed the right lack of humor, the right egotism and the right impression of a sonorous and mounting confidence built on sand. Not either because he did not know his lines well or because of a slowness in method, he often failed to give the one main physical characteristic of the Rev. James Mavor Morell, which is fluency, and the gift of gab, of ready and inspired spouting. His first scene with Marchbanks, in which the poet shakes the great man's belief in himself, was played by neither of the actors with enough regard to the scene itself, the meaning of the one, the wilful and barbed undercutting of the other. Ernest Cossart played the rascally father of Candida better in the last two acts than in the first; his scene with the first was capitally done.

On the whole it was the women in the cast who carried off the honors. In addition to Miss Cornell, Clare Eames as Proserpine Garnett, the secretary, in love, like all the women with Morell, played the rôle to the last capacity. All in all, Miss Eames achieved the most complete performance that I have seen in her career. What she did with the scene where Marchbanks pries out her secrets and her love for Morell was a profound revelation in comedy and pathos. Her comedy in the last act was as good as this wry gauche tragedy forty minutes before. And over her entire performance there shone from start to finish a kind of brittle, lustrous wit.

As producing director, Dudley Digges may have every reason to be pleased with this first venture of the Actors' Theatre.

BRAHMS CYCLE CONCERT.

Elshuco Trio and Festival Quartet in Third Program of Series.

The Elshuco Trio and its assisting artists from the Festival Quartet of South Mountain gave the third of eight Brahms cycle programs last night in Aeolian Hall, recalling to not a few hearers in their large audience the similar performances held in ideal surroundings on Midsummer Sunday afternoons at Pittsfield, Mass. The players on the present occasion were Messrs. Kroll and Kortschak, violins; Kraeuter, viola; Willeke, cello, and Giorni, piano.

Among Brahms's chamber works, completely represented in their series, the program sought variety in selections from middle and later periods, with a calm ending from earlier years. Thrice the house recalled the artists to bow after the beautiful A-minor string quartet, Op. 51, No. 2; mellowed now by a half century. Messrs. Kortschak and Giorni were paired in the G-major sonata, Op. 78, of the riper year 1880, and the concert closed with the A-major piano quartet, Op. 26, in a fresh, buoyant spirit of Brahms the youth, of 1863.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The following attractions will end their New York engagements tonight: "Artistic Temperament," "The Man in Evening Clothes," "Marjorie," "The Steam Roller," "George White's Scandals," "The Easy Mark," "S. S. Glencairn" and "The Desert Flower."

Hal Skelly is a recent addition to the cast of "Betty Lee," opening at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre on Christmas night.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," after a week at the Punch and Judy Theatre, will resume performances at the Triangle Theatre in Greenwich Village next Tuesday night.

A Boisterous Fantasy.

THE LAST MAN ON EARTH, with Earle Foxe, Derelys Perdue, Grace Cunard, Gladys Tennyson, Maryon Aye, Clarissa Selwynne, Pauline French, Marie Astair, Jean Johnson, Buck Black, Maurice Murphy, William Steele, Jack Dumas, Harry Dunkinson and Fay Holderness. Directed by J. G. Blystone. Special music score by Erno Rapee. "Nip o' Scotch," an Imperial comedy. At the Central.

A boisterous and frivolous fantasy, concerned with a world of women and the sudden discovery of a solitary man is the present film attraction at the Central Theatre. It bears the title of "The Last Man on Earth" and is pictured rather in the Mack Sennett vein, ladened with the pulchritude of the Hollywood studio variety.

It is in the year 1960, when, through some curious plague, all males over 14 become victims and die. The women do not seem grief-stricken as they go about their respective duties with bright faces and weird costumes. The fashions are given to transparent hoop-skirts and pantaloons or the simpler mode of the one-piece bathing suit. The Presidentess of the United States has permitted the White House to become a ruin, with towering weeds and high grass on the hitherto beautiful lawns. She is very fond of black cats, but does become unusually interested in the finding of a male of the species who is 26 years old. Being the first lady of the land, she insists that the last man on earth be sent to the White House. The discoverer, however, has an eye for money and holds that the man is worth at least $10,000,000.

The Senatoresses from Massachusetts and the Senatoress from California agree that there shall be a prizefight between two women to see who wins the long man.

The boys under 14 are pampered like weak girls, especially after the discovery of a serum which renders them immune from the plague. When Greenwich Gertie, a clever crook and leader of the much-feared Tea House Gang, comes across Elmer (Earl Foxe) hiding in the backwoods she believes that she has done more than the discoverer of the serum. Here you see Elmer being lugged into a hospital and examined by the physicians, while scores of women (the males are outside). He is deprived of his beard and long hair and made to appear respectable, with trousers that flare and silk insertions in the bell-shaped extremities. He has a go to Washington to see the two politicel leaders, to bathing suits, fighting to win him. The Presidentess even permits him to sit in her chair. Elmer is the most petted man that has ever stepped on earth, and yet he does not appear to enjoy all the attention he receives.

Merchants announce their appointment to dress, manicure and barber The Man and newspapers follow after every move. As an entertainment for the brain-weary this may achieve its purpose.

IBANEZ FILM HISSED DOWN.

Madrid Audience Forces Management to Substitute Another Picture.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Dec. 12.—When a film based on one of Blasco Ibanez's novels was about to be shown in a cinema here yesterday the audience hissed and booed and shouted "vivas" for the King and for Spain. The people called for the national anthem to be played by the orchestra and obliged the management to substitute another film.

All this was a protest against the campaign Ibanez is carrying on abroad against King Alfonso.

RESELLS ORIENTAL SHARES.

Greek Reparation Delegate Makes a Gain on Transaction.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The 18,477 shares of Oriental Railway Company stock which were bid in by M. Alexandris, the Greek delegate on the Reparation Commission a week ago, were reofferde this morning and were bought by the Banque Nationale de Credit for 520.70 each. Payment must be made in dollars at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York within a week.

When M. Alexandris bid $19.50 per share, which is slightly over the market price, it was announced that they would be offered again to any allied national desiring to go 5 per cent. higher.

The shares were turned over by Germany under the Versailles treaty.

TRANSVAAL HEARD YOUNG SPEECH HERE

Johannesburg Newspaper Carries Account of Dinner Picked Up by Radio Station.

DISTANCE IS 8,000 MILES

Experts Believe It Is the First Time That More Than a Snatch of a Program Has Reached South Africa.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JOHANNESBURG, Dec. 12.—The latest feat in wireless communication is a half-column descriptive report of the banquet to Owen D. Young in New York last night published in The Johannesburg Star today. The speeches were picked up by radio at Hendrina, in the Transvaal, and telephoned to The Star office.

At the Radio Corporation of America's broadcasting station, WJZ, which was one of those which broadcast the speech made by Mr. Young Thursday night at the dinner in his honor in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, it was said last night that it was the first time in the knowledge of the officials of that company that a speech of such length had been picked up in South Africa.

It was explained that a short time ago reports were received from South Africa that snatches of a program broadcast by WOR, the station of L. Bamberger & Co. in Newark, N. J., had been picked up there, but that was ascribed to unusually favorable weather conditions and other circumstances which had not been contemplated when the program was being sent out "on the air."

The WJZ officials were inclined to believe that the speech as picked up at Hendrina, in the Transvaal, came through either one or two of the most powerful of the eight or ten radio stations which simultaneously broadcast Mr. Young's remarks. These stations were WGY in Schenectady and KDKA in Pittsburgh.

These stations were operated on a short wave length in the neighborhood of 107 meters, it was explained, and because of the electrical strength of the two transmitting stations it would be more than likely that Mr. Young's words were conveyed to South Africa through one of them.

So far as was known to the WJZ officials, no special arrangements had been made by powerful broadcasting stations in England or any other part of Europe to relay the speech to South Africa or other distant points.

The chief engineer of the Radio Corporation's broadcasting station, as well as other officials there, expressed their elation over the achievement, however. They said that, inasmuch as an account of the dinner was published in the Johannesburg Star, it was indisputable proof that the speech of the co-author and first director of the Dawes reparations plan had been sent across the ocean in clear voice.

The distance from New York City to Hendrina, in the Transvaal, is about 8,000 miles.

DAWES TRIBUTE TO YOUNG.

This is the text of the letter sent by Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Vice President-elect, to the dinner to Owen D. Young, his co-author in the Dawes plan, when illness kept General Dawes from the Waldorf-Astoria on Thursday night:

Evanston, Ill.

It is a great sorrow to me that my physicians forbid a trip to New York to pay my tribute, in person, tonight to the outstanding accomplishments of Owen D. Young in his work as a member of the First Committee of Experts, appointed by the Reparation Commission, and in the great London conference which resulted in the agreement to put into operation the plan of the experts.

Prior to our participation in the work of the committee I had not had the privilege of an acquaintance with him, but in the five months of our association there we met together more difficulties than ordinarily test the friendships of a lifetime. As a result of it all I hold him not only in highest admiration but in deep affection, and my words of appreciation, however inadequate, are an expression of my heart as well as my mind.

Because of the fact alone that I was Chairman of the committee, my name is generally used in association with the composite effort of this able group of men, gathered from five nations, and it is all the more incumbent upon me, therefore, to be just in the appraisement of the individual contributions to the plan by my colleagues. In a sense, therefore, I must endeavor to speak as I think my colleagues would have me speak—Sir Josiah Stamp of England, that great practical economist and our leader through the almost inextricable perplexities of the German budget situations; Sir Robert Kindersley, economist, banker and great business leader, who contributed so much to the bank plan; Emile Francqui, the great explorer, banker and business leader of Belgium; M. Parmentier, the brilliant young economist and financial expert of France, the success, difficulty and responsibility of whose work on the committee cannot be overestimated; M. Pirelli, the head of a great Italian enterprise, whose business extends over Europe and whose alert and ingenious mind found the way out of so many of our difficulties, and Baron Houtart, Professor Allix and Professor Flora, whose experience and ability helped so much in our work.

To Mr. Young, Mr. Robinson and myself the comparative lack of public recognition which has been given to these able men in their own countries and in the world, as compared with the praise we have received, has been a real grief, and we all have endeavored in every way to testify to their genius; and yet I feel that I represent these men in expressing my belief that in Owen D. Young we had the most useful and constructive mind on our committee.

If there was one thing more than another in which he excelled it was in his power to sum up the divergent and emphatic views of his colleagues after a heated discussion, and then in a quiet and conclusive way, to point a way to a practical compromise.

No impasse—and we had many—ever disturbed his poise, nor could any number of acute crises in discussion disturb his optimism. He had the faculty of a sympathetic understanding of the positions of an opponent in argument, realising the handicaps under which the committee labored, created by the differing public sentiments and interests of the nations.

All this bespeaks a great heart as well as a great mind, and nothing less than that rare combination would have made Young the factor which he was in our work.

No honor that can be paid him is too high, but knowing him I am sure that he finds his greatest reward for his efforts in the thought that the cause of peace, trade and good will toward men has been advanced by them, and that millions of suffering people are again at work with hope in their hearts and a fair chance in life—with faith, again, in the Christian brotherhood of man.

That his real public service, unsought for its emoluments, but generously given when needed, is thus crowned may well make our dear friend a happy man. Such a reward is not always given to those who earnestly labor and are heavy laden in the public interest, and the fact that it has come to Young gives, as well, heartfelt happiness to me.

CHARLES G. DAWES.

FINGERPRINTS BY RADIO TRIED HERE BY POLICE

Scotland Yard and New York Are Experimenting in Novel Transmission.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Scotland Yard and the New York police are experimenting in the transmission of photographs and fingerprints by radio.

A picture of one of New York's policemen which recently crossed the Atlantic by air was said by Scotland Yard detectives to be so clear that they could easily recognize the man in a crowd.

SOCIALISTS DEFEND EBERT.

Scheidemann and Mueller Testify in Action for Libel.

MADGEBURG, Germany, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—Ex-Chancellors Philipp Scheidemann and Herman Müller were the leading witnesses today in the trial of President Ebert's libel suit against Editor Rothardt of the Mitteldeutsche Zeitung for alleging that the President, when he was a Socialist member of the Reichstag in 1918, provoked a strike sentiment among the munition workers and even urged them to refuse to obey enlistment orders.

Herr Scheidemann testified that the Socialist executive party board was a unit in deciding it would have been criminal to encourage workers to continue to strike or to ignore conscription warrants. Both he and Herr Müller declared that Socialists' participation in the strike was wholly in the interest of the national defenses and that they primarily sought to bring the strike to a satisfactory conclusion.

While the libel trial up to the present has been conducted along the lines of previous suits brought by President Ebert against his alleged traducers, it now appears that the present action threatens to develop into a political issue through the determination of Nationalist influences to assist the defendant for the purpose of discrediting the Socialists generally and the German executive in particular.

President Ebert's attorneys today entered a protest in open court against the manner in which the opposition newspapers were exploiting the case before its formal conclusion. Among the witnesses summoned are half a dozen men who organized the munition workers' walkout in 1918.

ALBANIAN REVOLT SPREADS.

Belgrade Hears Many Tribes Have Risen—Rome Legation Denies It.

BELGRADE, Dec. 12.—Newspaper dispatches from the frontier say the agitation in Albania is tending to increase. All the Liouma (Lyuma) region has risen, it is declared, and fresh tribes have adhered to the movement.

By order of the Government at Tirana numerous partisans of Ahmed Zogu, former Premier, who is alleged to be the chief of the insurrection, have been arrested in the Mati (Matya) region, which has aroused violent indignation among the Mussulman population. Government partisans destroyed the house of former Mayor Mousa Fuoka at Scutari, the dispatches assert.

The Serbian press attributes the movement to pressure alleged to have been brought to bear by the Government under Premier Fan Noli, in view of the elections on Dec. 20.

ROME, Dec. 12.—Official denial was made at the Albanian Legation here today of reports published by some of the newspapers of an insurrection in Northern Albania.

The belief was expressed that the reports were circulated by those who aimed to put Albania in a bad light on the eve of discussion of Albanian interests before the League of Nations.

AMERICANS RALLY TO BAST.

Support Bishop Arrested Abroad on Funds-Diversion Charge.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 12.—American Methodists are rallying to the support of Bishop Anton Bast, under arrest here on charges in connection with the disposition of funds collected for charity. Messages expressing confidence in the Bishop, and promising cooperation have been received from Bishop William Anderson and Dr. F. M. North, Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Another communication, in the name of the Scandinavian clergymen in the United States, said: "Stand with you to the last. Can we assist you in any way?"

Dr. North is quoted as previously declaring that Bishop Bast's accounts were satisfactory in every respect.

Dr. Bast's arrest had the effect of somewhat reducing Danish charity gifts to the Central Mission.

Answers Charges That Religious Groups Are Unfairly Treated.

The Rev. Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, General Secretary of the American Committee on the Rights of Religious and Racial Minorities announced yesterday that it had received a reply from the Rumanian Government to the committee's charges that certain small religious groups in Transylvania were being unfairly treated.

The reply, Dr. Atkinson said, was signed by Conte Constantinescu, head of the Rumanian Cabinet. It takes up the specific cases at great length and points out that some religious schools are suffering because Rumania is putting in a public school system.

The reply is now in the hands of Dr. Louis C. Cornish of Boston, who was Chairman of the committee that visited Rumania and drafted the report of grievances.

$100,000 IN LIQUOR SEIZED.

Coast Guard Brings Schooner Pocomoke into New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 12.—The two-masted schooner Pocomoke, with fine liquors and champagne aboard said to be worth $100,000, was brought to port today by the Coast Guard destroyer Jouett, having been seized last night south of No Man's Land. Coast Guard officials expressed belief that the 1,000 cases of liquor were bound shoreward for the Christmas trade.

The crew of the Pocomoke gave their names of Captain John Nielson of New York, Oscar Anderson of Greenport, Charles Davis of Greenport, Axel Johnson of Greenport and John Kennedy of New York. They were held for hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson.

PUZZLES PLEASE INSANE.

Adopt the Cross-Word Fad Now at Pennsylvania Mental Hospital.

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 12.—The cross-word puzzle has been adopted by patients at the State Hospital for the Insane at North Warren. Both men and women were said by officers of the institution to have passed hours poring over the black and white squares in newspapers supplied by the hospital.

The new form of diversion has little effect upon the mental welfare of the patients, the officers said.

House Votes to Let Leavitt Sue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The House voted today to authorize Louis Leavitt of Brooklyn to sue the Government in the Court of Claims for $620,000 for losses as a result of purchasing Government bacon in 1918. Mr. Leavitt paid 28 cents a pound and was later accused of hoarding. While the bacon was held up the price decreased to such an extent that he realized only a fraction over 9 cents a pound. He was acquitted. The Senate had voted to pay him restitution.

M'COY DEFENSE LINE INDICATED AT TRIAL

Will Be That Mrs. More Was Slain in Scuffle Over Pistol.

SAY SHE TALKED OF SUICIDE

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—That Norman Selby, better known as Kid McCoy, did not slay Mrs. Theresa More, she being killed in a scuffle over a revolver, and that he did not become insane until he realized she was dead, will be the line advanced by the defense when its turn comes in the trial of the former prizefighter for the murder of the woman with whom he was infatuated.

McCoy himself will take the witness stand and tell such a story. Other witnesses will be called to prove he had been subject to recurrent fits of insanity before he met Mrs. More.

The trial went on today with the State still putting its witnesses on the stand.

The prosecutors elicited from these that McCoy was rational just prior to Mrs. More's death; when she attended a conference with a business adviser and her attorney regarding the seizure by Federal agents of a quantity of her jewels on charges that they had been smuggled into America.

N. C. Emden, the business adviser, and L. B. Jones, Mrs. More's lawyer, said she displeased McCoy by refusing to permit him to attend the conference and that McCoy, who had driven her to the attorney's home, drove away with her car, leaving her to return to her apartments as best she could.

This incident, the defense contends, indicated McCoy was in an abnormal mood, and that when he returned to the apartment they shared as "Mr. and Mrs. Shields," on the night of Aug. 12, his faculties were in a condition where any emotional outburst might upset his reason.

McCoy left the apartment at 11 P. M. and obtained some liquor. Several drinks preceded a quarrel, and Mrs. More, the defense story has it, crying hysterically that Government agents were hounding her, that her husband was continually annoying her in business, that her friends were distraught about her and that McCoy had quarreled with her, declared suicide seemed the easiest way out.

After Mrs. More was dead, McCoy actually became insane in fear of being killing her husband, the prisoner's attorneys say. They made no attempt to confute reiterated testimony today about the hours of effort spent by McCoy in trying to find More and shoot him. Emden and Jones described how McCoy appeared in the shop at opening time, closed the door after Sam Sterns and Mr. Jones came in, and compelled the men to take off their shoes and overcoats and seat themselves on one side of the room while he herded the women on the other side.

"McCoy repeatedly said, 'More is the bird I want to get,'" Emden stated, and several times he compelled Miss Pearl Stein, manager of the store, to telephone to More's home and tell him to hurry to the shop.

"Nobody ever loved any one like I loved Tessa," Emden quoted McCoy as shouting. "I'd go to the electric chair for her."

"He made all the men deposit their money and valuables on a table in the front of the store," continued the witness. "Then, becoming angered by More's continued absence, he said, 'Strike up some music on the phonograph, George, so these people can pass out to slow music.' The latter complied.

"Then W. B. Ross came in. McCoy gave him a crack on the jaw, just like he had done with me when he found that I had not gathered all of my money out of my clothes and given it to him."

The defense objected strenuously against the admissibility of evidence concerning McCoy's doings after the death of Mrs. More. Judge Crail ruled that such testimony was admissible if the State was prepared to prove any admissions by McCoy concerning the murder of Mrs. More or even that he was aware of her death and events connected with it.

Early this morning in the county jail McCoy cut down a fellow prisoner just in time to avert his suicide by hanging. He had made a noose out of his suspenders.

Can Get War Bonus in Vienna.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Dec. 12.—Great interest was aroused here today by an official announcement from the American Legation that American citizens of Austrian or Hungarian extraction who did war service in the United States Army, and are now living here, are entitled to the benefit of the new bonus law, and may collect from the military attaché here. It is calculated that a considerable number of returned Americans here will apply at the legation for it.

LINER IS BATTERED IN 100-MILE BLOW

WAVES FORTY FEET HIGH

Rivets Are Loosened in the Bow and Three Feet of Water Enters the Cargo Hold.

The French liner Chicago arrived yesterday from Bordeaux and Vigo, five days late through encountering a series of gales, which reached hurricane force, and heavy seas, which pounded the weather bow hard enough to loosen the rivets of a plate a foot below the surface and let three feet of water enter the forepeak before it was noticed.

The heavy wire winches were torn from the fastenings in iron plates on the hurricane deck and the canvas covers were blown from the boats. For forty-eight hours the Chicago was hove-to and only steamed a hundred miles. She barely had steering way against the hurricane from the northwest and the forty foot seas.

At the height of the storm on Dec. 2 a radio message was picked up from the Italian freighter Concordia bound from Philadelphia to Antwerp stating that Captain Vivaldi, the master of the ship had been washed off the bridge, the chief officer was in the hospital through the injuries he had received and the second officer was in charge of the ship. The position of the Concordia was 47.30 north and 37.20 west.

The sixty-six passengers on the Chicago looked weatherbeaten when they landed yesterday at the French Line pier, foot of West Thirty-fourth Street, and said they felt that way.

The Chicago left Bordeaux on Nov. 28 and called at Vigo, Spain, on Nov. 29. The weather was rough from the time of leaving Vigo and increased steadily until Dec. 1, when the velocity of the gale was seventy-five miles and more than one hundred miles during the hurricane squalls. In sounding the forward hold on Dec. 2 in the morning watch the carpenter discovered there was three feet of water in the hundred tons of cargo and reported it to Captain Louis Lepetre, the master of the ship. He sent orders to the chief engineer to start the main pumps, which had a capacity of 400 tons an hour, and the hold was dry.

When they could get at the loosened plate the carpenter, with the aid of the engineers, knocked some wooden pegs into the holes where the rivets had been to last until the Chicago arrived in New York and was able to have proper repairs made.

The Chicago will sail again for Vigo and Bordeaux next Wednesday.

The Ward Line steamship Monterey, which left New York at 5 P. M. Thursday for Havana and Vera Cruz, returned at 8 A. M. yesterday and anchored off Liberty Island. At first it was supposed that some of the rivets had dropped out of the bow plates which had been undergoing repair during the recent overhaul of the Monterey, but after investigation the Ward Line announced there had been a leakage caused by the loss of a bilge plug. This was rectified and the Monterey passed out of Sandy Hook at 4:30 P. M. She had steamed fifty miles on her way toward Havana Thursday night when the leak was discovered.

DEBATE ON THE PRESS.

Speakers Agree That Advertisers Do Not Attempt Control.

"Is the Press Kept?" was the subject of discussion at The Nation's dinner given last night in the Fifth Avenue restaurant. Bruce Bliven, managing editor of The New Republic, took the affirmative, and William P. Beazell, assistant managing editor of The World, took the negative.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, who presided, said that all the newspapers of New York were now in the hands of a small group of "very sound and very rich men." He spoke of the large circulation of the tabloid picture papers.

Mr. Bliven asserted that the newspapers were private enterprises conducted for private profit but said they were a natural product of "a capitalistic system" and that they could not fairly be criticised alone "when everything else is tarred with the same brush." He did not think advertisers attempted to control the press.

Mr. Beazell said that for the newspapers of the United States the advertising revenue was 55 per cent. and the circulation sales revenue 45 per cent. He told of recent instances in New York that, he said, proved advertisers did not control the news columns of the New York newspapers.

Herriot Must Take Ten Days' Rest.

PARIS, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—The condition of Premieer Herriot, who has been ill since Wednesday, was announced by his physicians this evening to be not serious. The doctors added, however, that the Premier must take an absolute rest of ten days.

GOMPERS IS BETTER, BUT STILL VERY LOW

longer in the high altitude of Mexico City his condition would have been "perilous," but that the lower altitude had worked marvels. Mr. Gompers, he said, was greatly relieved Thursday night by coughing up matter that had congested in his bronchial tubes.

Several long automobile trips about the Mexican capital, in which Mr. Gompers took keen interest in the historic and archaeological exhibits of the Southern Republic, also overtaxed his strength. He has been in Mexico City since Nov. 30 and was about to depart when he took sick.

So greatly had Mr. Gompers improved that he wanted to dress and sit up in his compartment just before reaching San Antonio but his physician insisted on him remaining in bed. A slight strain might cause a relapse and bring on a fatal congestion in the chest, the doctor said.

The train carrying Mr. Gompers was late leaving Laredo, but though he evidently was weak his mental condition was cheerful throughout and he made no complaint on the long journey.

In addition to Secretary Morrison all of the American Federation of Labor delegates to the recent Pan-American Federation of Labor Convention, among them including James Duncan, Quincy, Mass., member of the Executive Council of A. F. of L.; Matthew Woll, Chicago, member of the Council; John Lynch, Chicago, Street Car Men's Union.

Calls for Physicians Received Here.

A telegram from Samuel Gompers, requesting that physicians be sent to meet him in San Antonio, Texas, was received here yesterday afternoon by Harry Moness, personal friend of Mr. Gompers, at the Hotel Astor. The telegram read:

Bring doctors to San Antonio, Texas, St. Anthony Hotel. Arrive San Antonio Friday afternoon.

E. GOMPERS.

Soon afterward Mr. Moness received another telegram from Chief Bookkeeper of the American Federation of Labor, J. E. Giles, accompanying Mr. Gompers. The Giles telegram read:

President Gompers' condition good. Rush Doctors Hersal and Auerbach with you to San Antonio, Texas, St. Anthony Hotel. Have your doctor wire San Antonio for doctor to assist doctor at San Antonio until your arrival. This by request of Mrs. Moness.

J. E. GILES.

Miss Maya is Mr. Gompers's nurse. Mr. Moness and the physicians called by Mr. Gompers departed for San Antonio late in the afternoon.

OVERPOWERED BY FEEBLENESS.

Quite as interesting as anything actually said at the Dawes plan dinner was what came out between the lines and in the speeches of both Mr. YOUNG and Secretary HUGHES. It was as if there were not only a radio but a telepathic communication with Washington. "The greatest difficulty" that we have in making democratic "institutions work," said our Secretary of State, "is in securing play for "expert ability. Paradoxical as it "may seem, we are too often over-"powered by feebleness." He spoke of a need of "balance" in our Government to secure us "against rashness, ignorance and passion." But—whose rashness, whose ignorance, whose passion? Was not the Senate ordained, as HAMILTON pointed out in the Federalist, to afford precisely that balance—to enlist in our behalf "information and stability of character"? That was the very "nature of the Senatorial trust." And yet—listen to Mr. YOUNG. "Is it too much to hope," he asked, "that some day we may "establish a definite foreign policy "and maintain its continuity free "from the horseplay of domestic poli-"tics?" He wanted "all citizens, including members of the Senate," to "speak and act in foreign affairs" "without reference to their private political fortunes.

It is not necessary to subscribe to JOHN HAY'S dictum that "there will "always be 34 per cent. of the Senate "on the blackguard side of any "question." In the matter of the Canal treaty HAY'S very own biographer concedes that he was wrong and the Senate right. But even then an observer as detached as HENRY ADAMS recorded the vanity of Senators, their passion for the spotlight of publicity; and since then we have come by the direct election of Senators. Mr. YOUNG continues: "The pres-"ent Government of the United States "justly claims credit for this new "advance in international affairs. "The original suggestion of the Ex-"perts Committee came from our "distinguished Secretary of State." More is meant than meets the eye. For weary months Mr. HUGHES labored in silence toward the Dawes plan, and through all possible diplomatic channels, and was always blocked by the French Premier, who felt that the occupation of the Ruhr was an indispensable preliminary—as perhaps it was. It was at this delicate stage of negotiations that Senator BORAH leaped into the spotlight demanding a commission of experts. It was a popular cry, a thunder-machine of might. But whose was the thunder? Such instances could be multiplied. Even while Mr. YOUNG was speaking, Senator REED was denouncing Great Britain's wholly legitimate statement as to her financial claims upon France as an intolerable "interference" with our claims, all "attempted overlordship of the world," likening it to the Kaiser's attempt to dictate the routes of our ships and even the colors in which they should be painted. Call it hokum or buncombe, it is a commodity with regard to which no Senatorial constituency, not even Missouri, requires to "be shown." "Ex-"pert ability" is "overpowered by "feebleness."

Behind these coincidental statements from the originator of the Experts Committee and its leading expert is a request for governmental reform which today is prominent in many minds. Personal illustrations may be needful to make the Senatorial situation clear, but no one would more sincerely deplore personal calumny than the exponents of closer cooperation between Cabinet and Congress. "In this in-"stance," said Secretary Hughes, "tal-"ent has had opportunity, not to deter-"mine but to advise, not to bind Gov-"ernments but to inform them." That is the ideal. Why should the United States resort in such matters to private individuals? With a Cabinet on intimate and confident terms with the Congress, perhaps chosen from its members and responsible to it for what it does, our Government could act as its own expert. By giving experts scope, Congress would attract them to political life, enhancing its character and authority. That is the manifest intention of the Constitution. There are many difficulties in this return to the spirit of the Fathers, but the subject is worthy of the widest popular consideration, the utmost vigor of popular demand—without which individual Senators will continue to haunt the spotlight, confusing judgment and darkening counsel.

TROTSKY IN DISGRACE.

Within less than a year the Bolshevist régime has lost its two outstanding leaders. LENIN is dead. TROTSKY, to all appearances, is now politically dead. He is certainly outside the breastworks. Last year, when LENIN was still alive but helpless, TROTSKY joined issue with the Commissar majority on the question of "democratizing" the Communist organization. He was beaten and sent to the Caucasus for his health. This year his attack was on a broader front. The entire record of the Soviet Government was subjected to a savage scrutiny, with the result that TROTSKY'S health has broken down once more; and this time the suggestion is raised that his case may require the benefits of a foreign climate.

Whether TROTSKY submits to defeat and elimination or we are to witness a war for the Leninite succession is speculative. The chances are that TROTSKY will submit. The discipline and efficiency of the Communist machine are undeniably impressive and may be expected, for some time at least, to be a match for individual ambitions. The most powerful of all arguments, the instinct of self-preservation, will operate. The fear of "counter-revolution" is a very real one. It is this overshadowing fear that will account, in large measure, for Russian patience under repeated Communist failure. As in all great crises, the need of the moment may bring forward new talent. After LENIN'S death it was the general opinion among those well acquainted with the Communist personnel that, excluding TROTSKY, there was only one man of outstanding ability among the leaders, and that was STALIN. Of his two associates in the new dominant triumvirate, KAMENEFF was regarded as a man of little force and ZINOVIEFF as only a highly gifted soap-boxer. KAMENEFF had shown timidity at the time of the Bolshevist coup d'état. ZINOVIEFF had shown something more than timidity in the Cronstadt crisis. The fact that these two have been most prominently to the fore since LENIN'S death might be only proof that STALIN is a silent man as well as a strong one.

It is, however, a fourth man who holds out most promise of supplying the need for constructive effort in government as against STALIN'S purely political talent. That man is DJERZHINSKY, now the head of the Supreme Economic Council and entrusted with the task of reviving the national industries, whose collapse has been one of TROTSKY'S main fighting points. LENIN was the chief strategist. TROTSKY did the most important single piece of constructive work for communism by his organization of the Red Army. DJERZHINSKY was the head of the Cheka, which dealt so remorselessly with "counter-revolution" and was subsequently drafted to handle the railroad chaos. He is the only remaining administrative genius among the leaders, and he already occupies the place to which TROTSKY aspired. Upon his success in dealing with the crucial problem of the industries would thus largely depend the Soviet Government's ability to repair the loss of its two biggest leaders, one by death and one by enforced retirement.

DISARMED GERMANY.

A high military authority, apparently French, who is well informed on the subject of German disarmament, has come to the conclusion that the military position in Germany "need not cause the least disquiet." All the conditions required in the Peace Treaty have not been fulfilled, but the late enemy is not dangerous. This is the deduction from a study of the reports of the Interallied Control Commission, which has made such progress in its inquiry that it may be decided to turn the responsibility for German disarmament over to a supervisory committee. The commission has destroyed 87,000 machine guns, 33,000 cannon and 5,000,000 rifles. Germany now has no military airplanes and "to a considerable extent no means of manufacturing them." The only criticism that can be made of her observance of the disarmament provisions of the Peace Treaty—it cannot be lightly dismissed—is that the strength of the police force training schools is 400,600 men, when she is entitled to no more than a fourth of that number. In the Reichswehr she may have 100,000 soldiers to all the police to keep the peace. But in an emergency the Government could mobilize 500,000 men. General VON SEECKT, head of the dual organization, has a very much inflated staff, and this is not as it should be. Nevertheless, the French, knowing the difficulty of arming and equipping 500,000 men with the tools of modern war and the ammunition for their use, are not worrying about the immediate future.

It is true that arms factories in Germany are not idle, but there is a permitted force of 100,000 men to arm. The German staff "continues its deliberations as it did before the war," but there is color of right for this. The fly in the ointment is the availability of several hundred thousand men who could be turned into soldiers in a very short time. But they could not be equipped with field artillery, machine guns, rifles and airplanes in a hurry. And the supply of aircraft for any purpose is very limited. The commission has done its work well in spite of hindrances. Few caches of arms can have escaped it. France could put into the field 1,000,000 superb troops in thirty or forty days, equipped with the finest artillery in the world, and supported by scores of squadrons of airplanes. On German soil no real resistance could be offered to an advance to Berlin itself. The Interallied Commission is an expensive organization and the sooner it gives way to a merely supervisory body the better it will be for the exchequer. The occupation of those French alarmists who contributed nightmares to the magazines about the menace of German armies that were to spring from the earth in a night is gone.

THEIR LATIN STUDIES HELP THEM.

Mournfully The New Republic walks in "The Twilight of the Classics." They are but a faded "genteel" tradition. "American society is not "reading EURIPIDES at Palm Beach "nor quoting ÆSCHYLUS at the "Lake Placid Country Club." Courage, and son of twilight! Even if Mayor HYLAN doesn't take the Loeb Euripides to Florida next February, there are consolations for the Latinists. The American Classical League and the Bureau of Education, after studying the records of 10,000 candidates for admission to college, find that the Latin surpassed the non-Latin students by some 13 per cent. in other subjects than Greek and Latin. So Lord REDESDALE found that long grubbing in Greek and Latin grammar at Eton helped him in the study of Chinese and other strange tongues.

One of the greatest instances of the value of classical studies was the invitation some eighteen years ago of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to ANDREW FLEMING WEST, the Princeton protagonist of the classics, to become its head. That is striking testimony to the appreciation of the worth of classical culture in a high and difficult field, seemingly most remote from it. It may be said that Wests are likely to be as common as hen's teeth; but this 13 per cent. superiority is something and indicates a good deal. And the Bureau of Education tells us that the Latin courses in the high schools now attract more students than all other language courses combined; and that, in the secondary schools, some 22,500 Latin teachers are instructing 940,000 students.

If not many of these become "scholars;" yet something will be learned and gained; and some advancement of these pupils in other branches can be foreseen. If this sort of thing goes on, there will soon be a howl about cramming our American youth with those "dead languages" that never die.

AN INVESTIGATION, NOT A TRIAL.

Mayor HYLAN'S appointment of one of the city's most noted trial lawyers as his special counsel in the transit investigation raises certain implications which neither reflect credit on the Mayor nor promise well for the usefulness of the proceedings. No one is on trial before Judge MCAVOY. Governor SMITH has directed an inquiry into the facts of the "intolerable transit situation," and it is the facts which the people of New York unanimously demand. There are two groups concerned: the Hylan Administration and the Transit Commission. What Governor SMITH and the public want in this investigation are the records of these two groups during the period of their incumbency. They want to know also what are the basic difficulties of the entire transit situation and what can be done to blast through them to the immediate relief of existing conditions. They do not want this inquiry to be turned into a forum for the play and counter-play of legal formalities and technical pleadings.

Contrast the policies which have been adopted by the Transit Commission and the Mayor since the investigation was announced. When Judge MCAVOY'S appointment was made, Chairman MCANENY of the commission said "the action of the Governor "fits the needs exactly. The Governor "may be assured that Judge MCAVOY "will have the complete cooperation "of the commission as the inquiry "proceeds." He and his colleagues then directed the preparation of the record of their stewardship for submission when the occasion should require it. There has been no talk of hiring eminent counsel, no complaints, no vacillation. But with Mayor HYLAN it has been different. At first he said "the Board of Estimate is ready and "the city welcomes the opportunity "to present the evidence"; but three days later he turned against the entire proposal and wrote Governor SMITH that it "neither has my approval nor "will it have my participation save "to the extent required by the law." And now Mr. SEABURY appears upon the scene.

Why does the Mayor need special counsel of Mr. SEABURY'S particular sort of eminence? The Transit Commission is content to be advised, where legal advice may become necessary, by its regular counsel, Mr. EGBERT. What need is there for the Mayor to go outside the ranks of the city's legal staff for his assistance? Judge MCAVOY will earn the gratitude and respect of the entire community if he conducts these proceedings strictly as an investigation and not as a trial—no matter whose trial the Mayor imagines it to be.

"ALWAYS WITH YOU."

The phrase "always with you" has been associated with the "poor" through all the centuries of the Christian era. But while the poor have been with us and probably always will be with us—since "poor" is, after all, only a relative term—it is as truthfully said that those who are willing to share what they have with the poor are also always with us. The list of givers to the "Hundred Neediest Cases" is but a single illustration of that fact. Year after year familiar names appear, as that of Mr. ARTEMAS WARD with his generous gift this morning and the names of Mrs. HARRIMAN and Mr. DE FOREST in yesterday's lists. They are of the species of philanthropic perennials. Their gifts for this cause blossom on almost the same day every year and are not the less welcome for being expected, as every gardener could say of his perennials.

But it is not alone the gifts of those who have larger means and who are better known that are "always with us." Among the contributions listed yesterday was one which, though called a "mite," came from a woman remote from New York who was making a gift for the thirteenth successive year. This is but typical of hundreds of contributions. And those who give in this way have the pleasure in advance of anticipating that which will give others pleasure when the gift blooms in some neediest home.

But the lengthened list, for it grows yearly, shows that new givers are being added, from among people both of large and of small means. The gifts are most numerous from the latter not only because there are more of these in the community, but also because they are themselves a little nearer those who are neediest and so the better able to appreciate what their privations mean and to understand their wants. The desire to come into direct personal relation with some of these neediest ones is also an evidence of the pervasiveness and the persistence of human kindness. Poverty, avoidable or unavoidable, is always with us; but, thank heaven, so is charity, which is "all mankind's concern," or should be.

POSTAL FACTS NEEDED.

One fact emerged in the debate in the Senate on Thursday on the question of delaying the vote on the President's veto of the postal salary bill. This fact was that any vote on postal legislation at this time is a vote in the dark. Senator CURTIS said that a bill carrying increases in rates was in preparation; what these increases were nobody could tell, but he thought that Congress should have a chance to debate such provisions before passing a salary bill which would add $68,000,000 expense annually while leaving the revenue to be raised to some future measure. Senator EDGE, father of the postal pay bill, and Senator ROBINSON, the Democratic leader, supported the proposed unanimous agreement to let the President's veto go over until Feb. 2. Senator REED of Missouri objected, however; he foresaw an army of publishers descending upon a defenseless Congress, perhaps asking for reasons and facts.

Senator SPEARMAN, it is reported, is preparing the bill providing for higher salaries and increased rates. There is every indication that the legislation to be introduced will bear the earmarks of hasty work. The proposed increases in rates on second and fourth class matter, it is announced, will be based upon the findings of the Postal Commission, made public last week. But these findings themselves have not yet been subjected to examination. The summaries of the reported costs of carrying and handling the several classes of matter, contained in the news accounts, have made many competent authorities on Post Office operation anxious to question the commission as to how certain extraordinary conclusions were reached. The loss on penalty matter sent free by Government departments is put at $6,000,000; yet the Postmaster General, in his report for 1924, fixed this loss at twice that sum, or $12,000,000. Was this extra $6,000,000 loss allocated arbitrarily to other mail matter by the commission? Further, were the expenses of the mail service apportioned to the various classes in equitable manner? It would appear from the most cursory examination that an indefensibly high proportion of the cost of the rural free delivery service had been saddled upon the second class matter. Of the $37,542,-084 found to be the cost of the rural free delivery, $34,943,051 is charged against second class matter. The method of assessing this expense was to assign a stop value for every one of the stops made for each class of matter on typical rural routes. It happens, then, that a postal service established as a public policy to aid the farmer, and opposed chiefly at the time by the express companies, is now assessed primarily against the publisher; and this in face of the fact that the report finds that the parcel post, comprising more than 60 per cent. of the volume of mail matter and bringing in less than 20 per cent. of the total revenue, is yet charged with a loss of only $6,000,000. It is about these obvious discrepancies that many persons will want to question the Post Office Department.

There is involved in postal rates a broad matter of public policy which ought to prevent hasty action. It is reliably reported that Senator SPEARMAN'S bill will provide for increases of 75 per cent. in second class rates in zones 1 and 2, and of 41 per cent. in zones 3 and 4. Such an increase would curtail the distribution of newspapers by mail to a great degree; some publishers express the opinion that it would practically prohibit such distribution. What value does public policy set upon the dissemination of news among the people by means of the press? The people should be heard on so important a matter. Postal legislation is in every sense a public question.

THE MENACE OF LOCAL TAXES.

The National Industrial Conference finds that our national wealth has increased so much faster than our public debt that the ratio of the latter to wealth has shrunk from $3 in ten in 1912 to $1 in ten now. Moreover, the national debt is being rapidly reduced, and is under control by an Administration pledged to common sense in the national housekeeping. Far different is the picture of local taxation by the States and down to the smallest political subdivisions we have. In the first ten months of the current year there was an increase of $319,000,000 over 1923 in the issue of such bonds and $500,000,000 more were voted in recent elections. The conference suggests that the bonds were issued for the purpose of getting exemption from taxation. It would be hard to suggest a worse reason for the expenditure of capital.

Dr. RICHARD T. ELY, Director of the Institute for Research in Land Economics, recently stated that the taxes on farm lands are approximating their rental value. He selected for an example, not Arkansas, where 500 farms recently were sold to pay taxes, but Pennsylvania, where taxes absorb two-thirds of the cash rental. Then there are the railways. In September their taxes increased $4,381,290, or $140,000 a day more than in August. No wonder The Railway Age remarks that nothing stops the increase of railway taxes. Whether gross earnings or profits are large or small, and whatever the valuation of their property, railway taxes increase. Railway taxes exceed dividends paid, although the railways did not enjoy the farmers' profits from war prices, and find a way to spend a billion a year of their own money for increasing their service.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Justifying the Cutting of Christmas Trees.

Disquieting rumors arise each year about this season which hint that the widespread cutting of young spruce and fir trees for Christmas use constitutes a grave menace to our forests. They have even gone so far as to suggest a curtailing of this old-established Yuletide custom with a view to its eventual abolition.

Fortunately, the many millions who look to the Christmas tree as the very centre of the season's celebration may continue to enjoy its bedizened splendors with a clear conscience. Professor RALPH S. HOSMER of the Department of Forestry, Cornell University, has gone thoroughly into the whole question, and in this month's Nature Magazine writes to point out that the actual waste element is negligible. In fact, he chooses to hold a brief for the Christmas tree on economic grounds. More money can be got by using certain species of these trees for this purpose than for any other. "The Christmas tree is a legitimate by-product of the forest."

Professor HOSMER puts the probable number of trees cut for holiday use in this country at over five million a year. Then he goes on to show that this number, large as it may seem, is but one-tenth of 1 per cent. of the total number of trees cut annually in the United States. Even if the entire five million were furnished from one area, and that area denuded, "it would be but an infinitesimal part of our yearly drain on the forest." This is good and timely news. It is significant that one does not hear objections to Christmas trees from the foresters themselves. But it is more striking still when men like Professor HOSMER, whose life work it is to protect our forests, come out and assert that "the use of Christmas trees is proper and wholly justifiable."

After all, could these five million young spruce and fir trees be put to better use than that of bearing the gifts of as many American families? Professor HOSMER thinks not. To his mind "the only problem connected with Christmas trees that is worth troubling about is how to make it possible that every family in our broad land shall have its own Christmas tree."

Gawking at the Waxworks.

New possibilities of the amplifier were suggested by the distinctness with which Secretary HUGHES was heard addressing the Dawes plan dinner from Washington. Many a speaker, present in the flesh and an open-faced suit, has been far less clearly audible. Why not public dinners with no speakers present? Certainly the organizers of such occasions would welcome the innovation. Their lives are appreciably shortened by the difficulty of rounding up busy men for exhibition among what SIMEON FORD called the waxworks.

From the point of view of the public also the idea presents advantages. With speeches reduced to radio dimensions, it would no longer be necessary to attend and eat the dinners. Home cooking and home everything would take the place of icewater and rations served by the thousand covers. The struggle to regain checked coats and to come by a cab in competition with the theatre throngs would be entirely eliminated. And when the after-dinner speeches became post-prandial, as sometimes happens, there would be no twisting in chairs, no crossing and uncrossing of knees. As blithely as Queen ELIZABETH and as effectively the radio fan can say, "Off with his head!"

Of course there are the hotels to consider. Possibly also human nature will insist upon being taken into account. Meantime, it is worth asking ourselves how much we all go to public dinners to improve our minds and how much to gawk at the waxworks.

Getting to the Heart of Things.

Scientific speculation has of late so often been directed toward Mars and the other planets that an attempt to get to the heart of things so far as Mother Earth herself is concerned stands out with an element of novelty. In the current issue of The Journal of Geology, LEON H. BARNETT makes just such an attempt in his paper on "The Chemistry of the Earth's Core."

Since mathematical computation has given the interior of the earth a volume of nearly 260,000,000,000 cubic miles, it is hardly surprising that the question of the composition of so vast an area should pique scientific curiosity. Heretofore the subject has been passed by, as one presumably too speculative for serious consideration. Within recent years, however, the study of geology has made such strides that the necessary information now awaits scientific application. Mr. BARNETT'S paper comes as the interesting sequel to these advances.

All in all, his closely reasoned pages, with their mathematical and chemical tables and charts, reach the surmise that "we can picture the earth as consisting of an irregular core of metallic substances surrounded by an irregular shell of silicate rock." More interesting still, the findings go to suggest "a composition of approximately 90 per cent. of iron, 7 per cent. of nickel, cobalt and copper, and 3 per cent. of the remaining elements."

Perhaps in the footsteps of Mr. BARNETT and his fellow-investigators will come a modern Jules Verne to make imaginative use of their imagination-compelling findings. But whether he comes or not, Mother Earth has no longer cause to feel unduly neglected by a population that delights to make ether waves its plaything, and seriously looks forward to the possibility of sending a message to Mars.

A New Automobile Don't.

A new peril in the hunting field is reported from Maine. A dog has shot his master. Hunters are mistaken for deer in the wilderness and die in their tracks, and the gun that was not loaded claims its victims; but when before did a dog put a bullet in his master—the last thing the faithful beast would want to do? Truth is again stranger than fiction. If an author desired to have a man shot by his dog, how would he plan the novelty?

The accident as it happened was simple, after all. An automobile was one of the properties in the comedy. The hunter was under it when the dog lodged a ball in his leg. In that mysterious complex of trouble, the underbody gear, the man was sprawled out on his back, tinkering away and no doubt saying unprintable things. The man heard an explosion and felt an acute ping in his leg nearest the dog. The dog had fired the Winchester straight into the leg of his begrimed and perspiring master under the car. The animal did it by frolicsomely jumping on the trigger of the rifle where the man had laid it when he crawled under the machine.

It is characteristic of the hunting dog, hound or setter, that he is never immobile unless asleep. If that dog had sat up patiently to await the completion of the job under the Ford, his master wouldn't be in a hospital today. But no (the French do not say), the dog must needs be dashing around and yelping joyously. And the first thing he knew he had come near killing his master. Another don't must be added to the automobile code in the Maine woods.

Germany's New Ambassador.

In naming Freiherr AGO VON MALTZAN as successor to Dr. OTTO WIEDFELDT, German Ambassador to the United States, the German Government is honoring one of the most distinguished of its younger diplomats. As Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office he has been a strong advocate of cooperation with Germany's former enemies. His influence has ever been for sanity and moderation.

Although he has had no direct experience with American affairs, his knowledge of the present problems of Western Europe, coupled with his thorough familiarity with the English language, will make him at the same time a useful interpreter of German conditions to the American people and a ready reporter of American sentiment to his own Foreign Office. His open manner and friendly personality should do much to make easier the difficult task of reviving the old ties that united the American and the German peoples. In so doing he will have to emulate the celebrated King ARAS and step "delicately." It is to be hoped that he will be guided by the errors of some of his predecessors and will not mistake the sentiments of his fellow-countrymen domiciled in this country for those of the American people at large.

OMENS.

The tide will never turn again, I know!
There will be only
Damp and sullen reaches Where gulls call shrilly, and where cranes step slow,
And ravening herons
Haunt the drab, bare beaches—
The tide, the tide will never turn, I know!

And Spring, young Spring will never more return!
There will be only
Winds protesting, crying,
Among brown stalks where blossoms used to burn;
And sad, stark trees
And wild geese southward flying—
But Spring, I know, will never more return!

And Love will not come back again to
me!
Life will hold nothing
That is worth the taking!
Down empty years, where drabness used to be,
Drabness alone . . .
And shifting shadows, shaking—
But nevermore will Love come back to me!

Yet—O Heart, look!
Out there the tide is turning!
And high, oh, see!
The maple buds are burning!

THE DEMOCRATIC DEFICIT.

[From The Houston (Texas) Post-Dispatch.]

Mr. Jesse H. Jones of Houston, financial director of the Democratic National Committee, a business man of rare acumen, evidently is not willing to leave the financial affairs of the national organization in the slipshod shape in which his predecessors have invariably left them. Apparently, he is of the opinion that a political organization ought to keep its financial affairs in order by paying its bills and debts, and function as a responsible institution.

To this end he is endeavoring to induce the party leaders to take the necessary steps to liquidate the existing deficit of $300,000, and place the party before the country as not only a living but solvent organism.

In his address he throws some light on recent events from the inside of the campaign administration. Beginning with plans that would have entailed an outlay of $1,500,000, it was found necessary to curtail them for lack of funds. The committee incurred obligations amounting to $1,100,000 and received a total of $800,000 in contributions. It is this deficit of $300,000 that he calls upon the party to pay.

Accustomed to keeping his own large business affairs in financial order, Mr. Jones is not willing to leave his bureau in debt. "I now appeal to you again," he says in his letter, "offering nothing but the privilege and opportunity of helping to pay your party out of debt."

Having some acquaintance of the task Mr. Jones has assumed, we understand the difficulties to which he is now addressing his energies. Post-campaign debts are well-nigh incollectible. It is almost impossible to induce political leaders to realize the slightest obligation to pay such debts, or the rank and file to contribute. When the tumult and shouting dies, popular interest quickly cools, and the Lord knows it is hard enough to get Democrats up to the giving point, even with the campaign urge upon them and the vision of possible offices tantalising them.

The custom is to permit deficits to go over until the succeeding Presidential campaign, as an obligation of the new committee. For this Mr. Jones would substitute the honest, commendable and businesslike plan of paying up, and not leaving a bunch of "I O U's" in the hands of trusting bankers, to evoke criticism and complaint in places where confidence and good-will would be preferable.

Surely, Mr. Jones deserves well of his colleagues. Personally, he has been the largest contributor to the party chest, and has given valuable time to its service besides. His desire to balance accounts and leave a clean slate is praiseworthy, and it would be quite the decent thing for the party leaders and members to fall in line and pay the party out of debt.

THE UNIVERSE IN THE ATOM.

How Far Can the Mechanistic Philosophy Go With Its Denial of God?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the mechanistic philosophers with their scientific hammers have cracked the atoms, only to discover whirling solar systems therein, is it not time to inquire how far these savants expect to be able to go?

Believing, as they unquestionably do, that the phenomenon known as "life," with its manifestations of "intelligence," is in some intimate way coordinated with "dead" matter, such as the metals and the rocks, only awaiting the grinding up of these materials into "soil" in order to fabricate grasses, trees, birds and beasts and, lastly, man, will they carry the inquiry along, "in the light of reason," at least to the point of formulating a theory as to the whys and the wherefores of such an admixture and as to the possibility of the "universe" developing, by a "fortuitous concordance" of electrons, gigantic aggregations of intelligence, as well as the enormous globes of inert matter which are so widely distributed throughout space?

That intelligence does detach itself apparently from dead matter and become an entity with power to overcome fixed laws of nature is necessarily contended by those scientists who deny the existence of a controlling God whenever they see a bird flying overhead or a man ascending into the sky, defying the law of gravitation.

How far, then, under favoring circumstances, which the mechanists might term "cosmic accidents," could vast accumulations of intelligence gather together into operating entities, exercising their "wills" upon surrounding matter?

Why say for a moment that men, the best developed creatures upon the earth, have acquired the largest units of intelligence?

If the mechanistic conception be accepted, it carries with it a certain inevitable fact. In the so-called atom must reside the principle of life, possessing a property of intelligence under stimulating conditions. All forms and compositions of substances are resolved ultimately into varying combinations of electrons, beyond which there is nothing else.

Within the atom must also reside the "laws of nature," intricate and varied as they are and unsurmountable except by the one power of intelligence, acted upon by that baffling mystery called "will."

In the atom must lie the power to cause reproduction of the various forms of organic things, both vegetable and animal.

Again, the atom possesses titanic powers far mightier than those of the most terrible explosives ever used by men.

Finally, the atom contains the factors which produce all things which exist, from the blazing suns in the heavens to the crawling insects upon the earth.

The mechanist looks out into the infinite reaches of space and declares that he sees no God. Yet he deifies the atom as the studies it and gives it all of the creative powers of a supreme being.

Andrew Jackson's Record.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the Sunday Times there appeared an article by Allen Sinclair Will, in which he asserts that "Cleveland was the only Presidential candidate in the annals of the United States who received a plurality of the popular vote in three succeeding quadrennial elections."

I am glad to state that another Democrat of immortal fame in the history of the United States must be granted this distinction. Scanning statistics of former Presidential elections, I find that Andrew Jackson in 1824 received 152,933 votes, while his nearest competitor, John Quincy Adams, received 105,321. Jackson also had the largest number of electoral votes, 99, while Adams had 84. As Jackson had not a majority of the electors, the matter went into the House of Representatives and Adams became President. In the election of 1828 Jackson received 650,028 popular votes and Adams, the next highest candidate, received 512,158. The next succeeding Presidential contest, in 1832, Jackson received 687,502, while Henry Clay, the next highest candidate, received 530,189 votes.

So that both Jackson and Cleveland share this distinction, both notable figures in the annals of our country and Democrats of the highest order.

GIVES LL.D. DEGREE TO MRS. COOLIDGE

Boston University Honors Her as Teacher, Wife and Mother, Who Has Gained Love of All.

A SMILE IS HER THANKS.

Occasion Is the Installation of Mrs. Lucy Jenkins Franklin as the Dean of Women.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, a graduate of the University of Vermont, and once teacher of a country school, returned today to academic scenes when Boston University conferred on her the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

It was as "Grace Goodhue Coolidge, student, university graduate, teacher, daughter, wife, mother," whose fine qualities of mind and heart "have gained the confidence, admiration and love of the American people," that President Lemuel H. Murlin conferred on the wife of the President the hood of purple, with trimmings of red and white, that brought added color to her academic robes. The occasion for the award was the induction into office as dean of women at Boston University of Mrs. Lucy Jenkins Franklin, brought from the Middle West to create the office, and for the occasion Boston University honored also with its honorary degree of Doctor of Laws its own daughter, Miss Marion Talbot, dean of the women's college at the University of Chicago.

The New Old South Church, across from the Boston University administrative buildings, was the scene of the exercises, attended by a gathering that was as representative of women in education as it was of high churchmen and persons of official standing.

The picture of Mrs. Coolidge against a background of rich walnut chairs and panels, her head held high, and academic robe and hat that gave her the appearance of a queen of learning, was as usual. She was thinner than when Boston saw her last. As she sang the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," the impression of the shorter was heightened. Her smile of thanks for the only acknowledgment of the honor, but it carried appreciation to all.

The days when the woman who went to college was considered a "freak and an outcast" were recalled by Dean Talbot in an address just before the ceremony. President Murlin read the names of those who had preceded them in the receipt of Boston University degrees Julia Ward Howe, Anna Howard Shaw, Mme. Nordica, Mrs. Andrew D. White (Helen McGill) and "the young woman whose family was so outraged by her membership in the school" that she assumed the name Anna Oliver, in order to protect her family name from what seemed a disgrace.

Dean Talbot, remarking that 180,000 women were receiving education today, said that the field of woman's academic opportunities was widening and offered every encouragement.

Mrs. Coolidge, who came here with Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, attended no functions during her visit other than those in connection with the induction program. These included a luncheon before the exercises given by President Murlin to her and Miss Talbot and Mrs. Franklin, and a reception to the same guests immediately afterward. Mrs. Coolidge was escorted to the altar which served as platform by Captain Adolphus Andrews, U. S. N., the President's aide, but otherwise appeared without official touch. She had dinner tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Stearns, friends of the Coolidges, and will leave on the Colonial Express tomorrow morning for Washington.

In conferring the degree upon Mrs. Coolidge, Dr. Murlin said:

"Grace Goodhue Coolidge—student, university graduate, teacher, daughter, wife, mother, in every station exemplifying the finer qualities of mind and heart we most admire in women—your own works praise you; you have gained the confidence, admiration and love of the American people.

"Upon the recommendation of the University Council, I have been authorized by the Board of Trustees of Boston University to admit you to the degree of Doctor of Laws."

In his formal address on education of women Dr. Murlin said:

"This adventure in education has proved so wise and wholesome that it is now accepted quite freely as an important and vital factor in our American life—so much so that in many of our American universities today, especially in universities west of the Hudson, the number of women students or candidates equals or excels the number of men; they occupy the highest ranks in scholarship and quality of life in the university; these women enrich all our common American life by the service which their wives in intelligent and moral leadership in home, church, school, society, politics, our whole and private life."

TELLS OF GREEK LOAN.

Henry Morgenthau Discusses Steps to Aid Refugees.

Because Charles P. Howland is to sail soon to become Permanent Chairman of the Greek Refugee Settlement Commission and a part of the Greek loan is soon to be offered to the public in this country, Henry Morgenthau, who was the first Chairman of the commission, issued a statement last night in which he drew attention to the fact that the Council of the League of Nations, the Bank of England and other financial institutions had endorsed the plan for a self-liquidating loan.

Mr. Morgenthau recalled that the commission is to administer the loan, the Greek Government transferred to it all the proceeds and about 1,250,000 acres of land suitable for cultivation and development. The services of the loan are guaranteed by certain assigned Greek revenues and there is the additional security of the lands themselves and the sums to be paid by settlers as rent or for the repayment of advances. The Greek Government also undertakes a special obligation to effect as soon as possible an equilibrium of the national budgets.

Mr. Morgenthau added:

"My experience showed me that what at first seemed an impossible problem—the peaceful, ordered absorption of about 1,500,000 impoverished immigrants—could actually be achieved upon a sound financial basis. It is unique in history that a great calamity could be so treated, but I am confident that this constructive treatment of the situation will not alone help to make Greece economically independent, but enable her to contribute her full share toward maintaining social stability and peace in the Balkans."

Kibbe and Miss Marina Cooke. The débutantes at the luncheon included the Misses Marian Gould, Theodora Thorpe, Maude Bilinger, Mary Merrill, Augusta Firth, Kay Jordan, Dorothy Price, Dorothea Hormance, Cornelia MacKenzie and Florence Hamilton.

TODAY'S ENTERTAINMENTS.

Gayeties Include a Dance for Misses Pearson and Thompson.

The week will end with another round of gayeties. William P. Wainwright will tonight give a dance at the Colony Club for Miss Nancy Rutherfurd Pearson and Miss Phyllis Blagden Thompson. In advance of it Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson are giving a dinner for Miss Thompson, while Miss Pearson will be the chief guest at the dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Longfellow are giving.

Schuyler Livingston Parsons tonight will give a dinner of 100 at Pierre's for Miss Evelina Hollins, débutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hollins which will be followed by dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Town Kirby will give a dinner, followed by a theatre party, tonight for Miss Roberta Roelker, débutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roelker, and afterward their guests will go on to the dances of the night.

In the ballroom of the Park Lane during this afternoon Mrs. George Clinton Mackenzie will give a reception to introduce her daughter, Miss Cornelia Mackenzie.

H. Scott Paton, President of the Pall Mall Supper Club, is arranging a special entertainment for the meeting tonight. There will be many novel features under the leadership of Wallington Cross, assisted by Marilyn Miller, Lowell Sherman, Fred and Adele Astaire, John Charles Thomas, Basil Durant and Kendall Lee, Edmund Burke and Mr. and Mrs. Conway Tearle. Miss Marion Campion will entertain there in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roche.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP ILL.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARBOROUGH, Dec. 12.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City Bank of New York, is confined to his bed, it was learned today, by a severe attack of the grip which resulted from a heavy cold contracted ten days ago. He is at his country home Beechwood in Scarborough.

"He is getting along all right now," said Mrs. Vanderlip, "and is able to sit up part of the time." He is being attended by Dr. Norman Barnesby, the family physician, of Scarborough.

Mrs. Vanderlip has been devoting considerable attention to a large tract of land of about 400 acres which he bought on the Albany Post Road. It was part of the grounds of the country home of the late William Rockefeller.

BELMONT FUNERAL ATTENDED BY 1,200

TRAINS ON SUBWAY HALTED

Body of Financier-Sportsman Taken to Newport at Midnight for Burial.

About 1,200 persons from all walks of life attended the funeral services held yesterday for Major August Belmont in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. This morning, after brief service in Island Cemetery, Newport, the body of the financier and sportsman will be laid to rest.

While the big cathedral was echoing with the words of Bishop William T. Manning, who was aided in conducting the services by Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Church, all Interborough subway trains came to a minute halt at 4 o'clock. When he died on Wednesday after only thirty-six hours' illness from blood poisoning, Major Belmont was Chairman of the Board of the Interborough and the impressive stop was the system's tribute to the "father of New York's subways."

The heavy mahogany coffin, all but concealed beneath a blanket of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley, was borne down the main aisle of the cathedral to the muted notes of a funeral dirge played by Dr. Miles Farrow, organist of St. John's. Entering through the main western door the procession was met by the cathedral choir, trustees, the honorary pallbearers and the cathedral clergy. Mrs. Belmont, formerly Miss Eleanor Robson; Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont and Raymond Belmont, composing the family, followed the casket. The family and more intimate friends were seated in the choir stalls.

Hundreds of Floral Tributes.

Hundreds of floral tributes lined the choir space and were banked on either side of the crossing, where chairs for 1,700 persons had been placed. As the casket came to rest before the altar Dr. Reiland, taking post at the head of the casket, began the service by reading the Scripture lesson from the burial service.

Then the choir sang "Jesus, My Saviour, Look On Me," the favorite hymn of the late business leader. Bishop Manning then intoned the opening sentences of the service and read the prayers. The choir then sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the supremely simple service was at end. There was no eulogy.

Moving slowly to the measure of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the procession moved from the altar and turning south at the parapet entered the ambulatory. The clergy, pallbearers and members of the family followed the coffin to the Chapel of St. Saviour, which Mr. Belmont built in 1903 as a memorial to his first wife, Mrs. Bessie Morgan Belmont. The casket rested there until shortly before last midnight when it was taken to the Grand Central Terminal for shipment to Newport.

As the recessional moved into the chapel those in the body of the church moved out. Leaders in the worlds of finance, the law and society were there with old servants from Major Belmont's homes and employes who had been years in his service at his office, 45 Cedar Street. Many negroes who served on Major Belmont's extensive racing stables were in the church.

The honorary pallbearers were Joseph A. Auerbach, E. C. Potter, F. K. Sturgis, W. Bird, Paul Dana, Richard Delafield, Francis R. Appleton, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Seymour Cromwell, Francis K. Pendleton, Frank L. Polk, Delancey Nicoll and E. J. Berwind.

Many Notables at Services.

Assisting the usual ushers from the Laymen's Club of the cathedral were Percy Pyne, William Fellowes Morgan, John E. Cowdin, J. F. D. Lanier, F. Gray Griswold, Edgerton Winthrop, R. D. Morgan, Richard Derby and Louis Neilson.

Sections of seats were set aside for representatives of the Sons of the Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Long Island Railroad Company, Audit Company of New York, Louisville & Nashville Railroad, August Belmont & Co., National Civic Federation, Rough Riders, Alibi Club, Brook Club, Harvard Club, National Park Bank, Bank for Savings, Seventh Regiment Veterans' Association, Westchester Racing Association, Polo Association and for delegations from the Hempstead and Babylon branches of Major Belmont.

Among those who attended the funeral service were J. P. Morgan, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Joseph E. Widener, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Frank Hedley, John McE. Bowman, Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, Mrs. Phillip Lydig, Mrs. H. Vreeland, Oliver Harriman, W. G. Fanshawe, H. A. Buck, H. P. Wilson, Francis R. Hitchcock, Robert L. Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, George H. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Riddle, Howard W. Maxwell, John Sanford, George D. Widener, Samuel Ross, Archibald Barclay, Marshall Field, C. Oliver Iselin.

Also Clarence H. Mackay, A. H. Morris, J. K. L. Ross, Charles H. Theriot, John G. Cavanagh, Harry M. Stevens, Frank Stevens, Inspector John F. Coughlin, James Rowe, Louis Feraldi, Mrs. Merrell, Miss Lawrence Morrell, Walter S. Vosburgh, Frederick and Guillaume de Zaldo, F. K. Bryan, George M. Gall, Victor E. Schamburg, W. J. Powers, Theodore Knapp, A. J. Joyner, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sande, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hildreth, Thomas J. Shaw, James Beatty, James Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Oots, A. B. Hancock, Major Thomas C. McDowell, E. B. Jones, John E. Madden, Frank J. Moore, Max Hirsch, J. Simon Healey, Oliver Harriman, C. H. Pettingill, W. J. Salmon, Mars Cassidy, Thomas Welsh, W. A. and C. W. Anderson and Major Gen. Robert B. Lee Bullard with his staff.

Directors of the Japan Society attended the services after adopting a resolution saying the cause of Japanese-American relations had lost a sympathetic and devoted follower, the society a faithful and helpful officer and member and the directors an able adviser in Mr. Belmont, and extending condolences to the family.

DE SILVER—Albert. At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of The Nation, Inc., held on Dec. 10, the following resolution was passed and spread on the minutes: By the sudden death of Albert De Silver, a member of this board, The Nation has sustained an irreparable loss. Entirely devoted to the liberal ideal, he brought to the service of this publication sound judgment, wide knowledge of men and affairs, keen perception of the trend of events, which made him a sterling adviser and a most valuable contributor to its editorial columns. In no one else was more implied with the true spirit of the America of civil liberty, of free speech and free thought, the right to dissent and the right to follow one's conscience.

In the dark days of reaction Albert De Silver gave of himself and his means without stint for safeguarding the rights of others and maintaining the precious privileges guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, abandoning his law practice in order to take service in the cause of liberty. His accidental death is a loss to the State that only those can well measure who were his close friends and associates.

THE STORY of Maximilian — who braved much and dared much—whose ill-starred reign as Emperor of Mexico ended with a firing squad.

How Maximilian married the young daughter of Leopold, King of the Belgians—the wife who later interceded with the Pope, and then lost her reason because of her unsuccessful efforts; the popularity of Francis Joseph's brother with the Austrian people; his criticism of Francis Joseph's conservatism and his own democratic leanings — all are vividly portrayed.

$5,000 IN TWO GIFTS HELP NEEDIEST FUND

$1,000 FROM MRS. WARBURG

Total Now Is $53,197, and $125,000 More Is Required to Equal Last Year's Record.

OLD FRIENDS AID THE CAUSE

Rich and Poor Help to Send Cheer Into Saddened Homes of the City's Unfortunate.

The Neediest Cases received $13,443 yesterday, making a total so far of $53,197.26. This is more than $124,000 below the total fund last year, which provided for 288 cases.

Yesterday was the big day of this year's campaign. It was made so by the $4,000 contribution of Artemas Ward of Artemas Ward, Inc. For many years Mr. Ward has been the largest contributor to the Neediest Cases. He sent a $1,000 check to each of four societies, the following being one of the letters accompanying a check:

Artemas Ward,
50 Union Square,
New York.
Dec. 11, 1924.

The Brooklyn Bureau of Charities,
69 Schermerhorn Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:

The appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases, published by The New York Times, prompts me to send to your association the enclosed check for $1,000 toward the relief suggested.

I greatly appreciate the work which your association is doing.

Yours very truly,
ARTEMAS WARD.

Another large contribution yesterday was $1,000 from Mrs. Felix M. Warburg. H. P. McKenny & Co. made a contribution of $500, and there was an anonymous gift for $500.

Two contributions totalling $400 were made "In Memory of Imogene S." Forty-six contributions were made in memory of friends and relatives of contributors.

Again there was a volume of eloquent and stirring letters from readers whose hearts had been touched by the neediest cases.

Appeals Stir the Generous.

The hundred cases printed in detail were selected from thousands of tragic stories. The appeal is not limited to the hundred cases, but is illustrated by them. Last year 288 of New York's neediest families were provided for completely for one year. This year it is hoped that a still more generous response will make it possible to care for a still greater number of stricken families.

Every contribution, no matter how small, will mean much to some family. It will help a mother to keep her children with her, instead of having them taken to institutions. It will provide food, clothing and shelter for families which would die of hunger and cold except for outside help. It will enable sick mothers, fathers and children to recover health. It will make things comfortable for a few destitute old people. It will help forlorn and parentless children into good foster homes. Every contribution will make it possible to accomplish these results on a proportionately larger scale.

One hundred per cent. of every contribution for the neediest cases buys food, clothing, medical attention and other necessaries for the most unfortunate and distressed families in New York. Not a cent of this fund goes for administrative expenses.

The first contribution from a school came yesterday. It was a check for $40 from Evening School 32, at 357 West Thirty-fifth Street, sent through Principal J. Henry Holloway.

The first lodge contribution was one of $75 which came with a note from H. S. Simon, Master, saying: "It take great pleasure in enclosing herewith my check for $75 which represents a contribution by some of the members of Emanuel Lodge 654, F. and A. M."

Miss F. S. Purcell of Woodhaven, L. I., sent $10 with a letter saying:

"Enclosed please find money order to the amount of $10 which the members of the Sigma Kappa Sorority wish to donate to Case 59. While all of the cases are very sad, No. 59 seems to be a particularly heart-rending one. If you have received the required amount for this case, please apply the money as you see fit. We hope that this effort will succeed in greater measure than ever and bring forth a larger response than those from any of the foregoing years."

"The Sunnyhank Collies," prize-winning dogs of Pompton Lakes, which have been contributing to the neediest cases for years from their prize money, contributed $100 yesterday.

Fortunate to the Unfortunate.

Case 2, the young man who is forced because of diabetes to work in the Old Men's Toy Shop to earn something for his wife and five children, received a check yesterday from a contributor who wrote:

"Being diabetic myself, I felt that I should like to aid even in a small way Case 2. Is there no way that this man could be given free special treatment? I am fortunate in having the means to take special treatment myself, which has almost restored me from a hopeless invalid to a comparatively well person. I send this with the prayer that the great heart of the nation will respond heartily to this worthy cause."

Another contribution for Case 2 came with this note, "Enclosed please find check for $100 for Case 2 in memory of John Walter Hirsch, who died Dec. 12, 1917, of diabetes."

Other cases benefited similarly because the particular facts made a special appeal. The following are from letters accompanying such gifts:

A Friend—I am sending this money for Case 82, for the three who are crippled, as I had two lame brothers myself.

George R. van de Water (the Rev. Dr.)—With gratitude for my own recovery, I send enclosed for your neediest cases, as indicated by our responsible agencies of administration, the Charity Organization Society and that for the improvement of the Condition of the Poor.

"In Memory of Lillian"—To be applied to Case 66 or 68, I forget the number, but it was the case of a little girl having trouble with her leg. Given in memory of "Lillian," whom I lost suffering from the same malady.

Isabel Beekman, Mount Washington, L. I.—Enclosed is a small check for your Hundred Neediest Cases. Because I have a little boy myself, just the age of Richard, I should like to have it added to his quota, so that he and his "Aunt Molly" may not be separated for at least another year.

H. S. W.—Just a mite from a little lad, for "Donald."

Anonymous—I wish this dollar were a thousand. Please give it to some one of your needy cases where the suffering is from tuberculosis. One who knows a little of what it means.

The annual contribution of Richard Stern, 4 years old, of 255 West Ninety-eighth Street, came yesterday with a letter which said:

"Richard Stern, in whose name the small contribution is herewith made, is nearly 4 years of age, and this is the third or fourth contribution to this fund made on his behalf. He has much sympathy for poor little boys and girls, and even last year looked forward to getting the receipt as a message from them."

"The enclosed $1 is from Bobby Peters, 4½ years old, of 505 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, to be applied to any case," said another letter.

"Enclosed please find a check for $3," wrote Edward Grossman, 18, of 111 East Eighty-fifth Street, "which sum represents a few weeks' allowance. I would like to have this small amount given toward Case 1, Donald."

Working Women Help.

"A Subscriber From Maine" sent $1 yesterday with a letter saying:

"Your editorial in this morning's paper under the caption 'Courage to Read' has forced me to give my bit toward this cause. Truly 'I am overwhelmed in misery and destitute of means,' yet your paper shows how many hundreds are even worse off. Gladly, therefore, I give 'the single dollar, which will be so welcome.'"

The following are from other letters accompanying contributions:

"A Friend"—This $2 is from a hard-working woman who never forgets the suffering, although she has to work very hard herself.

Anonymous—I'm just a little girl and haven't much money. But I'm sending you $2 for Case No. 2 and hope soon the family will be together.

Anonymous—This is from my invalid friend and myself, self-supporting women.

H. H. M.—Kindly apply this small contribution to one of the Neediest Cases where there are little children in want. Am sending this in the name of my own two children, and my only wish is that I might send as much as my heart desires. Their father will add his contribution, and we hope that some child will be helped a little to its birthright of health and happiness.

A. H. T.—Enclosed please find my annual contribution to the Christmas fund for the Neediest Cases. It is a pleasure to give and a pleasure to be able to. What a wonderful work you are doing, and what an opportunity for some one of our Christian millionaires to stand back of the one hundred cases and carry the work on. The small givers would lose a lot of pleasure.

Anonymous—I am sending you this mite in the name of my little boy, Edgar Micky, who I hope will always help those less fortunate than himself.

Carolyn A. Butler, 272 West Ninetieth Street—Enclosed please find check for $5, which is my contribution to the Neediest Cases. Please use it for the case that is needed most. I regret that my check is no larger, but as I am still in my early "teens" I hope that my donation will grow as I do.

Mary T. Thomas, 237 West Seventy-fourth Street—With an earnest and loving prayer that God may richly bless and provide for those needy ones.

"'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me.' Please find enclosed check for $50, in the precious name of our loving Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who loved us and gave Himself for us."

F. de Sola Mendes and Wife—Enclosed please find my check for $20, which prompts me I would devote to the blind old man and his aged wife who makes a little money by sorting hides. Our sympathies are principally with the aged and helpless.

Mrs. Robert H. Grimes, 104 West Seventieth Street—I am enclosing my check for $10. I consider your work each year most wonderful. I only wish many more might donate. If you will send me the addresses of four families with children I will see that they get Christmas candy and nuts.

Jules S. Bache, 42 Broadway—I beg to enclosed herewith my check for $100, being my usual annual contribution toward the excellent work you are doing.

Wish They Could Give More.

Florence S. Kobbe, 108 East Eighty-second Street—Please accept this small contribution, which my little daughter, Evelyn, 10 years, sends to some little girl less fortunate.

Margaret C. Marshall, Wheelersburg, Ohio—The enclosed check is for the case of Donald. If the sum needed for Donald's case does not receive full subscription in a month, kindly let us know and Dr. Marshall or I will endeavor to send another contribution.

Mrs. James C. Shoup, Sparkill-on-Hudson—With deep interest in this great, grand work. I enclose my check. I would like my contribution applied to Case 54, "Two Feeble Sisters."

W. S. R.—Just a small contribution to the wonderful work you are carrying on. Myself and family hope that this little mite may bring a measure of joy to some of the unfortunate cases. Use your own judgment as to which case needs it. Would prefer it to be used where a mother and little children are involved.

Anonymous—Will you divide the enclosed between Donald and Richard in memory of another little boy.

Richard Wiesehan, 339 Fifth Avenue—The enclosed check is for Case 2—Richard, and with it goes a wish for his health and happiness and thanks to the good woman who is looking out for him.

Kay Matthews Spencer, 160 West Eighty-seventh Street—Again I enclose my offering which is small, to assist those THE NEW YORK TIMES tells us about. If the amount sent should be insufficient to cover 500 cases, I know it will be given to those whose distress, in this mortal existence, is pitiful.

A Friend—Enclosed please find check for $5 to be applied to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. While this is a mere drop in the bucket, I hope it will help in the splendid work, which is being done in these pitiable cases.

Mrs. W. D. Etherington, 430 Park Avenue—Enclosed please find check for $100 for Hundred Neediest Cases, to be applied in any way you wish. I am grateful for the opportunity to contribute again to the fund.

Mrs. Harry M. Hallock—Enclosed please find check which my children and I send in memory of the late Major Harry M. Hallock, Medical Corps, U. S. Army, for use where it most needed.

B. S.—Enclosed please find my check for $3—all I can afford to give—but I want to add my mite to this wonderful work now being done each year, in memory of dear ones now gone and in whose name I am sending it. Would that the amount could be larger.

Erich Sparmacher, Hawthorne, N. J.—I am enclosing money order for $5 as my contribution to your fund, to be used as you think best. And I hope this will pass the splendid record set in 1923.

Spaniard—I enclose my small contribution for your great Christmas fund. No one who can possibly help in such a great emergency ought to sit down to his Christmas dinner before sending his share to this beautiful charity.

The following are cases typical of hundreds of others which will be relieved as far as contributions make it possible:

CASE 35.
All Three Afflicted.

In the K. family the mother, still weak from an operation for appendicitis, is barely able to give the necessary attention to her husband, who is dying of tuberculosis. Their 5-year-old daughter, Muriel, is touched with the same disease and is receiving preventive treatment at a city hospital. Help is sought for the man on his deathbed, for the sick girl and for the mother, who is in danger of a relapse unless her convalescence is made easier.

Amount needed, $300.

CASE 16.
Two Stranded Children.

Irma, 3 years, and Genevieve, 11 months, were found, cold, hungry and crying, in a small, bare apartment where their young mother lay dead. Deserted, penniless, helpless, she had sold everything that was salable and had burned the furniture to keep the children warm. Then an acute illness ended her life. The children she left are fair-haired and blue-eyed, but pale and undernourished. It will take months of good treatment to make them normal again.

Amount needed, $800.

Case reported by the State Charities Aid Association, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone Gramercy 1454.)

CASE 92.
Three Who Are Crippled.

Long years the grandmother cared for her grandson, Edward, 17, a boy so crippled that he is helpless. She promised her son on his deathbed that she would rear the boy. Now she is 74, weak and nearly blind. After a long life of work and sacrifice she has become a care herself. Her daughter Elizabeth, the boy's aunt, is trying to care for both of them. The three live in basement rooms that are kept clean and homelike. Elizabeth is the janitress for the house. She took to a doctor for treatment for a weak heart. They are headed for disaster in a short time unless there is relief.

Amount needed, $360.

Case reported by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone Gramercy 7040.)

Fred's Five Are Helpless.

Fred was a lead miner and earned a good living for his wife and their brood of five. In time something went wrong with him and he became almost helpless. He had absorbed lead and been poisoned and might recover only after long and tedious treatment. His savings have vanished. Without proper food the children have become anaemic. They will need help for months before the father can go back to work.

Amount needed, $495.

CASE 79.
Too Weak to Work.

Julia has never given up. When her young husband died, leaving her to support herself and her palsied mother, she went to work as a sewing-machine operator. For ten years she sewed while the feeble mother kept house. A day came when Julia could not rise. The ambulance took her away. Months passed before it brought her back, and many months more must pass before Julia can work again. But she has not given up. The doctors say rest and nourishment will build her up. Then Julia will go back to her machine. Meanwhile, the little home is destitute.

Amount needed, $564.

Case reported by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone, Gramercy 7040.)

CASE 43.
Four Facing Starvation.

The H. children, trembling and whimpering, looked at their mother with frightened eyes. The mother was outwardly calm, but they read her mind and knew that she was afraid. The funeral was over. Their father had lost a long fight for life, during which their savings had been used up. There was nothing left in the house to eat. The mother borrowed a little and then found work as a janitress. But she cannot support herself and her four children—Alex 14, Stanley 12, Julie 9 and Helen 6. These are all good and remarkably well trained children. They should be kept with their mother. Soon the oldest boy will be of legal working age. Help must be had in the meantime.

Amount needed, $720.

CASE 24.
Their Last Possession.

An old piano of scarcely any worth at a forced sale is almost the last thing that Mrs. N. and her three little girls have left. They have sold most of their belongings in order to keep body and soul together. The father is dead, and the mother, after years of going out to do housework by day and sewing at night, has broken down with neuritis.

Sarah, the eldest daughter, is taking a commercial course to prepare her to support the family two years from now, when she will be old enough to go to work. She and her younger sisters love music, and their tears have saved the old piano until now. But it will have to go soon, and its going will signalize the break-up of the home. Help is wanted to keep the three girls and their mother together.

Amount needed, $700.

CASE 41.
Jimmy, Agnes and Four Others.

When the six children are in bed and the housework is done, the fingers of the mother fly across the embroidery frame. She works often until midnight and after. It is a slow and hard way to earn money. The fuel problem is solved by Jimmy, the 9-year-old boy, who collects broken boxes in the street. Agnes, only 10, helps her mother, as if she were 20. Mary, 8, is threatened with tuberculosis. Then there are Willie, Florence and Mabel, 6, 3 and 1. Their father did a local delivery business. He overtaxed himself working fifteen hours a day and is now in the hospital with a serious heart condition. He may be able to resume caring for his family some time, but they require help for at least a year.

Amount needed, $400.

CASE 50.
Crazed by Misfortune.

S. spent his days over the books of a corporation, his evenings on the lessons of a correspondence course in accountancy. Four little girls were his pride and spurred his ambition. Then Julia, 5, the youngest, was taken to the hospital dangerously ill. Within a few weeks Mrs. S. had to undergo an operation. The three other children were cared for at a shelter. With his home broken up, his wife not expected to live and the daughter dangerously ill, the father lost his reason. He is now in a State hospital. He had not received his citizenship papers, so Mrs. S., still weak and unable to do much work, is not eligible for a pension. The family must be rescued from desperate straits.

Amount needed, $900.

Case reported by the Catholic Charities, 477 Madison Avenue. (Telephone Plaza 0543.)

CASE 76.
Until Jean Grows Up.

Jean longs for the time when she will be old enough to go to work to earn bread for her little brother and sister. Their mother died in the influenza epidemic five years ago. Their father died two years ago. The three children have no one to care for them but grandfather and grandmother, who are too old and feeble to make even their own living. All day the grandparents do their best as janitor and janitress in the tenement house where they live, but their best is not enough for five. Jean knows that she and Harold and little sister must be "put away" in an institution unless the grandparents have help. "If we can only manage until I'm big enough," she says, "then I can take care of them all." With a little aid the grandparents can keep their dead son's children with them.

Amount needed, $360.

Case reported by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone, Gramercy 7040.)

CASE 77.
Worn to a Shadow.

Mrs. Oliver did not break when her husband died. The break came five years later, when she had worn herself to a shadow in her battle to keep Jenny and Robert with her. In those five years she did housework for other women by day, then hurried home to do her own. Her day began at 5:30 and never ended before midnight. Human strength and determination could not endure the strain. Her mind and body gave out together. Rest has restored her mind, but for her to return to her old way of life would mean speedy death. There is still talk of institutions for Jenny and Robert, but all three may remain together if moderate help is provided.

Amount needed, $500.

CASE 95.
Mother and Baby Alone.

When James L. died of pneumonia last Summer he left his wife and 18-months-old Agnes alone in the world. His white-faced wife had fought a losing battle in the dark tenement. She had seen four of her five children die. Her husband left just insurance enough to pay for his burial and enough money to carry on for a few weeks. A friendly neighbor made room for Mrs. L. and Agnes in her own crowded tenement. This hospitality could not continue for long, and mother and baby are now homeless. The mother clings to the one child left her with anxious affection. Both must have convalescent care, which is being provided. When Mrs. L.'s strength has been built up she will return to the candy factory where she was employed before her marriage. Until the home can be re-established she must be helped.

Amount needed, $500.

Case reported by the State Charities Aid Association, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone, Gramercy 1454.)

CASE 83.
Down the Hill Together.

They have only each other. He is 77; she is 64. Their children are dead, their adopted daughter has left them. They have had to give up the little store that once meagerly supported them. All they ask now is to stay together until the end. Unless friends help them they will have to be sent away from the little kitchen that has so long been home to them.

Amount needed, $500.

KAPLAN KNOCKS OUT LOMBARDO IN 4TH

Meriden Featherweight Qualifies to Meet Kramer in Final of Championship Tourney.

SCORES DECISIVE VICTORY

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden (Conn.) featherweight, and Danny Kramer, crack little southpaw from Philadelphia, will battle for the title vacated by Johnny Dundee in the final of the State Athletic Commission's featherweight championship elimination tournament next month. This was decided last night in Madison Square Garden where Kaplan, a veritable whirlwind in action, knocked out Jose Lombardo, Panama featherweight, in the fourth round of their scheduled twelve-round battle of the semi-final bout of the commission's tournament.

The crowd which turned out for the bout hardly half filled the Garden. Exactly 4,509 persons paid admission to the arena. The receipts were $13,907. The small attendance was attributed to the recent Christmas Fund bouts and under the circumstances it was a good turnout.

A terrific left hook to the wind, followed by a hard right to the jaw, coming as the most effective punches and the final wallops in a fusillade of blows by Kaplan, burst Lombardo's championship bubble just 2 minutes and 33 seconds after the fourth round started. The blows sent Lombardo crashing through the ropes and almost out of the ring, his head resting within a few inches of writers at the ringside. Willing hands made as if to assist Lombardo back into the ring as the dusky-skinned warror sought instinctively to struggle back to his feet and face the foe.

But Scotty Monteith, who assists in the management of Kaplan, saw to it that there was no duplication here of what happened in the Dempsey-Firpo bout. Rushing to that section of the ring where Lombardo lay helpless he stayed the helping hands which were held raised until Referee Patsy Haley and Knockdown Timer George Schweigler had completed the count over the prostrate Lombardo. Then Monteith himself assisted Lombardo back into the ring and Haley and Lombardo's handlers carried the beaten boxer to his corner, where several minutes of work were necessary before Lombardo was able to leave the ring.

Finish Proves Spectacular.

It was a fitting climax to a terrific battle, an ending to a fistic contest which threw the crowd into a turmoil. Kaplan just before delivering the knockout had floored Lombardo for a count of eight with a terrific left hook to the jaw which sent Lombardo staggering to the ropes, a helpless target for an avalanche of rights and lefts to the head, jaw and body, under which the Panama had crumpled and almost slipped through the ropes on top of the knockdown timer. Lombardo regained his feet from this knockdown only with the greatest difficulty.

When the Panama boxer became spent Kaplan, in a wild rush, leaped at his foe and battered Lombardo about the ring until the Panama boxer was backed against the ropes. Lombardo, groggy and weary but still fighting on with that instinct typical of the ring gamester, turned to stave Kaplan's frenzied onslaught. As he turned, however, Lombardo raised his guard to protect his jaw and left a vital opening through which Kaplan crashed a wicked left hook to the body. The power of the blow brought Lombardo's head down and then Kaplan hammered home rights and lefts in rapid succession until Lombardo finally crumpled under one powerful full-arm swing of Kaplan's right and was counted out.

In the three preceding rounds Kaplan had paved the way for this victory with a furious assault which would not be denied. The Nutmeg State lad was top his rival from the first tap of the gong, belaboring Lombardo with a terrific five of both hands to the body and face and jaw. The action was so exciting that in the second session Referee Haley, intent on warding every blow struck, got his legs crossed and fell solidly to the ring floor, as if struck by one of Kaplan's terrific drives. Later in the round Kaplan, missing a right lead as Lombardo stepped back, fell face-forward himself.

Lombardo on Defensive.

Kaplan's rushing attack and his unceasing fire at close range had Lombardo on the defensive throughout. In the opening round Lombardo sought to keep Kaplan away with a left jab, but he might just as well have essayed to stop the rush of Niagara. Twice the Canal Zone lad cracked his right to Kaplan's jaw, but the blows bounded off the Meriden boxer's rock-ribbed jaw-bone like pebbles off a concrete wall. A left jab started a trickle of crimson from Kaplan's nose, but still Kaplan kept coming on until the bell ended the round.

In the second and third rounds it was much the same with this difference—Kaplan fought with added fury and stung his rival repeatedly with heavy drives to the face and body. Lombardo again reached Kaplan's jaw with his right in the second round without stopping the Connecticut lad's onward rush and in the third round a right blow on the temple almost felled Kaplan. But the later quickly regained his balance and almost without interruption resumed the offensive.

The Panama boxer was staggered in the third with a solid left hook to the jaw when Kaplan, tearing in recklessly, let fly repeatedly with rights and lefts which were full-arm swings and carried all the power of his compact body back of them. It was a weary Lombardo who went to his corner at the end of the third round.

Kaplan seemed to sense his rival's weariness when the lads started the fourth, for he kept after Lombardo with increased fury from the tap of the gong and did not once stop until he had delivered the knockout blow which earned him a match for the title with Kramer. Kaplan weighed 126 pounds and Lombardo 123½ pounds.

Mike Dundee, hard hitting featherweight of Rock Island, Ill., battered his way to the decision over Bobby Garcia, Camp Holabird (Md.) soldier-boxer, in a fast exciting twelve-round semi-final which afforded many thrilling moments for the crowd. Dundee won this decision through his sustained offensive work and his cleaner hitting.

The decision did not meet with the unanimous approval of the crowd, which was swayed by a desperate two-round closing rally by Garcia in which the soldier-boxer outfought his Italian rival, but the verdict was just nevertheless, for Dundee won seven of the twelve rounds. Garcia had three, the fifth, the eleventh and twelfth. The seventh and eighth were about even.

It was a consolation battle for two defeated entrants of the original six in the featherweight tournament, and it was a stirring bout, Dundee, carrying the fighting almost throughout, outhit and outscored Garcia in the majority of rounds, although Garcia fought courageously throughout and sought at all times to trade blow for blow with his rival. Dundee weighed 125¾ pounds and Garcia 124¾ pounds.

Georgie Doherty, Bronx featherweight, won the decision over Willie Shugrue of Jersey City in the first of the six-round battles. In the second Charlie Kenny, Brooklyn lightweight, won the award over Pasquale Bagdasse. Denny (Spider) Terris, brother of Sid, made his local ring debut in the opening four-round battle and won the decision from Eddie Oliver, a rival featherweight.

Firpo Anxious to Box Gibbons; Asks Richard to Stage Bout

Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight, yesterday visited Promoter Tex Rickard and in a lengthy conference with the man who developed him into one of the greatest money-makers in pugilism, discussed prospects for a bout with Tom Gibbons, St. Paul veteran who knocked out Kid Norfolk in six rounds last Tuesday night. Firpo expressed a willingness to box Gibbons in Madison Square Garden before the end of the indoor season as a step in a campaign the South American plans to rehabilitate himself pugilistically after his decisive defeat at the hands of Charlie Weinert. Rickard, while admitting he thought a Firpo-Gibbons match would prove a success, declared he had done nothing definite in the matter.

BOXING BODY HEARS PAN-AMERICAN PLAN

Buenos Aires Official Visits Commission and Outlines Proposed Amateur Tourney.

The first steps toward establishing a cooperative arrangement between the boxing authorities of New York State and those of South America here taken yesterday at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission, when Dr. Juan Eallegos, representing the Buenos Aires Boxing Commission, discussed the Pan-American project with the administrators of the law for the Empire State. Dr. Eallegos, Chairman George E. Brower said, exchanged some interesting views in connection with the conduct of boxing in South America, and advised the commission of the plans for an amateur boxing tournament between boxers of North America and those of South America, which he hopes to perfect with Amateur Athletic Union officials during his visit to this country.

Dr. Eallegos submitted for the consideration of the commission several of the Buenos Aires Boxing Board's rule books and application blanks, together with other data. In return the commission presented Dr. Eallegos with copies of all its official form blanks, and with several pamphlets containing the commission's rules and regulations, together with the provisions of the boxing law.

Chairman Brower finally acknowledged receipt of the challenge Tom Gibbons issued to both Gene Tunney and Mike McTigue, following the St. Paul veteran's knockout victory over Kid Norfolk, and announced that because the challenge had been received too late for consideration at yesterday's meeting action would be deferred until the next meeting of the board on Tuesday.

The commission granted to Mickey Brown, east side junior lightweight, permission to resume boxing after examination of Brown's lacerated left ear, which caused the board several months ago to order the boxer to dicontinue ring work until the injured ear had time to heal completely.

The application of the Pioneer A. C. for permission to conduct a benefit boxing card for the Madonna House on a date in January was approved. The Edward Cummings Post, American Legion, made application for sanction to promote a boxing show at the Ridge Sporting Club, Brooklyn, but the application was returned with instructions to the Legion officials to have the club make application in the customary manner.

Joe Williams, Cleveland boxer, appeared before the commission requesting aid and was referred to the officers of the National Sports Alliance.

DARTMOUTH CONQUERS M'GILL FIVE, 50 TO 28

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 12.—Coach Lew Wachter's Dartmouth five opened its season on its home floor here tonight when it triumphed over the fast McGill University quintet from Montreal, Canada, 50 to 28.

The combination which took the floor for the Green was made up of Captain Goss, Sailer and Friedman, all veterans of three years' experience, and Picken and Dey of last year's freshman outfit. The two newcomers to the varsity played an exceptional game in their first appearances with faster company, and both found the cage for five field goals besides producing some clever defensive work. Friedman and Sailer also showed a keen eye for the hoop, while Goss featured on the defense.

The Canadians opened with a fast passing game, which swept the Green from the floor for the first few minutes, but Dartmouth rallied and took the lead.

The line-up:

DARTMOUTH (50).		McGILL (28).
Friedman	L.F.	Philpotts
Picken	R.F.	Turpel
Dey	C.	Brown
Sailor	L.G.	Quackenbush
Goss	R.G.	Blumenstein

Goals from field—Dartmouth: Friedmann 5, Dey 5, Picken 5, Sailor 4, Goss 2, Douglas. McGill: Philpotts 4, Turpel 3, Blumenstein 2, Brown, Boucher. Goals from foul—Dartmouth: Goss 2, Friedmann 2, Picken 2. McGill: Boucher 3, Blumenstein, Quackenbush, Philpotts.

Substitutes—Dartmouth: Dooley for Friedmann, Douglas for Picken, Oliver for Dey, Steele for Sailer. McGill: Rafalovitch for Blumenstein, Boucher for Brown.

Referee—J. M. Young, Adams Athletic Club.

MANHATTAN FIVE WINS.

Triumphs Over Newark A. C. on Home Court by 33-23.

The Manhattan College basketball team defeated the Newark A. C. five in the Manhattan gymnasium last night by the score of 33 to 23. Knothe, left guard on Newark, former Passaic High School star, played a pretty game for the visitors, but was unable to stop O'Melia, who scored five times from the field for Manhattan.

Ed Meenan played a strong game at centre for the home team. At half time the score was 15-11 in Manhattan's favor.

MANHATTAN (33).		NEWARK A. C. (23).
Gene Meenan	L.F.	Barkelow
O'Melia	R.F.	Frye
Ed Meenan	C.	Knothe
Steffins	L.G.	Knothe
Mulligan	R.G.	Zucker

Goals from field—O'Melia (5), Ed Meenan (4), Mulligan (3), Eugene Meenan, Steffins, Wilke (9), Zucker (3), Schlenker, Barkelow, Knothe. Goals from foul—Eugene Meenan (3), Steffins (2), Mulligan (2), Fries (4), Zucker (2), Schlenker.

Substitutions—Manhattan: A. Freda for Eugene Meenan, Eugene Meenan for Ed Meenan, Ed Meenan for A. Freda, A. Freda for O'Melia, C. U. S. SPRINT STARS PLAN WORLD TOUR

Paddock and Murchison Prepare to Visit Australia and Europe on 7 Months' Trip.

HULBERT APPROVES MOVE

Sees Far-Reaching Results in Cementing Friendly Relations—Expect to Start Next Month.

Perhaps the most extensive worldwide tour ever undertaken by American athletes is contemplated by Charlie Paddock, sensational Los Angeles A. C. sprinter, and Loren Murchison, Newark A. C. star, for next year, it became known yesterday, when Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary-Treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, authorized the announcement that the two fastest sprinters of the country have tentatively accepted invitations to compete in New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Germany, Sweden and Finland on a swing around the globe next year.

Paddock and Murchison, according to present plans, will leave this country during the second week in January for Honolulu, where they will remain for several days before departing for New Zealand and their European tour. The tour has been arranged following the acceptance by the athletes of invitations for foreign competition extended to them, through the Amateur Athletic Union, by the Amateur Athletic Association of New Zealand and the amateur athletic authorities of Germany. Upon receipt of the invitations, which arrived almost simultaneously, Secretary Rubien communicated with the athletes and affirmed their tentative acceptance.

In the natural course of events Paddock and Murchison now will make formal application to the Chairmen of their respective A. A. U. Registration Committees for traveling permits and the Registration Committees will forward the applications, with their approval or disapproval, to the Amateur Athletic Union's Foreign Relations Committee for final disposition. It is not expected that any objections will develop to the proposed tour.

Will Be Back for Nationals.

The tour will occupy about seven months, according to present plans, ending in time to permit Paddock and Murchison to return here and compete in the Amateur Athletic Union's national outdoor track and field championships, to be held in San Francisco late in July or early in August. An outgrowth of the Olympic Games held in Paris last Summer, the tour is regarded as the forerunner of regular similar tours planned for the purpose of cementing the friendly relations existing between the athletes of America and those of foreign countries.

Following the Olympic Games America's conquering athletes competed in several countries abroad, among them Germany, where both Paddock and Murchison participated in exhibitions which aroused unusual interest. The most extensive foreign competitive tour resulting from the Olympic Games, however, was that in which Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C. sprint star; Emmerson K. Norton, Illinois A. C., and Ralph Spero, University of Oregon, were members of a squad which visited Japan after the games in Paris.

Murray Hulbert, recently elected President of the Amateur Athletic Union, heartily endorsed the contemplated trip as a means of producing a greater feeling of friendliness among the nations which engage in such keen rivalry at the Olympic Games every four years and as a medium for increasing and stimulating interest in amateur sports the world over.

Favors International Meetings.

President Hulbert, in discussing the proposed tour, stressed the efforts of the Amateur Athletic Union to encourage international competition and called attention to the Paddock-Murchison trip and the recent steps taken by officials of American athletic activities to form a Pan-American Federation for the development of international competition among the athletes of the United States, Canada and South America.

In commenting on the tour, President Hulbert said:

"Just as we believe that the appearance in this country of Paavo Nurmi, John Heff, Hugo Frigerio and others will result in arousing interest in athletics throughout this country and, particularly, we hope, will stimulate the development of material for the American Olympic team of 1928, so do I believe that the visit of Charlie Paddock and Loren Murchison to New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Germany, Sweden and Finland will have a like effect in those countries.

"I also believe that the athletes of these countries, visiting one another, will do a great deal not alone toward the promotion of international sport but toward the establishment of a better international feeling and fellowship among the people. That's what I would call a real League of Nations, one founded on good fellowship and good feeling."

PRATT BEATS N. Y. AGGIES.

Takes Early Lead and Scores 38-16 Victory on Brooklyn Court.

The Pratt Institute five defeated the New York Aggies last night on the winners' court in Brooklyn by a score of 38 to 16. Showing superior passing and a better ability to find the basket from the floor, Pratt forged ahead in the early minutes of the contest and was never threatened. At half time the Brooklyn team was leading by 17 to 11.

The line-up:

PRATT (38).		N. Y. AGGIES (16).
Brunner	L.F.	Borer

MRS. LOUNDES WINS FINAL.

Defeats Mrs. Boyd on Extra Green in Carolina Golf Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 12.—Mrs. Dozier Loundes of Atlanta, Southern golf champion, won the Carolina tournament for women here today when she defeated Mrs. Jackson Boyd of Harrisburg, Pa., on the nineteenth green.

Mrs. Boyd put up a spirited battle and did not succumb easily.

W. Va. Wesleyan to Play in Texas.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Dec. 12.—West Virginia Wesleyan College has accepted an invitation to meet Southern Methodist University in a football game at Dallas, Texas, on New Year's Day under the auspices of the Texas State Fair Association, officials at the West Virginia College have announced.

Brooklyn Poly to Play Tonight.

Coach Dursborow has been putting the Brooklyn Poly basketball squad through daily drills in preparation for tonight's game against the St. Francis five. The game, which will take place on the Easter's court, will probably find Poly using the lineup which made such a fine showing against Cooper Union last week.

Air of Mystery Surrounds Nurmi's Workouts Indoors

A brisk walk of about four miles over the streets and roads of the Bronx in the morning and a jog around the board floor of the 102d Engineers Regiment Armory track in the evening, constituted the day's work yesterday for Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great runner, who is here to measure strides with the best runners of America. The exact nature of Nurmi's workout in the armory was carefully concealed for some mysterious reason by those assisting in the preparation of the visiting star for his American competitive activities. It is understood, however, that Nurmi plans regular training sessions hereafter at the 102d Engineers Armory and at the Seventy-first Infantry Regiment Armory for the purpose of preparing himself for his first taste of indoor running on Jan. 6 at the games of the Finnish-American A. C. in Madison Square Garden.

COLUMBIA DEFEATS C. C. N. Y. ON MAT

Opens Season by Winning, 14-6, on One Fall and Three Time-Advantage Decisions.

Columbia's wrestling team defeated the C. C. N. Y. mat men in the opening meet of the season yesterday afternoon in the Columbia Gymnasium. The score was 14 to 6. The winners' points were the result of one fall and three time-advantage decisions, while City College scored on two time-advantage decisions.

Captain Brennan of the Blue and White squad was the only wrestler to have a fall to his credit yesterday. Brennan, after grappling with his taller opponent, Tubridy, in the 145-pound class, for nearly five minutes, suddenly dove toward his opponent and threw him with an under three-quarter nelson hold. The time was 5:05. Brennan might have found the going a little harder if Magid, City College's regular 145-pounder, had been in the line-up. Magid injured his leg in practice on Wednesday and was unable to take part in the meet.

In the 115-pound class Arida, the Columbia man, was on the offense against Levin of C. C. N. Y. practically all of the time and was able to pile up a total of six minutes as a time advantage. In the last minute of the bout Levin swung on top of Arida, but the winner had too much time to his credit for Levin's last-minute stand to cause any damage.

The summaries:

Score—Columbia 14, C. C. N. Y. 6.

Referee—G. E. Wambold, Sea and Land Club.

FORDHAM FIVE WINS FROM CATHEDRAL, 33-21

Frisch Sees Maroon Take Opening Game, Using Second Team for Most Part.

The Fordham University basketball team opened its season last night on its own courts with a 33-21 victory over Cathedral College. Fordham put its second team in to start the game, but after Cathedral had gained a lead of six points the Maroon first team went in and took the lead, to hold it to the end. The second team took the floor again in the second period and remained until the end.

Fordham's good pass work and accurate shooting from under the basket gave it a distinct edge over Cathedral, whose passing game was easily broken up.

The line-up:

FORDHAM (33).		CATHEDRAL (21).
Grainger	L.F.	Brennan
Schneider	R.F.	Morrissey
Delaney	C.	Dooley
McMahon	L.G.	Cahill
Leary	R.G.	Kenney

Goals from field—Fordham: Cavanagh (4), Schneider (2), Zakszewski (2), White (2), McMahon, Leary. Cathedral: Brennen (2), Morrissey (2), Dooley (3), Cahill (2). Goals from foul—Fordham: Cavanagh 1 out of 4, Schneider 1 out of 2, White 1 out of 1, Rohan 1 out of 2, Delaney 2 out of 2. Cathedral: Brennen 3 out of 3, Cahill 1 out of 4, Kenney 1 out of 1.

Substitutions—Fordham: Cavanagh for Grainger, Grainger for Cavanagh, White for Schneider, O'Neil for White, Schneider for O'Neil, Zakszewski for Delaney, Delaney for Zakszewski, Zakszewski for Delaney, Rohan for McMahon, McMahon for Rohan, Woods for Leary. Cathedral: Byron for Brennen, Brennen for Byron.

CONCANNON AGAIN DIVIDES.

Beats Natalie in First, 100 to 71, but Loses the Second, 100 to 60.

Joseph Concannon, representative of Brooklyn, and Pasquale Natalie of Baltimore broke even again in their two games played yesterday in the national championship Pocket Billiard League at the Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. In the afternoon Concannon was the winner at 100 to 71 in thirty-five innings, making a high run of 26, while Natalie's high run was 20. In the evening Natalie won at 100 to 60 in thirty-nine innings, making a high run of 15, one better than Concannon's best run. Each player has now won two games in the series and the final two games will be played this afternoon and evening.

OTHER BILLIARD RESULTS.

Leo Silver defeated James Maturo in the final game for both players in the New York State professional pocket billiard championship at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn last night by the score of 100 to 90 in forty-four innings. The winner's high run was 23, the loser's was 15.

In the national 14.2 balkline tournament at the same academy, Joseph Blaisdell defeated John Baker in the Brooklyn section, 125 to 88 in forty-six innings, making a high run of 22. In the New York section, played at Lawler Brothers' Academy, J. J. Quinn was the victor over W. Reynolds, 125 to 11, in thirty innings.

Eric Hazenlather ran 300 points to four innings and made a high run of 126 in an exhibition 18.2 balkline game with William Salerno at the Scandinavian Billiard Academy last night. Salerno's total was 69. Hazenlacher went out with an unfinished run of 96.

Teddy Dick was the winner over Robert McGirr in the metropolitan amateur three-cushion championship at the Broadway Academy last night. The score was 20 to 12. Dick made a high run of 3 and went out in fifty-five innings.

Tadao Suganuma defeated George Leonard in an exhibition game at Julian's Fourteenth Street Academy last night by the score of 200 to 20 in fourteen innings. His high run was 36. In the handicap three-cushion tournament at the academy Mat Margolis were defeated by A. J. Appel, 50 to 15, in sixty innings. Appel made a high run of 4.

F. Weinberger won his match last night in the pocket billiard tournament now under way at the Fulton Billiard Academy, Weinberger beat C. A. Vaughn, 100 to 84.

Dr. H. D. Jennings defeated A. Prenerton in the pocket billiard championship tournament at the Hoppe Academy last night by the score of 100 to 16 in thirty-five innings. Dr. Jennings made a high run of 27, while Prenerton's high run was 11.

MITCHELL IN LEAD IN OPEN AT MIAMI

SETS RECORD FOR COURSE

Completes Afternoon Round in 68, One Better Than Best Previous Mark at Hialeah.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—Abe Mitchell, hard-hitting British golf professional, playing sensationally, led by four strokes at the end of the first 36 holes in the 72-hole Miami open championship here today with an aggregate of 139. Bobbie Cruickshank, the New Jersey professional, was second with 143. Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge was in a triple tie for third place at 147 with George Duncan, former British open champion, and Leo Diegel, Great Neck, L. I.

Mitchell, after reeling off a great 71 in the morning round, came back in the afternoon with a spectacular 68, breaking the course record at Hialeah by one stroke. Mitchell incorporated eleven birdies into the first 36 holes.

Out .....4 4 4 4 3 4 4 3 4—34
In .....4 3 4 4 4 5 4 3 5—36—68

The only flaw in this round occurred at the fifteenth, where the long-driving Britisher used up three putts. The final thirty-six holes will be played tomorrow. Mitchell rules a strong favorite to retain his margin. He went into the van in the opening round with his fine 71, which equaled par for the course.

Despite flubbed drives at the fourteenth and fifteenth holes, Mitchell assembled a brilliant card, and he had drives approximating 300 yards at the thirteenth and eighteenth holes of the morning round. Sensational putting gave him five birdies on the first lap of the 72-hole test.

His morning card follows:

Out .....4 4 4 3 4 5 3 4 4—34
In .....4 4 5 4 4 4 3 5 4—37—71

Walter Hagen, British open champion, and Cyril Walker, holder of the United States open title, who were scheduled to compete here, failed to make an appearance. Cruickshank, representing Tampa, Fla., finished the morning round two shots in the rear of Mitchell. His card read 37—36—73.

Scores for the first thirty-six holes:

Abe Mitchell, England	71	68—139
Bob Cruickshank, New Jersey	73	70—143
Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge	75	72—147
George Duncan, England	75	72—147

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Yale	4	2	Crescent	3	3
Harvard	4	2	N. T. A. C.	3	3
Princeton	4	2	D. K. E.	2	4
Columbia	4	2	Montclair	0	6

A quadruple tie for first place was brought about in the metropolitan Class B interclub squash tennis championship yesterday when the Yale Club and the Columbia Club, the leaders of the league, were defeated and the Princeton and Harvard Clubs, which were tied for third place, won their matches. Princeton defeated Yale on the Orange and Black courts, 5 to 2, and Harvard won on its own courts from Columbia, 4 to 1. In the two other matches played the Crescent A. C. defeated the Montclair A. C. in Brooklyn, 4 to 3, and the New York A. C. triumphed over the visiting D. K. E. team, 7 to 0.

The Princeton team showed surprising strength against Yale, taking the top four matches and the seventh one again losing the other two only after taking a game in each of them. Edwin Muller never showed to better advantage than he did in defeating Arthur Goldburg at 15-3, 15-8. Goldburg is one of the most promising players in the Class B ranks at Yale and has been winning regularly. Against Muller he was unable to get his best game to working and the Princeton man was never in any trouble. R. F. Sperry and Arnold Weed Jr., the Nos. 2 and 3 men in the Princeton line, won more easily than did Muller. George A. Walker Jr. dropped the first game to W. Ay Adams Jr. of Yale without getting a point, and then came back to take the second and third easily. L. J. Doyle was the other winner for Princeton.

Columbia made a better showing against Harvard than is indicated by the score of 6—1. One of the Crimson's victories was gained by default and the five others were won after close play.

The closest engagement of the four of the day was that between the Crescents and Montclair. E. R. O'Connor, whose work has been conspicuously good this season, played at No. 1 for the New Jersey team and defeated J. C. Tredwell in a three-game match at 15—17, 15—3, 15—12. Tredwell showed up after taking the first game and then came back strong in the third, but did not have enough left in reserve to overcome the hard hitting of O'Connor. Donald Bellows, No. 2; E. R. Larigan, No. 4; E. F. Cypiot and J. W. Ivins, the bottom two men in the lineup, won for the Crescents, all of them in two games. Felix Jenkins and J. G. Waldron, winners of the two other matches, were extended to win from their Crescent opponents.

The New York Athletic Club's 7—0 victory over the strong D. K. E. team was not as notable as it might seem, for three of the matches went by default.

The summaries:

Princeton Club 5, Yale Club 2.

Edwin Muller, Princeton, defeated Arthur Goldburg, 15—3, 15—8; S. M. S. Sperry, Princeton, defeated A. G. Hardy, 15—4, 15—11; Arnold Weed Jr., Princeton, defeated W. J. Schleitzer, 15—1, 15—7; George A. Walker Jr., Princeton, defeated William A. Adams Jr., 15—3, 15—4, 15—7; Jesse Spalding, Yale, defeated C. H. Hoffman, 15—7, 15—11, 15—8; D. Mck. Blodgett, Yale, defeated Robert Reid, 15—12, 15—10, 15—10; L. J. Doyle, Princeton, defeated S. R. Saunders, 15—4, 15—7.

Harvard Club 6, Columbia Club 1.

Gerald Henderson, Harvard, defeated M. M. Alexander, 15—6, 17—15, J. D. Kamm, Columbia, defeated E. R. Bromley, 5—15, 15—8, 15—13; F. S. Tibbles, Harvard, defeated J. W. Sullivan Jr., 15—17, 15—7, 15—4; A. Millholland, Harvard, won from W. D. J. Stasbuck by default; F. W. Dorr, Harvard, defeated E. E. Reuter, 15—11, 7—15, 15—2; Clarence O'Neill, Harvard, defeated Robert Cole, 5—15, 17—15, 15—10; Geoffrey Taylor, Harvard, defeated W. S. Brown, 15—12, 15—11.

Crescent A. C. 4, Montclair A. C. 3.

E. R. O'Connor, Montclair, defeated J. C. Tredwell, 15—17, 15—3, 15—12; Donald Bellows, Crescent, defeated F. S. Hart, 15—10, 15—2; Felix Jenkins, Montclair, defeated C. W. Fyfe, 15—17, 15—8, 15—12; E. R. Larigan, Crescent, defeated W. S. Sperry, 15—3, 15—6; C. Waldron, Montclair, defeated Norman F. Torrence, 15—12, 5—15, 15—8; E. F. Cypiot, Crescent, defeated E. J. Wimpenny, 15—12, 15—12; J. W. Ivins, Crescent, defeated E. B. Van Cleve, 15—7, 15—12.

New York A. C. 7, D. K. E. 0.

TWO RIDERS SWEEP NEW ORLEANS CARD

Swanson and Harvey, Apprentice Jockeys, Divide Program of Seven Races.

FORMER ON FOUR WINNERS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 12.—Jockeys V. Swanson and W. Harvey set a mark for the Sandos, Maibens and McAtees to shoot at here today when they divided the Jefferson Park card between them and won all seven races. Swanson rode four winners and Harvey three—not a bad afternoon for a pair of apprentice boys. There have been other instances where two jockeys have swept entire cards with one winning four or five and the other one or two races, but probably never before was a seven-race program so evenly divided.

The feat was all the more remarkable because Swanson, who took the odd race, is a comparative unknown. Harvey has been riding sensationally ever since last Summer, but few turfmen aside from the patrons of the half-mile tracks had ever heard of Swanson before the present meeting opened.

Although Harvey was forced to yield the palm to his less prominent rival in the matter of victories, he included the feature number in his score to better balance the honors. This was the Natchez Handicap, in which he rode the Greentree Stable's The Vintner to his third straight sprint victory at this course. It was fine ride and not the Omar Khayyam gelding's speed which saved the day, too.

Harvey took him away from the barrier with the leaders and at once hustled him into a good lead. And it was well he did. In the last furlong the sorrel-topped youngster had to ride with hands, feet and whip to keep him in front of the fast-closing Mom's Boy. At the end the winner just staggered under the wire with a scant half length to spare. He was the favorite, paying 3 to 5. S. N. Holman's Bradley's Toney came from far back in the run through the stretch to get the show money. The Vintner covered the five and one-half furlongs over a slow track in 1:07 2-5.

Harvey began the afternoon as if he intended to sweep the card all alone. He took the first with Talequa at 3 to 1 and the second with Cary Winfrey's Camouflage at 11 to 5. Then Swanson began to horn into the proceedings.

Just to show Harvey that scoring a double in successive races was no trick, he booted J. D. Grant's Frightful home a half length ahead of Uncle J. in the third after saving ground all the way and rating the Frizzle gelding off the pace like a veteran. That was one.

In the next number he broke Mrs. W. J. Potter's Boy O Boy from the barrier on his toes and, keeping him up with the leaders throughout the mile and seventy yards, just did get him home a nose in front of H. G. Bedwell's unlucky Modo.

It was Harvey's turn again in the fifth, the feature, but the sixth and seventh found Swanson in front once more. Ossaleen, at 7 to 2, was the one to profit by his brilliant riding in the sixth and in the seventh it was on Waukulla that he outrode the Cuban boy, Rodrigues, to win by half a length from the Derby Stable's Battle Shot. Waukulla ran the mile in 1:44 flat to pay her backers 3 to 1 at the finish.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For all ages; maidens; purse $700; one mile. Talequa, 103 pounds (Harvey), 3-1, even, 1-2, first; Bad Luck 103 (G. Lang), 6-5, 1-2, second; Firmament 104 (Holloway), 7-5, third. Time—1:43 1-5. Gladys V., Toddy Toast and Intrepid also ran.

SECOND RACE—For four-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $700; six furlongs. Camouflage 108 pounds (Harvey), 11-5, even, 1 to 2, first; Sunny Girl 111 (C. Lang), 7 to 5, 7 to 10, second; Dr. Glenn 105 (Garrity), 4 to 5, third. Time—1:15 1-5. Sea Court, John Q. Kelly 3d, Astro, Mayor Carrel, Rock Bottom, Kinsman and Rock Salt also ran.

THIRD RACE—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $700; six furlongs. Frightful, 106 pounds (Swanson), 8 to 5, 3 to 1, 8 to 5, first; Uncle J., 110 (Sharpe), 6 to 5, 4 to 5, second; Maximaneh, 106 (Harvey), 5 to 2, third. Time—1:16 1-5. Bienerhasett, Donna Santa, Parmachene Belle, Wuhu, Good Will, New Hope, Shanghai and Gloom Girl also ran.

Giants Again Name Sarasota As Site for Training Camp

Sarasota, on the west coast of Florida, again will be the training camp of the Giants next Spring, it was announced last night by Secretary James J. Tierney. The club trained there last Spring after abandoning San Antonio, and John McGraw decided to go back to Florida when he was advised that hotel accommodations would be provided to meet the Giants' need. The club will be housed in a new hotel, The Sarasota, which has been built since the Giants were there last March. Two floors of the hotel will be set aside for the New York party. The main squad of players will report at Sarasota March 1, but it is probable McGraw will have his pitchers and catchers at work about Feb. 22.

STURGIS MAY HEAD THE JOCKEY CLUB

Vice Chairman Believed Logical Successor to Belmont—Meeting in January.

Speculation in racing circles yesterday as to the probable successor of the late Major August Belmont as Chairman of the Jockey Club centred about the names of Harry Payne Whitney, Joseph E. Widener and F. K. Sturgis, the present Vice Chairman. The new Chairman will probably be chosen at the next regular meeting of the organization in January. There will be a postponed meeting next Wednesday, at which Mr. Sturgis will preside, but it is said that this meeting will be devoted solely to the passing of resolutions and the transaction of some routine business now before the body.

Some well informed turfmen were inclined to believe yesterday that Mr. Sturgis would probably succeed to the Chairmanship. These pointed out that, while he does not own and race a string of horses, Mr. Sturgis knows racing thoroughly and is intimately acquainted with the business of the Jockey Club. In his present capacity he devotes much of his time to racing and it is believed that he would be willing to accept the office if it were tendered him. There is some doubt, on the other hand, about Mr. Whitney's willingness to accept the post, and the fact that Mr. Widener is a Philadelphian might cause him to hesitate.

Mr. Sturgis was a close personal friend of Major Belmont's. is a New Yorker and is strong and active despite his advanced years. He is also popular among the other members of the club. In case he should decline the honor either Mr. Whitney or Mr. Widener might strain a point to take the post, because of their keen interest in the sport and their desire to keep it in its present healthful condition. At present, however, the selection of Mr. Sturgis seems most logical and probable.

If Mr. Sturgis is chosen as the new Chairman the present Secretary, H. K. Knapp, may succeed him as Vice Chairman, while William Woodward, a comparative newcomer to the sport, was mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Knapp.

SQUADRON A BEATS RIDING CLUB, 8-6

Comes From Behind to Capture Indoor Polo Game in the Closing Period.

Despite the brilliant performance of W. H. Adams, both on the offensive and defensive, the Riding Club horsemen lost to the Squadron A combination in a closely fought match in the polo ring at the Riding Club yesterday. Conceding the Squadron riders a one-goal handicap, Adams, playing back for the Riding Club, started out with a rush that sent his team into a seemingly safe lead, but in the last two chukkers the Squadron riders came with a rush and scored an 8-6 triumph.

The line-up

SQUADRON A (8).	RIDING CLUB (6).
1—L. E. Shaw	1—William Ziegler.
2—F. Coughlan	2—H. Rudkin.
Back—J. D. Graham.	Back—W. H. Adams.

ROBINSON IS IMPROVED.

Brooklyn Pilot's Condition Not Considered Serious.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 12.—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn National League baseball club, who has been suffering for some time with pleurisy contracted while on a hunting trip in Georgia, was reported to be somewhat improved tonight. Robinson himself said he felt better today than for some days past, according to members of the family, who added that they did not consider his condition serious.

X-ray photographs were made today in an effort to ascertain the extent of Robinson's ailment, but the result will not be known until tomorrow.

POLO TEAMS NAMED FOR INTERCITY PLAY

Hamilton, Fonda and Ladin to Represent New York in Chicago Tourney.

BROOKLYN TRIO CHOSEN

Parsons, Sackman and Mortenson Selected for Title Event, Which Will Start Jan. 14.

Following several trial matches, the last of which was played before the members of the Selection Committee on Thursday night, the teams to represent New York and Brooklyn in the first intercity indoor polo championship tournament at Chicago next month were announced yesterday. The New York horsemen who have been chosen to make the trip are Burgoyne Hamilton of the Riding Club, D. C. Fonda of the New York Athletic Club and Paul Ladin of the Triangle Club. These three men will serve as regulars and a substitute will be chosen later, there being several players under consideration by the officials in charge.

The Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club gained two places on the Brooklyn team, as W. A. Sackman was selected to fill the No. 2 position and H. C. Parsons was the horseman chosen for the defensive post of No. 3. The third member of the team to represent Brooklyn will be L. W. Mortenson of the 101st Cavalry, who will play No. 1. Like the New York committee, the officials in charge of the selection of the Brooklyn team failed to reach any decision as to a substitute, and the fourth member of the squad will be named at a later date.

The New York team will carry the maximum handicap allowed in the intercity championship tournament of twelve goals, Hamilton being rated at two goals, Fonda carrying the maximum individual allowance of six and Ladin being rated at four. These three should form a strong trio, and they have been hard at work for more than a month perfecting their hitting and regaining the form that they displayed during the last season. They will have their first workout as a combination at the Squadron A Armory tonight, when they meet the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club team, composed of H. A. Davenport, J. W. Kopke and B. L. Spence, a trio that has played together for several seasons and which has developed a combination play that will test the New York team thoroughly. The Brooklyn team tonight will carry an aggregate handicap rating of twelve goals and the teams will meet on even terms as individuals.

The Brooklyn combination that will go to Chicago also will carry the maximum rating of twelve goals. Mortenson is handicapped at three goals, Sackman plays at four goals and Parsons is rated at five goals. This is a more evenly balanced team than that which will represent New York, with the strength well distributed all along the line. Sackman and Parsons have played together in various events and are familiar with each other's style of attack and defense. They work together with understanding and coordination and the Brooklyn team will have an easier time perfecting its combination play. Mortenson will be the only member who will need to work into the system. Several practice matches are being arranged for the Brooklyn city team before it departs for the West and it is expected to make a strong showing in the tournament.

The two squads from New York and Brooklyn will depart for Chicago in a special car on Jan. 12, it also was announced yesterday. Each team will send a string of eight mounts ahead on Jan. 11 and they will work out in the new Chicago Riding Club ring, where the tournament will be staged on Jan. 13. There will be a general assembly of the players who will compete in the championship event at the Drake Hotel on the same day and on Jan. 14 play will start for the title.

This will be the first intercity tournament ever to be held in this country and it is expected to prove one of the most popular events on the indoor polo program for the coming season. The Indoor Polo Association has appointed chairmen of committees to select teams from eight cities and all have announced that they will send representative combinations to the tournament with the exception of Pittsburgh, which announced yesterday that it would be forced to withdraw. However, Newark, with three member clubs of the Indoor Polo Association, eagerly accepted the place left vacant by the withdrawal of the Smoky City and there will be eight teams competing for the title. Besides New York, Brooklyn and Newark, there will be horsemen representing Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago.

CLUB OWNERS AWAIT MOVE FROM LANDIS

Stormy Chicago Session Seen if Commissioner Insists on Battle With Johnson.

NATIONAL READY FOR WAR

But American League Will Seek Peace—Magnates Leave City—Trading at a Standstill.

Having spread their last resolution on the minutes, the magnates of baseball packed up and went back home yesterday, leaving everything quiet again along the Rialto. Garry Herrmann and his Cincinnati party were the only lingerers in the metropolis, and this brought a report that the Reds still had hopes that John J. McGraw would take a generous turn and let them have First Baseman Bill Terry.

The next move in the annual baseball war is now up to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, who will have to decide before next Wednesday whether he will have the long-awaited showdown with Ban Johnson or will listen to the peace overtures of the American League. The adjourned joint meeting in Chicago next week will be either the stormiest session in recent history or the quietest, depending on the Judge's decision.

It is known now that the two major leagues are at cross purposes as far as the coming conclave is concerned. The National League wants an open meeting, with the press present, and a fighting one. The American League would have the doors shut and peace and harmony within.

The younger league's attitude, as expressed yesterday by one of its prominent officials, is that it will ask Landis to let Johnson be handled by his own employers. The American League magnates intend to promise the Commissioner that they will take care of Johnson themselves. They will also tell Landis that they have warned Johnson that another outbreak will mean his resignation from the league Presidency.

Whether or not the war will be continued in Chicago may depend on the efforts of the American League committee, headed by Colonel Ruppert, which will call on Commissioner Landis in Chicago Wednesday morning. At that time the committee will attempt to persuade Landis that Johnson already has been checked, that he will be good in the future and that a showdown between the two would hurt baseball and bring no benefit.

Whether Landis will listen to this plea and call off the scheduled bout is the question of the hour. The Commissioner may decide he wants peace, but not until after he has spoken his mind before the magnates and league heads.

National League men were still confident yesterday that there would be a battle. They insist that the league and the New York club should have an opportunity to answer Johnson's accusations, and they want to do it in an open session—in fact, they might not be averse to broadcasting it over the radio.

The trade market opened weakly yesterday and got even worse later on. There was no sign of a trade in sight, unless one includes the activities of the Yankees, who still have a couple of irons in the fire. Miller Huggins and Ed Barrow have laid a proposition before George Sisler of the Browns and another one before Connie Mack of the Athletics. Having reached no agreement, the parties concerned have decided to "sleep over it," in the words of Barrow.

It is understood, but not admitted by the Yanks, that Fred Heimach, the southpaw twirler of the Athletics, is the person sought on Mack's team. Urban Shocker, of course, is the main principal in the St. Louis negotiations, with four other athletes involved.

The transaction for Joe Boley, shortstop of the Baltimore Orioles, seems to have reached a standstill. Jack Dunn wants too big a price from the Yankees.

PRINCETON SIX LOSES TO ST. NICHOLAS, 5-1

Tigers Suffer Their Worst Defeat in Three Years in Opening Game of Season.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—Princeton opened its hockey season tonight by suffering the most one-sided defeat in the last three years at the hands of the St. Nicholas Club of New York, 5 to 1. The inexperienced Tiger team was no match for the fast, quick-shooting New Yorkers, who displayed better teamwork and took advantage of every opportunity.

Cushman, a former Princeton captain, was high scorer, with two goals, and played a brilliant game, as did Charley O'Hearn and Reid of Yale. The Princeton attack was fairly strong, but the fine defensive work of Lewis in goal for the St. Nicks was too much for Princeton until late in the last period, when Charlie Davis slipped one past Lewis from the side.

The line-up:

ST. NICHOLAS (5).		PRINCETON (1).
Townsend	L.W.	Stout
Cushman	R.W.	Scull
Buntin	C.	Davis
Foster	L.D.	Taylor
O'Hearn	R.D.	Trenholm
Lewis	G.	Pepper

Goals—Cushman (2), Reid, Townsend, Buckley, Davis.

Substitutions: St. Nicholas: Buckley for Townsend, Reid for Buntin, Pierson for Cushman, Sheriden for Foster, Townsend for Buckley. Princeton—Delamater for Davis, Price for Scull, Wilkinson for Stout, Stont for Delamater, Casey for Price, Colebrook for Pepper, Price for Casey, Wilkemeth for Stout, Casey for Price, Snyder for Casey.

Referee—J. L. Brown, New York. Time of periods—Three of 20 minutes each.

TENNIS COMMITTEE WILL REPORT TODAY

Special Group of Seven Members to Announce Player-Writer Recommendations.

RANKING TO BE SETTLED

Davis Cup and Schedule Bodies Also to Make Reports at Session of U. S. L. T. A. Executives.

The player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule adopted at the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association last February, the subject of one of the bitterest controversies ever to rise in the lawn tennis world, will come up for consideration again today when the special committee of seven members, appointed by the Executive Committee of the U. S. L. T. A. last June, makes its report to the annual meeting of the Executive Committee at the Hotel Vanderbilt. The Executive Committee will pass upon the report and will refer it, along with its own recommendations, to the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A., which will be held in this city the first week in February.

The special committee is composed of Senator George Wharton Pepper, Devereux Milburn, Captain of the United States International Polo team; Grantland Rice, sports writer; Jones W. Mersereau, Vice President of the U. S. L. T. A.; Arthur Hollen of Washington, D. C., a member of the Amateur Rule Committee; William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia, the national champion, and S. Wallis Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis. The four last named were appointed on the original committee and selected the three others. Tilden and Merrihew represent the opposition to the interpretation, while Mersereau and Hellen represent the other side.

Special Meeting Asked.

The special committee was appointed at a time when the controversy over the interpretation was bitterest and requests were being made for the calling of a special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. to reconsider the new construction put upon the amateur rule. The Executive Committee, at the call of President George W. Wightman of the U. S. L. T. A., met in this city to determine whether the special meeting should be called. As Tilden had resigned from the Davis Cup team, and Richards had also taken the latter reconsidered and withdrew his resignation, the situation was a delicate one, if not critical, and the entire tennis following of the country, if not of the twenty-three countries that had challenged for the Davis Cup as well, awaited the outcome of the meeting.

President Wightman and his fellow-members of the Executive Committee decided not to call the special meeting, stating that they deemed it unwise and expedient to summon the delegates from all over the country to discuss a controversial matter with the tennis season getting into full swing and the time for the playing of the preliminary Davis Cup ties approaching. The Executive Committee decided to suspend the operation of the interpretation, which was to have gone into effect Jan. 1, 1925, until after the next annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. in February, and appointed the special committee to go into the matter with the Amateur Rule Committee and report to the Executive Committee at its meeting today, the latter body to incorporate the report in its call for the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A., where the matter will be reconsidered and final action taken.

Tilden Reached Compromise.

On the day following the meeting of the Executive Committee Tilden announced from Providence, R. I., that he had reached a satisfactory compromise with the tennis authorities whereby he was to continue writing articles without affixing his titles to his name. He withdrew his resignation from the team and expressed his desire to play for the United States. He was put back on the team and the controversy ceased during the playing season.

In addition to the report of the special committee of seven, a number of other interesting reports will be made at the meeting at the Executive Committee today. The Ranking Committee will offer its lists of the leading players of the country for approval, the Davis Cup Committee will review the play in the international classic during 1924 and probably consider changes suggested for the conduct of the play, including the proposal to inaugurate challenge rounds in each zone. The Schedule Committee will assign tentative dates for the various national championships and the Davis Cup ties in this country and the challenge round.

FIVE YALE STARS ON BIG THREE TEAM

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—The annual Big Three eleven chosen by Seff Herring, football expert of the Princeton Alumni Weekly, contained several surprises when it was made public today in this week's issue. Both Captain Lovejoy of Yale and Captain Stout of Princeton were left off the first team and only one Harvard man, Gehrke, was picked for the eleven. Ed McMillan, Tiger captain-elect, was named by Herring as the best centre of the three teams, while Luman of Yale and Ted Drews of Princeton were rated as the best ends and Stout was not even placed on the second team, being left out in favor of Bingham and Gill of Yale. The first eleven was made up of Luman and Drews, ends; Beattie and Joss, tackles; Sturhahn and Root, guards; McMillan, centre; Gehrke, Pond, Williams and Slagle, backs. Five of these are Yale men.

His first two teams are as follows:

L.	Luman, Yale Drews, Princeton	E.	Gill, Yale Bingham, Yale
L.	Beattie, Princeton Joss, Yale	T.	Butterworth, Yale Casey, Harvard
L.	Sturhahn, Yale Root, Yale	G.	Hills, Princeton Howard, Princeton
C.	McMillan, Princeton	C.	Lovejoy, Yale
B.	Gehrke, Harvard Pond, Yale Williams, Princeton Slagle, Princeton	B.	Caldwell, Princeton Kline, Yale Dinsmore, Princeton Hammond, Harvard

ARMY-NAVY CONTESTS SET.

Service Teams to Meet in Four-Sport Program on May 30.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 12.—The teams of the Navy and the Army will meet in four sports on May 30 next, according to present arrangements. The lacrosse match will take place at Annapolis and the baseball game and the track and field and tennis at West Point. A movement is on foot to have either the tennis or the track and field competition transferred to Annapolis, so that there will be two events at each place. The Army, however, sent all three of its teams to Annapolis last year, and the Navy will make an equal return unless the Army is entirely agreeable to the change.

Much interest is being taken here in tomorrow's basketball game between Columbia and the Navy, though Maryland, which the Navy defeated 23-16 here Wednesday, won from Columbia in New York by one point. The Navy team is not overconfident.

Coach Allen expects to start with Craig and Parrish, forwards; Rhodes, centre, and Shapley, the football star, and Neat, guards. Captain Lapsley, Day and Badger, who started against Maryland, will not begin tomorrow. However, the team looks equally as strong, and Shapley should add considerably to the offensive strength.

Suzanne Lenglen Elected 'Queen of Sport' in Paris

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Suzanne Lenglen has been voted the "Queen of Sport" in a newspaper ballot. The lawn tennis star received 2,417 votes out of 12,814 cast for nearly 150 candidates. Pearl White got 136 votes, but her classification as a sportswoman was not given. No one approached Suzanne in popularity. Mlle. Marcelle Neveu, the cross-country runner, was second, with half the tennis champion's vote. Mlle. Andrienne Bolland, who crossed the Andes two years ago, was seventh. The newspaper sprang a surprise by closing the balloting suddenly, two weeks ahead of the announced date, "to prevent ballot-box stuffing."

MANY STAR BACKS AMONG 78 CAPTAINS

Forty-three Chosen Against Thirty-five Linemen to Lead Football Teams.

More college football teams will be directed from the backfield than from the line next season, according to the tabulation of seventy-eight teams that so far have elected leaders for the 1925 gridiron campaign. In the East West and South the majority of teams has turned to the men who carry the ball to captain their machines next season. Of thirty-eight captains elected in the last twenty-one are backfield men, fourteen of them being running backs and the other seven quarterbacks. In the West twelve out of twenty-four captains elected so far are backs and in the South nine of sixteen leaders chosen so far play behind the line.

Altogether forty-three backs and thirty-five linemen have been chosen. When it is considered that there are seven line positions and only four backfield jobs, the selection of so many backfield men is all the more astonishing.

More ends have been chosen to captain 1925 teams than players from other positions in the line. Tackles come next, then guards and centres. In the East line captains have been distributed equally among ends, tackles and guards, there being five chosen from each position, while McMillan of Princeton and Gray of Penn State are the only Eastern centres selected as 1925 captains.

In the West four ends, three tackles, two guards and three centres have been honored, while in the South three ends will captain teams next year, two tackles have been named leaders, one centre will pilot a team and no guards have been elected as yet.

Several of the bigger universities have failed to elect their 1925 football captains, among them Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell and Lafayette in this section.

Following are the seventy-eight men chosen to captain next year's college elevens, together with their teams and positions:

OPERATE ON GOULLET TODAY

Doctor Says Cyclist Has Had Appendicitis Since September.

Alfred Goullet, the world's leading all-around cyclist and winner of twelve six-day bicycle races, will be operated on this morning for appendicitis at the New York Hospital. Dr. John H. Morrissey, who will perform the operation, stated last night that Goullet has been troubled with chronic appendicitis since last September, when he went to the hospital for five days, and that during the recent six-day grind at Madison Square Garden he was in attendance upon Goullet. During the last two days of the race, he said, Goullet was bothered considerably by his ailment.

In this statement is found at least a partial explanation for Goullet's failure to finish better than eighth in the race. The famous rider was one of the outstanding favorites at the start of the grind. Goullet refused to undergo an operation in September, according to the doctor, because he had a riding contract to fulfill and wished to enter the six-day race.

C. C. N. Y. FIVE TO PLAY.

Lavender Quintet Will Take Court Against Dickinson Tonight.

The City College varsity basketball team will play the Dickinson College five tonight at the 168th Street gymnasium. Nat Holman's charges have already garnered two victories in as many starts and are confident as to the outcome of tonight's encounter. The Lavender, however, remembers last year's hard battle with the Pennsylvanians and is ready for the stoutest kind of opposition.

The Lavender will use the same line-up as last week. Flattau, who played his first varsity game one week ago, showed promise, and Coach Nat Holman has decided to use him again. Flattau will be surrounded by a quartet of veterans.

Young Stribling Beats Lohman.

GIANTS COMPLETE FOOTBALL PROGRAM

Six Contests Will Be Played on Polo Grounds Gridiron Next Season.

A complete schedule of six games, which will be played at the Polo Grounds next Fall, was made public yesterday by Secretary James J. Tierney of the Giants. The list of games is larger and more ambitious than last year's and represents one of the best schedules ever drawn up for the Brush Stadium gridiron, despite the loss of the Army-Notre Dame attraction to the Yankee Stadium.

Heading the list, of course, is the Army-Navy classic held in Baltimore last month, but returned again to New York at the suggestion of the Army athletic authorities. The service game will be played Nov. 29, closing the season at the Giants' park.

The biggest surprise on the schedule is the Lafayette game, to be played Oct. 24 as the first attraction. This Fall the contest was switched from the Polo Grounds to the Yankee Stadium, and after the playing of the game it was understood in football circles that the two colleges would not play in New York next year. Almost as unexpected is their return to the Giants' park.

The Fordham-Georgetown annual, scheduled first for the Yankee Stadium this Fall and then taken over by the Giants at the suggestion of the American League club, will stay at the Polo Grounds for another year at least. The Nov. 21 date has been assigned to this game.

With Fordham on the schedule, the Giants will have four games in which one of the two teams will be a local eleven. Columbia alone has booked three games, with Cornell on Oct. 31, Army on Nov. 14 and Syracuse on Thanksgiving Day, two days before the Army-Navy tussle. This is the first time the Blue and White has scheduled more than two games off its own grounds.

The Giants' schedule follows:

Oct. 24, W. and J.-Lafayette; 31, Columbia-Cornell.

Nov. 14, Columbia-Army; 21, Fordham-Georgetown; 28, Columbia-Syracuse; 29, Army-Navy.

Philadelphia Students Cheer Princeton Mentor After Address on Athletic Policy.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—Plans for a new athletic policy for Temple University designed to place it among the leading universities of the country in football, baseball and other sports were launched today at a luncheon of its Athletic Association, Faculty members and alumni. The university recently acquired a twelve-acre tract of land on the outskirts of the city, on which it purposed to erect a huge stadium. It is planned that all of the 11,000 students enrolled at Temple shall take some part in athletics.

A vigorous demand that William W. (Bill) Roper be engaged as football coach was made by hundreds of students who attended the luncheon. A prolonged demonstration followed an address by Mr. Roper, who for several years has been head coach at Princeton, in which he commended the movement to enlarge the athletic activities at Temple.

After the luncheon Mr. Roper said that he had received no bona-fide offers from any college, and that the ovation by the Temple students was "entirely unexpected." Mr. Roper said he had no definite plans regarding football coaching in the future. He is a member of the Philadelphia City Council.

CORNELL HONORS 15 FOOTBALL MEN

Also Announces Baseball, Hockey, Fencing and Indoor Track Schedules.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Six schedules, four of them varsity and two freshman, were announced today by the Cornell Athletic Association. GRAY TO LEAD PENN STATE.

Star Centre Re-elected Captain of Nittany Lion Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Basil Gray, Penn State's veteran centre, today was re-elected captain of the football team for next season. He was the unanimous choice of the twelve players who have just received the varsity letter, and it is believed that Gray is the first Nittany Lion player to hold the captaincy for two consecutive years.

During the last season Gray was constantly drawn back of the line of scrimmage to do the punting for his team and he was one of the steadiest players on the Penn State line. His election to lead the 1925 team in his junior year was an unusual honor and his re-election today is added distinction.

Set yourself straight on these Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the Red and Green package.

PUPILS GET PRIZES FOR BEST ESSAYS

Distribution Is Made by F. H. Ecker, President of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Frederick H. Ecker, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, distributed $1,130 in gold yesterday to pupils in the city's public and parochial schools who were winners in the honesty essay contest of the A. Barton Hepburn Foundation. The awards were made in the meeting rooms of the Chamber, and Mr. Ecker in his speech dwelt on the various aspects of the foundation made possible in the will of Mr. Hepburn, who was a former President of the Chamber.

The early life of Mr. Hepburn was spent on an up-State farm, and honesty was the keynote of his life, said Mr. Ecker. In founding the contest, he continued, it was Mr. Hepburn's idea to make boys and girls realize what honesty meant. In closing, Mr. Ecker thanked the Board of Education for having judged the essays.

The contest was conducted last Spring and, according to figures made available yesterday, 226,000 pupils between the ages of 12 and 18 participated. The two leading essays by public school contestants were the work of Abraham Kagan, Grade 8A, Public School 24, Manhattan, and Esther Halpert, Public School 61, Queens. The two best in the high schools were by Bertha Monroe, Grade 4B, Bryant High School, and Marion Hayden, Grade 3B, Our Lady of Wisdom Academy, Queens. In the junior high schools the prizes went to Grace Hilmi, Grade 9B, Junior High 176, Manhattan, and Laura Manor, Grade 9A, Junior High 96, also of Manhattan. The high school grade 4A prizes went to Joseph Lefkowitz, Stuyvesant; Henry Scherl, Morris; Margaret Kahenny, Our Lady of Wisdom Academy, and Ralph N. Dreyer, Brooklyn Tech.

Other speakers at the exercises were Dr. John H. Finley, Jr., William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Public Schools, and the Rev. Mgr. Joseph T. Smith, in charge of Roman Catholic parochial schools.

TILTS STIR COURT IN TRIAL OF KARDOS

Judge Nott Warns Lawyers That Unless Wrangling Ceases He Will Declare a Mistrial.

When Mrs. Florence Noble, a widow, of 1,114 Park Place, Brooklyn, was testifying in General Sessions yesterday at the trial of Louis Montgomery Kardos Jr. of the defunct brokerage firm of Kardos & Burke, on the charge of bucketing, the counsel in the case wrangled so frequently that Judge Nott warned them he would declare a mistrial, increase Kardos's bail or commit him to the Tombs without bail pending a retrial. Mrs. Noble who alleged her order for fifty shares of stock had been bucketed, resumed examination yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Wintner when the dispute began over objections made by Philip C. Samuels, for the defense. This continued while she was under cross-examination.

The witness had testified that on Jan. 20, 1922, about a month before the firm failed, she gave to Mr. Benson, manager of the Brooklyn branch of Kardos & Burke, an order to purchase fifty shares of Chandler Motors stock for her. She denied that she had subsequently given to anybody connected with the firm an order to sell the stock. The indictment charges that the order was subjected to a "cross" sale on the same day. Mrs. Noble said that she had never received the stock and later she was informed that it had been sold, and she received a confirmation of the sale from the firm.

Mrs. Noble admitted that she had not paid for the stock in full and had not asked for its delivery to her. She said that she had been speculating in stocks for many years.

Miss Harriet Kaplan, head bookkeeper for the firm, and David Stilly and Sampson Carlo, also employes, followed on the witness stand. The prosecutor sought to prove through Miss Kaplan how it was possible for the firm to nullify the orders of its customers and relieve Kardos & Burke of actually carrying the stock for customers who had put up collateral for their purchases and were paying interest and broker's fees. The trial will be continued on Monday.

DRY GOODS BEATS YEAR AGO

And the Week Better Than Last in Both Current and Road Sales.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was considerably in excess both of last week's volume and that of the same week a year ago.

"Road sales showed a good increase over the figures recorded a week ago and were considerably greater than during the corresponding period in 1923.

"There were a great many more customers in market than during the same period a year ago.

BROOKLYN PLANS METHODIST TEMPLE

Fourteen-Story Revenue-Producing Building Will Replace Hanson Place Church.

A Protestant religious centre for downtown Brooklyn will replace the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Hanson Place and St. Felix Street, which has expressed a willingness to denote the property as the site for a fourteen-story Methodist Temple, to cost about $1,600,000.

The Hanson Place Church property is valued at $500,000. The new revenue-producing building will front 100 feet on Hanson Place and 140 feet on St. Felix Street. The church, with an auditorium, will occupy the first four floors. It will seat 2,000 persons and will include a choir loft, church offices, modern church school department rooms, with a spacious hall on the fifth floor which can be converted into a dining room or assembly centre.

The plans also provide for bowling alleys and billiard room in the second basement, with lockers for men and women. Four stores will front on Hanson Place, two on each side of an imposing Gothic entrance to the church auditorium. The first basement will be designed for a restaurant, and the building will contain 20,000 feet of office space.

Up to the present time the project has been sponsored by a committee of the Hanson Place Church, but a permanent committee will take over the plans.

MOVE TO SAVE OYSTERS.

Maryland and Virginia Plan to Restrict Depletion in Chesapeake Bay.

SALISBURY, Md., Dec. 12.—Promiscuous catching and wasteful marketing of oysters, crabs and fish in the Chesapeake Bay and its 152 tributaries has so depleted the supply that Maryland and Virginia now plan coordinating legislation to conserve those resources, Swepson Earl, Maryland State Conservation Commissioner, so informed the delegates to the Maryland Grange meeting here today.

"At one time the oyster industry in the Chesapeake Bay netted 15,000,000 bushels annually, but the present yearly catch has dropped to around 4,000,000 bushels," Commissioner Earl said. "In fifty years the industry has returned $200,000,000 to the dredgers and at least $100,000,000 more was lost in throwing away small oysters and in bad marketing.

"Maryland and Virginia have now arranged a mutual program of propagation and conservation whereby the State Departments hope to revive the industries, including rehabilitation of shad, rock-perch and trout."

Frederick was selected for the 1925 meeting of the State Grange.

ENGINE SMOKE CAUSES SUIT.

New York Central Must Stand Trial in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 12.—City Judge Hager today ruled that the New York Central Railroad must stand trial for alleged violation of a city ordinance prohibiting operation within the city limits of locomotives emitting steam or smoke. The railroad had brought action asking that the complaint of the Buffalo Corporation Counsel's office be dismissed.

The ordinance was passed in 1921. Under it railway companies were to file by Jan. 1, 1922, plans for abolishing locomotives emitting smoke or steam. This the city claims the companies failed to do. The ordinance has been a subject of litigation since. While it applies to all railway companies alike, the cases against the New York Central four in number, were said by city officials to have been selected as test cases.

TRADE ACCEPTANCES REACH $750,000,000

COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

Frederick I. Kent of Bankers Trust Company Again Chosen President.

The outstanding volume of trade acceptances is about $750,000,000, according to figures disclosed last night at the annual dinner of the American Acceptance Council at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. This is the largest volume since 1919, when the total was around $1,000,000,000. The prediction was made that the 1919 volume would be equaled and perhaps surpassed in 1925.

Technical features of foreign trade and acceptances were discussed in detail by Frederick I. Kent, Vice President of the Bankers' Trust Company, who was re-elected President of the American Acceptance Council at an afternoon session held in the rooms of the Merchants' Association.

At the dinner the guests of the council included W. P. G. Harding, former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, now Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, Boston; Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, New York; Edmund Platt, Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board of Washington; George W. Norris, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, Philadelphia; Paul M. Warburg, former member of the Federal Reserve Board.

The present and future of the discount market were discussed at the afternoon session of the council. After the meeting it was announced that no changes in the acceptance policy had been decided upon. President Kent reviewed the reintroduction of trade acceptances in recent years and pointed out that the American business man now realized the value of the trade acceptance when handled correctly.

The results of a questionnaire recently sent out to representative concerns in ten different lines of business were announced at the afternoon meeting. The replies showed that there had been an increased interest in the trade acceptance among bankers; that the trade acceptance has not one fundamental weakness as to credit instrument that would prevent its universal adoption; that in the handling of trade acceptances banks and clearing houses should accord them at maturity the same standing as checks and other cash items, and that once a concern inaugurates a trade acceptance policy and follows it for sufficient time to note its influence in converting former open book accounts into what are virtually cash accounts, there is no desire to give it up.

In addition to President Kent, the following officers were elected or re-elected by the American Acceptance Council: E. Hap Wagner, President of the Discount Corporation of New York, Vice President; Percy H. Johnston, President of the Chemical National Bank, Treasurer, and Robert H. Bean, Secretary. Mr. Wagner, as Vice President, succeeds Albert Strauss of J. and W. Seligman & Co. Charles A. Holder, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee of the council, to succeed Mr. Wagner.

Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, was elected First Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee, succeeding Herman Waldman, Vice President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, and Chellis A. Austin, President of the Seaboard National Bank of New York, was elected Second Vice Chairman, succeeding John Lonsdale, President of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis.

DR. MAYO DISCUSSES LONG LIFE PROBLEM

Famous Surgeon Tells Insurance Executives It Is Up to the Individual Now.

Medical science has done practically all it can do in eradicating the mass diseases from which mankind has suffered in the past and the problem it now faces is to reach the individual and rid him of the ills which cause his death, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous surgeon and head of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., yesterday told the concluding session of the two-day convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents at the Hotel Astor.

"The condition now exists," said Dr. Mayo, "that each man is dying his individual death and it is up to us to see if we cannot reach him in some manner and persuade him that it is worth while, when he is forty years of age, to go in and be looked over and see if he cannot be helped and persuaded to keep his old machinery from going to pieces from neglect."

George Perry Graham, Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals, spoke at the morning session on "Why There Is No Visible Dividing Line Between Canada and the United States," and was received by the convention with markedly enthusiastic applause. Another feature of the meeting was an address on "Our Common Carriers and National Expansion," by Charles H. Markham, President of the Illinois Central Railroad.

Dr. Mayo's subject was "Protect the Individual in the Middle Span of Life." After speaking of how medical science through the centuries had gradually got control of the diseases that swept humanity off in the mass and had thus raised the average age to which men and women lived, he continued:

"As we advanced age of man, then the problem of cancer came up. We say it has advanced 2½ per cent. a year for some time. Why? You can't take the two things and not see the harmony between them. If we are going to make older men, then they are going to live to a cancer age, and they are living on and increasing the percentage of cancer cases.

"It isn't that cancer has increased so much, but that we are advancing the age of man into the cancer period of life, the period of degeneration of cells. That is the thing to consider, because 87 per cent., as we see it now, of all the deaths in this country (if you are not killed by an automobile or some other accident) are going to be from some type of infection. Lots of us are going to live along for longer periods, not very well, but we are going to live along.

Hard Coal Situation Unchanged.

The anthracite market continues in much the same condition as for several weeks past, Seward's Journal will say today, with a few sizes in good demand and others in oversupply. While cold days alternate with mild ones and bring occasional periods of activity to the retail trade, the average temperature has not been low enough to afford any material help to the operators in moving the sizes that are causing the most trouble. These are egg and pea coal and No. 1 buckwheat. Though it will take more than a little seasonable weather to bring about a permanent change for the better in the bituminous industry, it is a fact that on the infrequent cold days recently, the demand has shown a noticeable picking up.

Cotton Goods Exports Good.

A satisfactory business in cotton goods for export is now being done in this market. The West Indies are buying well. Business with Haiti and Santo Domingo is considerably ahead of last year, due to higher coffee prices, and trade with Cuba, which has been interrupted by labor troubles, was good until the interruption came. Argentina is not taking much, but countries in the northern part of South America are fairly active in a buying way, especially Colombia. Most of the buying is confined to gray and colored drills and kindred merchandise, although some nice business with Haiti in the cheaper ranges of fancy dress ginghams is reported. Trade with the Levant is very quiet, but gray goods prices were said yesterday again to be getting back to the point where competition in that part of the world can be met by American mills.

Open Underwear Lines Monday.

Formal opening of 1925 lines of Northern-made heavyweight knitted underwear will take place in this market on Monday, following a decision made at the meeting of the New York State manufacturers of this merchandise in Utica, N. Y., on Thursday. There had been earlier reports to the effect that this action might be taken yesterday, but it was not. While, to date, only one Northern concern is known to have opened its lines formally for the new season, it is understood that several manufacturers have quoted their figures to buyers interested enough to do business before the actual openings took place. The general impression is that the openings will disclose prices slightly higher than those which prevailed at the recent opening of the leading Southern lines, yet lower, than those which prevailed on Northern goods at the beginning of 1924 heavyweight season.

Sale Furs Now Coming Forward.

The receipt of consignments of furs from all parts of the world, to be disposed of at auction here in January, is announced by the current market letter of Frederick Huth & Co., which further says that good support to all articles in the sale is expected. The letter goes on to say that furs to be included in the American sale, which will be held in this city beginning on Jan. 26, must reach the warehouse of the company, 542 West Thirty-sixth Street, not later than Saturday, Jan. 10. Receipts of furs consigned to the company's January sale in London, which begins on Jan. 28, will be closed at the local warehouse on Jan. 9. If shipped direct to London, the furs must reach the company's warehouse there by Jan. 17. The letter also announced that Lester A. Bennet, who is now with the local department of the company, will be attached to the London department after Jan. 1.

Shaded Colors in Men's Pajamas.

A novel color scheme is worked out in the men's pajama and lounging suit lines of a local manufacturer. The idea features "two-toned" effects, the upper garment or coat being of a dark shade, while the trousers are of a lighter tone of the same color, and trimmed with edgings of the dark shade. The combination works out very effectively. It is available in all colors, with stress placed on blue, lavender and green. The merchandise is for immediate and Spring delivery.

Novel Items in Glassware.

New items being shown in glassware for the coming season are table lamps of dark colored glass with gold encrustation as ornaments, and also ones of colorful iridescent glass in gold and silver effects, the surface of the glass having irregularly wavy raised effects. The lamps have the usual fringed silk shade and frequently have imitation jewels crowning the shade. Gold incrusted glassware generally continues its strong hold on consumer favor, and new items having this form of decoration are being brought out in a large range of patterns. Included are glasses for table service, cake trays, fruit bowls, candy jars, salad and lay plates, &c.

Couturiers Using More Lace.

A leading lace importer just returned from Plauen and Paris said yesterday that the Dawes plan has brought about a revival of business dealings between the Parisian couturiers and the leading German lace manufacturers. He says that the couturiers are now using more lace than at any time since the war, which may result in a much greater favor for laces here. Venise laces are particularly featured in the lines for Spring which are being assembled. Interest mainly centres in widths of from four to twelve inches, although wider ones up to twenty-seven inches are being shown. Cream and ecru are the two leading shades. Nottingham cotton laces in all widths for wash dresses are also held to stand a good chance of increased sale this Spring. The lace business during the last few months has been quiet, because of adverse style developments, but the better understanding between Plauen and Paris means much, according to this importer.

Features of New Overcoatings.

Fawn, heather mixtures, blues and light grays are ranked as probable leading shades in the new lines of overcoatings being prepared. The trend toward fawn and the heather mixtures is said to be quite marked, particularly in the higher class fabrics, both imported and domestic. Prices of the latter will likely be advanced by about 10 per cent. according to mill representatives. Owing to their lower base price, the increase on the moderate-priced fabrics or those selling around $3 or $4 per yard, it was said yesterday, will figure higher, running to 20 per cent.

Opening of Blanket Lines.

Lines of wool and part wool blankets for the 1925 season will be opened by the American Woolen Company on Monday or Tuesday, it was intimated yesterday. Preparation of samples is being rushed and, if they are ready, the opening will likely be held on Monday. There was no intimation of what prices will be made, but it is expected that they will be in line with the rest of the market, where advances of up to 10 per cent. were made.

Gray Goods Very Dull Here.

Yesterday was one of the dullest days the local gray goods market has seen for some time. The only feature was the selling of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths by first hands at 8¼ cents for March delivery. For spots of the same construction they were asking 9 cents, while second hands were willing to take an eighth less for prompt shipment goods. The first-hand asking price for 39-inch 68-72s was 10¼ cents. Sheetings were inactive, with asking prices based on 10¾ to 10¼ cents for 37-inch, 48-square, four yards. Some trading in 37-inch 3.96-yard drills took place at 10¾ cents. Fine yarn goods were dull also, although a little spot business in 40-inch 56-80 combed lawns was done at 14¼ cents.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

After two days of falling prices, with an average decline of 2 points in the period, the stock market reversed its position yesterday and scored a long list of advances ranging from 1 to 6 or 7 points. That the initiative was professional was proved, if it was proved by nothing else, by the use of the "argument" of relief that the Reserve Bank's rate had not been raised. Since there was not the least probability of any such action, it is entirely safe to say that this explanation of the market was produced by the same speculative group as invented the coming rise in the rate to explain the weakness of Thursday. But as usually happens in a Stock Exchange movement of the kind, the professional efforts drew an enthusiastic following of outside speculators.

It was encouraged by the progress reported in the "Nickel Plate merger" negotiations; reports which were made the ground for a series of 2 or 3 point advances in various railway shares, with some of the stocks immediately involved advancing 5 or 6. This probably reflects the eagerness of the more haphazard speculator to buy or sell, as the case may be, on the basis of news which is still withheld. A "merger," moreover, is a charmed word to a speculative public, like a "stock dividend" in another stage of a bull movement. In real life, men of affairs consider what one party to a combination loses as well as what it gains—just as they ask whether the dividend rate is to be doubled on a doubled stock. But speculative Wall Street sometimes has more the atmosphere of a cinema than of everyday life.

Back of all the surface movements of yesterday's market there were two tangible facts: confidence, both in the markets and the business situation, by pretty much the whole financial community, and a distinct upward trend in money rates. This strength in the money market did not affect the call-loan rate, which remained at 3½; but time loans moved up one-fourth of 1 per cent., reaching the rate which prevailed just before the mid-November business settlements relaxed the tension. Yesterday's firmness probably resulted in the main from preparation for the large Government operation of the 15th; it was naturally emphasized by the approach of the end-of-the-year demands. But it had little bearing on the general money situation, which may be summarized as an exceptionally easy December market with the certainty of still greater ease in January.

Foreign exchange marked time; there was a midday downward dip in both sterling and francs, but both recovered all or most of the lost ground. On the other hand, the grain market advanced again as vigorously as stocks; wheat, with a 3¼ cent rise, matching its previous high price for the season and corn going up 4 cents into new high ground. This occurred without any news to alter the market's view of things; apparently it reflected only the world-harvest situation, which was known before but whose meaning is hard to grasp.

The mercantile trade reviews of the week do not change their tone. There is no decrease in the "undertone of optimism," but reports come in that "wholesale distribution has not livened to the extent expected" nor the retail trade "furnished the volume of reordering looked for." In nearly all lines of trade "commitments, though increasing, are being kept within the limits of safety." This is all normal enough, at what is really the beginning of a genuine trade revival. That it moves slowly now gives fair assurance that it will last the longer.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, DEC. 12, 1924.

Stock Exchange call money prevailed at 3½ per cent., as on Thursday. There was plenty of money around, and very little calling, but demand was light. Most of the money here now came from out of town at recent posting of 4 per cent. Time money was in better demand, however, rates showing slightly firmer tone. Sixty-ninety day accommodation was 3½ per cent. bid; four months' lending and trading at 3¾; five-six months' also lending and trading at 3¾ per cent., but in volume less than four months. Bulk of merchants' notes discounted at 3½ per cent., as previously, but here and there paper has moved at 3¾@4 per cent. Acceptances were steady and without variation.

HEAVY SALES SEND COPPER PRICE UP

Western Electric and American Steel and Wire Among the Heavy Purchasers—Trade Optimistic.

Heavy sales of copper metal during the last few days have resulted in forcing the price up to a new high record for the current year. Local producers yesterday were quoting 14⅜ to 14½ cents a pound, depending on the quantity of the order and point of delivery. These prices represented an overnight gain of ⅛ of a cent a pound. On the New York Metal Exchange yesterday copper was quoted at 14.25 cents a pound for spot delivery, compared with 14.05 cents at the close on Wednesday.

Leaders in the trade yesterday estimated that between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 pounds of copper were contracted for within the last forty-eight hours. Not all of this was disposed of at the prices quoted above, as a large quantity represented the calling of options previously put out on a 14½ cent basis. The calling of these options, it was explained, was chiefly responsible for the firmer tone to the metal market. Among recent large sales, the Western Electric Company, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is credited with having placed an order for the delivery of 5,000,000 pounds. The American Steel and Wire Company also placed an order for 4,000,000 pounds. Many of the orders call for delivery during the first quarter of 1925.

The developments in the copper trade during the last few days resulted in the creation of a more cheerful tone in producing circles. It has been many months since such large orders have been placed within a short space of time. These changed conditions, which have been reflected in the prices of copper securities on the New York Stock Exchange, have resulted in predictions that the red metal may sell at 15 cents a pound before the close of the year. Producers have been complaining that with copper selling below 14 cents a pound they have been unable to make profits from operations. With the price above 14 cents many companies previously operating at a loss are expected to show profits, provided the price is maintained for any length of time.

A firmer tone is also prevailing in the market for zinc yesterday, a new high price being established for the current year. This advance accompanied publication of figures showing a reduction of 1,540 tons in surplus stocks of zinc during November, the largest reduction in any one month since May, 1922. Shipments last month aggregated 54,713 tons, also a record for any peace-time month in the history of the industry. The previous record monthly shipment was 52,803 tons in March this year. Surplus stocks of zinc on Dec. 1 amounted to 26,912 tons, which at the present rate of consumption is equal to only two weeks' supply. Surplus stocks on Nov. 1, 1924, amounted to 28,452 tons.

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since the year's low point of April has amounted to 254,716,000 gold marks, or $60,622,408. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,253,199,000 gold marks. They were increased to 2,537,780,000 on Dec. 30, 1916, which was the high point of its history.

Following is the Reichbank's outstanding note circulation in rentenmarks; the statements of previous weeks and for corresponding dates in 1923 are reduced to reichsmark denominations:

Dec. 6	1,803,983,000	390,017,411
Nov. 29	1,863,200,000	400,267,649

Nov. 15	1,633,171,000	92,844,720
Nov. 7	1,721,805,000	19,153,086
Oct. 31	1,780,980,000	2,496,822

The 1,863,200,000 reichsmarks outstanding Nov. 29 was the high mark of the bank's history.

REDEEMS $600,000 BONDS.

Alabama Uses Motor Tax to Retire Part of Highway Issue.

George W. Ellis, State Treasurer of Alabama, announced yesterday through the investment banking firm of Ward, Sterne & Co. of Birmingham that he had purchased $600,000 Alabama highway bonds for the sinking fund. Previous purchase for the sinking fund totalled $728,000, bringing the total to date to $1,328,000.

The Alabama highway bonds were issued as follows: $3,000,000 in 1922, $3,000,000 in 1923 and $7,000,000 in 1924. Purchases for the sinking fund to date amount to more than 10 per cent. of the total issued and to more than 20 per cent. of the $6,000,000 of bonds issued before 1924.

The sinking fund is operating on taxes derived from motorists. The bonds were issued under an amendment to the State's Constitution pledging Alabama's full faith and credit for the payment of the issue and providing also for specific provision that the Legislature levy a sufficient tax on motor-driven vehicles to provide for the payment of both principal and interest. This tax increased from $893,117 in 1920 to $1,612,218 for the fiscal year ended last Sept. 30, and from present indications it was said the tax would exceed $2,000,000 for this fiscal year.

To Withdraw $8,300,000 on Monday

The United States Treasury will withdraw $8,300,000 from member banks of the New York Federal Reserve system next Monday. This will be used to meet current Treasury requirements and will represent a part of the process of shifting Government balances arising on Monday out of its new offering of 4 per cent. bonds, and also through the receipt on that day of $62,000,000 from Great Britain as payment of the semi-annual interest instalment and $23,000,000 in amortization of its American debt.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Forenoon Reaction Halted by Sharp Rally in Afternoon—Spanish Peseta Features.

There was considerable churning up in the foreign exchanges yesterday. A sharp snapback in the late afternoon, while not erasing all of the earlier loss, revealed a distinct change from the one-way action of the last few days. Preliminary business showed rates down from Thursday's finals, the decline being heightened during the morning session by heavy foreign selling. With the close of the Continental markets, however, a rally was initiated on substantial purchases by local institutions and rates closed at the best levels for the day.

Spanish pesetas were the feature, Madrid exchange selling up 20 points to 14.18 cents, which matches the year's previous high established in August. Dealers attributed the strength in this bill to covering by those speculators who sold quite heavily on the Moroccan trouble, but the withdrawal of the Spanish troops and settlement of difficulties there drove the shorts to rout. Sterling sold from an opening loss of one-half cent, at $4.68⅛, down to $4.67⅞, when the recovery carried it back a full cent to $4.68⅞. French francs also recovered from 5.31⅛ cents to 5.34⅝ cents, while Italian, Swiss, Belgian and Scandinavians finished strong. Holland guilders were weak.

FRENCH BONDS RISE IN PARIS

Advance in Price Has Been Steady Since the Morgan Loan.

PARIS, Dec. 12 (Associated Press).—The Morgan loan to France is playing an important part in the continued upward trend here of the 3 and 5 per cent. bonds, or rentes, as they are called. Proceeds of the loan, available as a guarantee of immense purchases of rentes, brought a steady rise during recent weeks. Such is the opinion of many French financiers, including Senator Henry Berenger, former reporter of the budget in the Upper House.

Four weeks ago the 3 and 5 per cent. rentes were quoted at 48.00 and 58.25 respectively. Since the Morgan loan was voted by the Senate and Chamber, Nov. 22, both these issues have steadily improved, the 3 per cents. today being quoted at 51 francs and the 5 per cents. at 62 francs 60 centimes.

The complete success of the French internal 4,000,000,000 franc loan, which closed Wednesday, the balance of trade now in favor of France and the money market recovering its resiliency in respect to Government bonds, are other symptoms causing Bourse experts to be optimistic regarding the continued upward movement of rentes.

More Steel Stock Is Authorized.

Stockholders of the Penn Seaboard Steel Corporation, at a special meeting held yesterday, approved the plans for increasing the authorized capital stock from 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 shares and gave the directors authority to issue any part of the additional stock.

BIG YEAR FORECAST BY RAIL EXECUTIVES

Every Indication Points to Record Business in 1925, Says Judge Lovett.

MARKHAM OPTIMISTIC, TOO

Optimism born of the crushing defeat of radicalism in the recent Presidential election reached the point yesterday where railroad executives were decidedly "bullish." Most of them said that conditions appeared to be favorable for a prosperous 1925.

"I can see nothing in the outlook for the railroads which does not warrant great optimism, and there is every indication that 1925 will be a record railroad year," said Judge Robert S. Lovett of the Union Pacific Finance Committee. "I look forward to seeing measurable improvement in all industries, with the West and Pacific Coast doing very much better than this year. Agricultural communities of the West and Northwest are counting on a continuation of the improvement, which began in 1924, and fruit growers along the Coast will certainly do much better, barring a repetition of this year's unusual drought. The Union Pacific expects to share in this improvement and will be ready and able to handle the increased tonnage which is expected."

Improvement in farm conditions was cited as one contributing factor to anticipated railroad profits by C. H. Markham, President of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, who said:

"I am confident that the Middle West will have a bigger year in 1925, with prosperity more generally distributed, than in recent years. The Illinois Central expects to participate in the increased business and to carry more traffic than ever before. The farmer who has had hard sledding has joined the ranks of those enjoying improved conditions and should share to a far greater degree in the new year's prosperity. Farmers in our territory are facing the best Christmas since 1920. Banks have reduced their loans and the agricultural communities are exerting greater buying power.

"The Illinois Central and other railroads will profit from general improvement, because they will receive more balanced movement of traffic. There are indications that there will be extensive building operations in our territory, which will contribute to a variety of tonnage. Lumber people have orders in excess of previous years in Louisiana and Mississippi, and to a degree this is true in Arkansas and Eastern Texas. This means heavy shipments of stone, brick, cement and structural steel, as well as lumber."

OFFER TO MEXICO REPORTED

Oil Men Would Buy Bonds in Return for Change in Rules.

According to reports from Mexico, a group of oil men have made overtures to the Mexican Government for a change in regulations governing oil production in that country, in return for which the oil men would agree to subscribe liberally to the bonds composing the new $50,000,000 issue offered recently by J. L. Arlitt. Oil men in New York said they knew nothing of the reported offer.

It was reported also that the Committee of Bankers on Mexico was ready to reopen negotiations for the resumption of Mexico's service on her reorganized external debt, but the bankers said they entertained no such plan, for the reason that the negotiations had never been closed, and so long as Mexico makes a payment before Dec. 31 next the contract will not have gone into default. The Mexican Government will owe on that date $17,000,000 as its 1924 payment. The mid-year instalment was withheld, the agreement going into temporary suspension but not into default.

New Boston Elevated Bonds.

The Boston Elevated Railway Company was reported yesterday to be seeking authority to issue $2,141,000 of 6 per cent. 30-year bonds callable at 105. Funds are needed for construction and equipment, for funding the floating debt and purchase of real and personal estate that may be necessary to operation of the railway.

Act on Railway Dividend Monday.

Action on the dividend on the preferred shares of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas will be taken at a meeting of the Executive Committee Monday. Favorable earning statements for November were reported at the meeting yesterday.

$56,395,312 BONDS OFFERED IN A WEEK

Public Utilities Lead as a Group, With a Total of $23,647,100.

$22,500,000 OF INDUSTRIALS

Railroad Financing Aggregates $5,890,000—Belgian Loan Offering Expected in Near Future.

New bond offerings this week totaled $56,395,312, comparing with $91,033,000 last week and $137,370,000 the week before. Only two groups showed much activity, the public utility and the industrial, but their offerings were of sufficient size to bring the week's record to a substantial figure. Bankers said that comparatively little new business was in prospect for the rest of this year, with the possible exception of a Belgian Government loan, which is not far distant.

By groups the offerings of this and last week compared as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$23,647,100	$11,100,000
Industrial	22,500,000	4,000,000
Railroad	5,890,000	13,891,000
State and municipal	3,758,212	17,942,000
Farm loan	1,000,000	.....
Insular possessions	600,000	.....
Foreign	.....	44,000,000
Totals	$56,395,312	$91,033,000

Advices from Brussels intimated yesterday that the new Belgian loan was close at hand. No action has yet been taken by the Parliament of that country to authorize such an issue. The prospective Government loan, according to Brussels dispatches, is $50,000,000, with a likelihood that a Belgian railroad loan of half that amount might be floated later.

It was announced yesterday that the City of Philadelphia would open bids at noon Jan. 2 on a $12,000,000 issue of 4 per cent. bonds, of which $11,000,000 will be serial bonds maturing in twenty to fifty years and $1,000,000 will be fifteen-year maturities. In view of the City of Cincinnati's failure to elicit bids on a 4½ per cent. issue of bonds, considerable interest attached to the Philadelphia plan to sell the bonds at a coupon rate of one-quarter of one per cent. below that of the Western city.

CLEVELAND BONDS AWARDED.

Syndicate Headed by Eldredge & Co. Obtains $2,936,000 Issue.

Six bids, with a spread of only $1.92 per each $1,000 bond, were received yesterday by the City of Cleveland for a new issue of $2,936,000 of 4½, 4¾ and 5 per cent. bonds. The award was made to a syndicate headed by Eldredge & Co., with a bid of 102.192, or, figured on a $1,000 unit basis, of $1,021.92. The second high bid was 102.173, or a premium of $21.73 on a $1,000 unit basis. Public offering of the bonds probably will be made next Monday.

G. L. Miller & Co. are offering at par and accrued interest $460,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. bonds, maturing in two to twelve years. The bonds are secured by the Carnegie Hill apartments, to be erected on Ninety-eighth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues. The property is appraised at $636,500.

The Bankers Trust Company, the Guaranty Company and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, which purchased a new issue of $15,000,000 Fisher Body Corporation 5 per cent. gold notes, explained yesterday that these notes were being placed privately and without a public offering.

Stockholders Approve Liquidation.

Stockholders of the Invincible Oil Corporation at a special meeting held in Richmond, Va., approved the management's plans for liquidation of the company, which is a holding corporation. As a result, shareholders of the Invincible Oil Corporation will receive stock in the Louisiana Oil & Refining Co. on a share for share basis. It is expected that securities necessary for the change will be ready for delivery about Dec. 26, and in the meantime application will be made to have the Louisiana stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

NATIONAL SUGAR CO. SALE IS APPROVED

Directors Vote for Disposal of Properties and Assets to the American.

NOW UP TO STOCKHOLDERS

Minority Group Opposes the Consolidation on the Ground That It Would Be Illegal.

Directors of the National Sugar Refining Company yesterday approved the sale of the properties and assets of the company to the American Sugar Refining Company, provided that the sanction of the proper legal authorities can be obtained.

Plans for the consolidation of the two companies have been under way for some time, but the merger was opposed on the ground that a modification of the court ruling in a previous segregation case would be necessary before the deal could be made. While the directors and officers of the National Sugar Refining Company are for the consolidation, the minority stockholders have organized a Protective Committee, of which DeWitt C. Noyes of Tefft, Halsey & Co. is Chairman, to oppose it on the ground that it would be illegal.

James H. Post, President of the National Sugar Refining Company, issued a statement yesterday in which he said:

"The officers and directors of the National Sugar Refining Company have concluded negotiations for the sale of its assets to the American Sugar Refining Company, subject to the approval of the proper legal authorities and approval of the stockholders of the National Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey. The sale price is $18,500,000 cash for all assets and good-will.

"From 1915 to 1924, both inclusive, the National Sugar Refining Company has had earnings for dividends which, if placed on an annual basis, would average about $1,200,000, equivalent to about 8 per cent. on the present $15,000,000 capital. It requires $1,050,000 annual earnings to maintain the present 7 per cent. dividend. For 1923 and for the first ten months of 1924 National's earnings have not been sufficient to meet current dividends and the surplus has been drawn on.

"The offer if accepted by all National stockholders will be equivalent to $110 a share, or equal to $165 a share on the former $10,000,000 capital of the company. It is the judgment of the directors and officers of the National Sugar Refining Company that the sale is advantageous, and directors, as stockholders, will support the proposition at a stockholders' meeting to be held Jan. 12, 1925, in Jersey City.

In connection with the above statement, Earl D. Babst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, said:

"Inasmuch as the American Sugar Refining Company has a quarter interest in the National Sugar Refining Company, it will require about $12,000,000 cash to carry through the plan of purchasing the assets of that company when approved by the proper legal authorities and by its stockholders. No financing by the American Sugar Refining Company will be necessary, as it has cash on hand of over $25,000,000 and no borrowings."

TO VOTE ON STOCK INCREASE

Shareholders of Western Power Corporation Meet Jan. 6.

As a sequel to the acquisition recently of the San Joaquin Light & Power Corporation of California by the Western Power Corporation, a special meeting of stockholders of the latter concern will be held Jan. 6 to authorize an increase in the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock from 70,800 to 150,000 shares and an increase from 146,700 to 300,000 in the common stock.

Payment for the San Joaquin Light & Power Corporation and its affiliated companies serving the San Joaquin Valley will be made on an affiliated basis partly in additional shares of Western Power 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock. Cash requirements will be met through the sale of $6,000,000 thirty-year 6% per cent. debentures and an offering of 72,500 additional shares of Western Power common to preferred and common stockholders on the basis of one share of new common for each three shares of stock held.

Of the authorized new stock, 25,125 shares of the preferred and 72,500 shares of the common will be issued.

DUTCH EAST INDIES LOAN.

Rise in Bonds Revives Rumors Money Will Be Sought Here.

Rumors were revived yesterday that the Dutch East Indies would float a new loan in the American market. There has been considerable activity in the market for Dutch East Indies bonds, the 6s of 1947 and the 6s of 1962 having made new highs in the last few days at 96 and 98¼, respectively.

Offering of the new Greek loan was said yesterday to be likely early next week. The amount was expected to be below $10,000,000, which was the amount originally set aside for the American market. Heavy oversubscription of the Greek loan in London, which resulted in scaling down allotments to 4 to 8 per cent. basis, had caused the London bankers to ask for part of the American bonds. The London bankers also sought bonds which had been allotted to the Grecian market with which to fill some of their surplus orders, but their request was refused.

Contract for 53 Locomotives.

The American Locomotive Company has just closed contracts calling for the delivery of fifty-three engines valued at $6,000,000. Of the total, thirty-five engines were contracted for by the Missouri Pacific Railroad and eight for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. The order for the Louisville & Nashville is an addition to one for sixteen engines placed a week ago. The other engines will be delivered to various companies.

Standard Bank Club Has a Dance.

A dinner, entertainment and dance was given last night by the Standard Bank Club, which was attended by employes, stockholders, directors and officers of the institution. The following speakers were on the program: M. Morgenthau Jr., Louis E. Abrons and Max Straus.

Your Help Is Needed
THE HUNDRED NEEDIEST CASES

GOLD EXPORTS INCREASING.

Two More Orders Received Here, Each for $500,000.

Two more orders for American gold, each of $500,000, were reported yesterday, bringing the total for export from this country during the first half of this month to $24,000,000. One of the new shipments will consist of $500,000 of gold going to Holland from the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company and the other of $500,000 going to India at the order of Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The Holland shipment was said to represent a direct exchange operation between Amsterdam and New York. The course of the guilder has been strongly upward for several weeks. It is now selling around gold parity, and for a while was a shade above that figure, thus simplifying the purchase of gold without loss to Dutch bankers. The Indian shipment was understood to be part of a general plan of buying American gold to meet requirements of India, which in the last week has purchased upward of $5,000,000 of the precious metal.

BANK TO GIVE BONUS.

State Bank Sets Aside $150,000 for Employes and Officers.

A bonus of $150,000 to be distributed among officers and employes, based on a unit system of salary and service, was authorized yesterday by the Board of Directors of the State Bank. This system varies somewhat from the usual method of calling for the payment of 5 or 10 per cent. of the year's salary of an employe, and results in giving larger bonuses to those employes who claim seniority. The bank also declared its regular quarterly dividend of 4 per cent., payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 20.

The Manufacturers' Trust Company declared a quarterly dividend of 4 per cent., also payable on Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 20.

To Use Rock Island Track.

The Fort Worth & Denver City Railroad has entered into an agreement with the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf for the use of the latter's tracks between Fort Worth and Dallas, about thirty-two miles, according to word received in the financial district yesterday.

MARCH OF BUSINESS KEEPS UP UNABATED

No Check to Recent Activity Aside From the Seasonal Lull in Certain Lines.

There has been no check in the recent advance in business activity in this country, according to the current trade reviews, aside from the usual lull always prevailing in certain lines of industry at this season of the year. Reports coming to hand, according to Dun's Review, show continued expansion, and there are expectations of further gains in certain primary channels early in the new year.

"Christmas retail trade has developed well in many places, giving proof of a large public buying power," according to the review, "and it was quickened by the colder weather, with snowfall in some sections. The most interesting movements, however, are occurring in the big manufacturing industries, where a substantial recovery from previous depressed conditions is under way. From a low point of about 40 per cent. last Summer, the average rate of steel mill operations has risen to nearly 80 per cent., and textile plants are steadily enlarging their outputs, though at close profit margins. The underlying firmness of commodity prices is again reflected by Dun's list, which shows, for the twenty-second consecutive week, an excess of advances. A conspicuous exception to this upward trend has been seen in cotton, but the larger crop that has been grown, and which has forced prices downward, will be of benefit to manufacturers of goods."

"The building industry shows rather unexpected strength for this stage of the season. Decreases are shown from October and November in the country as a whole but, with New York City excluded, a gain over November a year ago is shown.

"Snows or rains have furnished much needed moisture to Winter wheat in the Southwest, the Central West and the East. There is a tendency to scale down estimates of increases in acreage previously noted, but a gain of 10 per cent. is possible."

WESTON CONCERN'S STOCK FOR PUBLIC

PRICED TO YIELD 8 PER CENT.

This Electrical Equipment Business Is Reported to Be Earning Well Above That Figure Now.

In connection with the incorporation of the Weston Electrical Instrument Corporation of New Jersey, previously a closed company, a banking syndicate comprising Hornblower & Weeks and Hambleton & Co. will make a public offering of 100,000 shares of the Class A stock of the new corporation on Monday. The Class A stock will be offered at $25 a share on a basis to yield 8 per cent. based on the annual cumulative dividends of $2 per share. Each share of Class A stock purchased will carry a bonus of one-quarter of a share of common stock. According to the statement of the bankers the above transaction involves no new financing, as the stock has been acquired from individuals previously in control of the property. Application will be made, it is stated, to have the stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Class A stock, according to the bankers' announcement, is entitled to $2 cumulative dividends from the date of issue, payable quarterly. It is callable at $37.50 a share on thirty days' notice and is preferred as to assets and dividends, in liquidation up to $31 a share. The Class A stock, in addition, participates equally in all cash dividends after payment of $1 a share in any one year on the common stock.

Earnings for the year 1924 (two months estimated) equal $3.69 a share on the Class A stock, against $2.40 a share earned in 1923. In connection with the bonus of common stock, fractional shares will not be issued, but the bankers have arranged to liquidate all fractions on the basis of $10 per full share.

Edward F. Weston, President of the company, in a letter to bankers, says the company's production includes switchboard instruments used by public utility companies and other electrical plants; portable instruments used by railroads, telephone companies, electric light and power companies and miniature instruments used for automobiles, radio and various other types of apparatus.

FISHER BODY STOCK PLAN.

Company's Capital Shares Will Be Split Into Smaller Units.

The capital stock of the Fisher Body Corporation will be split into smaller units, if plans now contemplated by the directors are approved by the stockholders of the company, according to announcement made yesterday. Directors will meet in Detroit Dec. 15 to formally authorize the plan, and a special meeting of stockholders will be held Dec. 29 to vote on the proposal.

The Fisher Body Corporation has authorized and outstanding 600,000 shares of no par value capital stock. Under the new plan the directors will authorize the issuance of 2,400,000 shares of capital stock of $25 per share par value. Following approval of the change by stockholders, the latter will receive four shares of new $25 par value capital stock in exchange for each share of stock now held. Dividends at the rate of $10 a share annually are being paid on the 600,000 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding. This stock closed yesterday at $225 a share.

Through a local banking syndicate the company sold yesterday $15,000,000 new 5 per cent. serial gold notes, the proceeds of which will be used to retire $17,000,000 outstanding 6 per cent. gold notes, dated Feb. 1, 1923. After the retirement of the 6 per cent. notes, the $15,000,000 new 5 per cent. serial notes will constitute the only funded debt of the company.

CADDO OIL CO. REPORTS.

Has Deficit of $166,627 for Year—Reorganization Plan Progresses.

The Caddo Central Oil and Refining Corporation and the Caddo Tank Car Corporation report gross revenue of $1,856,011 for the quarter ended Sept. 30 and a deficit of $166,627 after all expenses, charges and reserves. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 the company reports gross revenue of $4,638,361, and after all expenses, charges and reserves for depreciation, depletion and adjustments a deficit of $206,051.

James D. Williams, Vice President of the company, in a letter to stock and bond holders, outlines the progress in the proposed reorganization of the company. His letter says a tentative plan of reorganization has been agreed upon, calling for "the exchange of old securities for securities in a new corporation and a new bond issue constituting a first lien on the property of the corporation for the purpose of raising $500,000 new cash, to be expended partly for erection of a cracking plant, partly for the development of retail business and the balance for additional working capital.

"The Reorganization Committee has likewise reached a tentative valuation of the assets of the corporation as a going concern of about $3,000,000, which coincides with the valuation as estimated by the present management. It is hoped that a definite plan will be submitted by the Reorganization Committee to the bond and stock holders in the near future and that this plan will meet with such unanimous approval that it can be put promptly into effect."

NEW HAVEN BOND ISSUE.

Subscriptions Reported in Advance of $15,000,000 to Be Offered.

In advance of an actual offering of the proposed new issue of $15,000,000 fifteen-year secured 6 per cent. bonds of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company it was stated yesterday that substantial subscriptions had been made.

In Boston, advance subscriptions from banks and bankers were said to total $3,000,000 and the directors of the company have subscribed an additional $1,000,000. There were twenty-three Boston bankers who were invited to participate, and all but one banker subscribed, the minimum subscription having been $50,000.

The $4,000,000 total raised through preliminary inquiry was exclusive of any subscriptions made outside of Boston and out-of-town territory. New York City and New England investors were expected to take most of the $15,000,000 issue to be offered, and officers of the company are now working out details of a plan for offering the bonds to its employes and stockholders.

BIG TEXAS POWER PLANT.

New Station in Lignite Fields Will Have 150,000 Kilowatts Capacity.

The Electric Bond and Share Company announced yesterday plans for a large electric generating plant to be constructed by the Texas Public Utilities Company, a subsidiary of the Southwestern Power and Light Company, which is controlled by the American Power and Light Company. The new station will have an ultimate capacity of 150,000 kilowatts and an initial capacity of 40,000. It will be located in the Texas lignite fields on the Trinity River near Trinidad, about sixty-five miles southeast of Dallas, and will be in operation by the Summer of 1926.

The company has bought or has under option about 2,000 acres of lignite beds located in the immediate vicinity of the plant site. It is believed this supply is sufficient to operate the station for twenty years, while other large beds of lignite not now under option are available in the vicinity.

Dinner of Bankers' Forum Tonight.

The Bankers Forum will hold its annual dinner tonight at the Hotel Astor in honor of William E. Knox, the new President of the American Bankers Association. About 900 reservations have been made, according to Romaine A. Philpot, Chairman of the Forum. Speakers will be Dwight W. Morrow, Lewis E. Pierson, George V. McLaughlin, Stephen Baker and Arthur S. Somers.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS BY TWO CONCERNS

Albany & Susquehanna and Window Glass Machine to Make Additional Payments.

ANOTHER FAILS TO ACT

The Continental Baking Corporation Inaugurates Dividend on Class A and Preferred.

Two domestic corporations announced yesterday the declaration of extra dividends, while one company inaugurated dividend payments on its capital stock. Another corporation, the Standard Plate Glass Company, suspended dividend payments due to be declared at this time.

The Board of Directors of the Albany & Susquenhanna Railroad Company declared an extra dividend of $2 a share on its capital stock, payable Jan. 10, 1925, to stockholders of record Dec. 21.

An extra dividend of $1 a share, in addition to the usual quarterly payment of 1½ per cent., was declared on the common stock of the American Window Glass Machine Company, payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 19. In addition, the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was declared on the prefererd stock, payable as of the same dates.

The Continental Baking Corporation announced the declaration of initial dividends on the company's Class A and preferred stocks. A dividend of $2 per share quarterly was declared on the Class A stock and a quarterly dividend of $2 a share also was declared on the preferred stock. Both dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 18.

Directors of the Standard Plate Glass Company at their meeting took no action on the quarterly dividend due to be declared on the common stock at this time. The company had been paying dividends at the rate of 75 cents a share quarterly on this issue.

Those companies which announced the declaration of regular dividends on either their common or preferred stocks, or both, included the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Company, Dominion Canners, Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, Kansas City Southern on its preferred stock, Mexican Eagle Oil Company on the first preferred, Northern Securities Company, Packard Motor Car Company, Penn Power and Light on the preferred, Reading Company, St. Maurice Paper, Standard Plate Glass on the cumulative preferred and prior preference preferred, United Light and Power, Victor Talking Machine and Woods Manufacturing Company, Beech-Nut Packing on the Class B preferred, W. T. Grant Company on the 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and Paige-Detroit Motor Company on the common and prefererd.

WOOL TRADE IS QUIET.

Prices Slightly Higher in the Western Markets.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Business in spot wools in the local market has been quieter, chiefly, no doubt, because of the paucity of stocks and the higher asking prices latterly prevailing. Then, too, the advent of the new year probably is tending to slow business momentarily. In the West, however, there has been a renewed spurt in contracting with prices slightly dearer and it is estimated that some seventy million pounds of territory wools, or say 30 per cent. of the new clip, has been placed under contract.

"London is closing generally firm on merinos with crossbreds up 10 to 20 per cent. over the previous sales. Australia is firm, as is also South America, while New Zealand relatively a little high, has receded a penny ha'penny a pound.

"Manufacturers are consuming wool steadily and prospects for the coming heavy weight season are considered good."

ADMITTED TO THE CURB.

New Issue of 100,000 Shares Chapin-Sacks, Inc., Is Listed.

The New York Curb Market yesterday admitted to trading the new issue of 100,000 shares of no-par common stock of Chapin-Sacks, Inc. The company owns approximately 90 per cent. of the voting stock of the Chapin-Sacks Corporation and has in addition to the common stock issue an issue of $2,000,000 of collateral trust 7 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds. The corporation is one of the largest manufacturers and distributers of ice cream, milk products and ice in the South.

The corporation is doing an annual business of approximately $6,000,000. The stock, which is on a when-issued basis, started trading at 18 to 18½.

TRADE BALANCE OF NORWAY FAVORABLE

Decreasing Import Surplus Regarded as Favorable by Norwegian Observers.

According to the latest issue of the trade journal Farmand, Christiania, the development in the Norwegian trade balance has been the most encouraging since the severe labor conflict in the beginning of this year came to an end. The Summer and early Fall months have greatly counter-balanced the effects of the strike deadlock in the export industries. The last few months have brought substantial rises in many export items, and the highly favorable expansion in the export of fish products and raw and semi-manufactured metals is proceeding along the same extensive lines.

September brought the highest export figure on record, and as no corresponding increase took place, as far as Norwegian imports are concerned, the import surplus was brought down considerably. In that month the exports totaled 121,600,000 kroner, and the imports 182,200,000 kroner, giving an import surplus of 11,600,000 kroner, as compared to an import surplus of 78,200,000 kroner in August and 78,800,000 kroner in May.

Considering the first three quarters of the current year, the exports reached a value of 735,000,000 kroner, as compared with 611,900,000 for the corresponding period of 1923. The import surplus for the nine months was 864,600,000, "a very important improvement from previous years."

ADVANCE IN DUTCH FLORIN EXPLAINED

Rotterdam Bank Ascribes It to Repayments for Imported Grain.

The monthly report of the Rotterdamsche Bankvereeniging remarks of the recent rise in the value of the Dutch florin on the exchange market: "We have pointed out before the more favorable opinion abroad about the Dutch financial and economic situation, especially the intervention of the Nederlandsche Bank, and also the redemption of Dutch credits by American money on the part of German debtors. Also the large grain purchases of the European continent have doubtless played an important part in these economic relations. Holland herself has acted as buyer—a fact from which one might have expected that it would have an unfavorable influence upon the guilder rate in terms of the dollar.

"That this did not happen is to be accounted for by the fact that a large part of the European grain imports will go by way of Holland to other countries. The European buyers will have to procure guilders for this purpose, which buyings, however, need not coincide with that of guilders by the Dutch importers. This is also confirmed by the movement of the guilder and the dollar on the London exchange."

DEFICIT IN CZECH BUDGET IS REDUCED

Estimated Expenditure One Billion Crowns Less Than in Preceding Year.

The budget estimates for 1925 have been submitted to the Czechoslovak Parliament. The budget consists of two parts, the ordinary budget and the "investment budget," the latter referring to the capital investments. For the first time there is no extraordinary budget for the coming year; all items which were in the extraordinary budget in 1924 and in previous years are included in the ordinary budget.

The expenditure side of the ordinary budget amounts to 15,974,168,808 Czechoslovak crowns, which is 1,019,808,097 crowns lower than last year. At the same time the revenue estimates, amounting to 15,701,917,426 crowns, are 689,376,165 crowns below their 1924 figure. The deficit has been reduced to 272,251,382 crowns.

The "investment budget" amounts to 1,319,083,000 crowns, as compared with 2,229,230,000 crowns. This reduction, 910,147,000 crowns, together with the reduction of ordinary expenditure by 1,019,808,097 crowns, makes a total curtailment of outlay amounting to 1,929,955,097 crowns.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The hog market was strong to 10 cents higher in the face of receipts of 700,000 here in the past two weeks, or 60,000 in excess of any previous record for two consecutive weeks. The top was $10, 40 cents over the figure at the close of November. The quality today was the best in some time and few remained in first hands at the close. For the day arrivals were 62,000. A new high for the season was made on fat lambs, which sold up to $16.25, with Eastern demand a factor. Receipts were 12,000. Many loads of cattle were carried over unsold, although prices showed little change. Receipts were 6,000.

ALL GRAIN MARKETS REACH NEW MARKS

EXPORT TRADE PERSISTENT

Dealers Who Sold Out Lately Find Little for Sale When They Return to Buy.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Bulls in wheat and corn who sold out their lines in the past few days with an idea of getting the grain back cheaper, started to reinstate their holdings today and found little for sale. All deliveries of the two grains as well as deferred futures of oats advanced to a new high on the crop and the close was at the top with net gains of 3½@3½ cents on wheat, 3¾@4⅛ on corn, 1⅞@2⅜ on oats and 1⅜ on rye.

Foreigners sold wheat early, while exporters were persistent buyers in the face of claims of a slow demand from abroad. A forecast for world's shipments of around 12,000,000 bushels, or about 2,250,000 bushels less than weekly requirements of importers, and rains in Argentine emphasized the bullish enthusiasm.

Aside from the local selling the pressure in wheat came largely from profit-taking longs who went out of their holdings on resting orders on every half-cent advance.

Winnipeg was inclined to lag early, but as the session progressed gained 3⅛@3½ cents, the same as Chicago.

An increase of 6 per cent. in the Winter wheat acreage is estimated by R. O Cromwell, making the total 42,360,000, the main gains being in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Indiana.

Primary arrivals today were 1,162,000 bushels; week ago, 1,961,000; last year, 1,045,000. Shipments were 824,000 bushels; week ago, 1,608,000; last year, 471,000.

Corn traders bought in a most persistent manner, and with light offerings the advance was easily attained. The country sold 400,000 bushels cash corn to arrive on overnight bids. Rains in Argentina remove drought talk for the time being.

Cromwell estimates the crop at 2,433,000,000 bushels, or 45,000,000 bushels less than the Government. November figures and compare with 3,046,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Primary arrivals for the day were 788,000 bushels; week ago, 1,105,000; last year, 1,375,000, and shipments 324,000 bushels; week ago, 344,000; last year, 591,000.

Oats are attracting more attention and showed considerable strength in the face of immense profit taking. Strength in wheat was the main factor in rye, with export sales of 100,000 bushels at the seaboard.

PRUNING OF FRUIT TREES.

Branches That Do Not Bear Should Be Cut Off, Says Specialist.

If a fruit tree has branches that bear no fruit from year to year, cut them off, says the horticulture extension man of the Wisconsin College. It is during the Fall of the year apples are still on the branches that bearing and non-bearing limbs can be marked for pruning when the tree is in the dormant stage of growth.

"The inferior grade of fruit which is grown on many of the fruit trees is in many cases due to the overcrowding of the branches, and by thinning out wherever inferior fruit is grown the grade of fruit can be materially bettered," the fruit tree specialist says. "It is safe to prune the fruit trees anywhere from November to May. This applies to all kinds of fruit trees."

Completing Forest Hills West Houses

The Reco Construction Co. (Henry L. Schloh and Charles I. Hausman) have in the course of completion the first fourteen houses of their new development of 110 houses at Saunders Street and Queens Boulevard, Forest Hills West. Three different types of homes are being constructed, each detached and containing six rooms. The builders, who plan to pave the streets which are already sewered, are introducing new features such as building a medicine chest into the kitchen wall instead of the bathroom, two cellar entrances and providing each kitchen with "kitchen maid" cabinets.

RAILROAD ORDERS $8,000,000 IN A DAY

Equipment Purchases Earlier in the Week Amounted to $8,500,000.

MISSOURI PACIFIC A BUYER

Orders 45 Locomotives, 2,000 Box Cars and 1,000 Automobile Cars.

Orders for $8,000,000 worth of railroad equipment were placed yesterday, making the day one of the largest since the start of heavy buying by the railroads in September. These orders, which were reported to The Railway Age, were in addition to $8,500,000 in new equipment orders placed during the week.

The purchases reported yesterday included 10 Mikado locomotives for the Central Railroad of New Jersey and 5 switching locomotives for the Missouri Pacific from the Baldwin Locomotive Works; 8 Mikado locomotives for the Louisville & Nashville from the American Locomotive Company, and 25 passenger cars from the Standard Steel Car Company. The Missouri Pacific also has made contracts with the American Car & Foundry Company for 1,000 box cars and 1,000 automobile cars, and with the General American Car Company for 1,000 box cars.

For the week The Railway Age reports, excluding yesterday's orders for 1,574 freight cars, 98 passenger cars and 49 locomotives having a total value of $8,500,000. In its summary of new equipment ordered during the week it says:

"The Missouri Pacific ordered 10 Pacific and 35 Mikado locomotives from the American Locomotive Company and the Great Northern ordered from the Baldwin Locomotive Works 4 Mallet locomotives, which, with a weight of 450 tons complete, will be the largest ever built.

"The St. Louis Southwestern ordered 1,000 box cars from the Mount Vernon Car & Manufacturing Company, the Union Railroad 500 hopper car bodies from the Greenville Steel Car Company and the Western Pacific 70 stock cars from the Pacific Car & Foundry Company.

"The Chicago & Northwestern ordered 50 passenger train cars—39 going to the American Car & Foundry Company, 11 to the Pullman Car & Manufacturing Company, which latter company also received orders for 3 parlor cars from the Illinois Central and for 15 passenger train cars from the Northern Pacific.

"New inquiries for the week include 28 suburban motor car bodies wanted by the New York Central, and 2 dining cars for the Missouri Pacific. The Missouri Pacific also has asked prices on 40 caboose cars."

COTTON PRICE SAG ENDS WITH BUYING

Various Interests Replace Contracts in a General Covering Movement.

RECEIPTS SHOW A DECLINE

The cotton market suddenly developed activity under the most general covering movement in some time. After two days of slowly surging prices, various interests began to replace contracts as a direct result of the degree of resistance encountered on each recession. Exports of over 81,000 bales brought the movement for the season 850,000 bales above last year, while spinners took 150,000 bales more than the corresponding week a year ago. With a falling off in record-breaking receipts of the past two months, selling pressure lifted and prices rose 70 points from low levels of the week. After one of the largest day's business in several weeks, prices showed a gain of 27 to 45 points.

The course of prices in Liverpool, where quotations were advanced 15 English points before the local opening, exerted a decided influence on sentiment in early trading. Covering that started during the previous afternoon spread to circles outside the Exchange and from the start cotton was in demand. So many contracts were taken from the market during the first three hours that room operators covered the last hour of the session. This advanced May to 24.12 but above a level of 24 cents, it became easier to obtain contracts and a setback of 19 points occurred near the close. The regular monthly census figures on consumption are to be issued today.

Week-end figures showed 542,000 bales in sight against 367,000 last year, making 9,288,000 for the season compared with 7,589,000 a year ago. Spinners took 468,000 compared with 319,000 last year, making 5,488,000 for the season compared with 5,070,000 last year. As a result, the visible supply increased 73,000 bales compared with 47,000 bales during the corresponding week last year and the total world's supply of American cotton is now 4,751,000 bales, against 3,398,000 a year ago.

29 MORE BROKERS INDICTED IN ATLANTA

Total, Including New Yorkers, Accused of Gambling in Cotton, Now Exceeds 100.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Dec. 12.—Just twenty-four hours after the Federal Court for the Northern District of Georgia had refused to enjoin Solicitor General John A. Boykin from prosecuting them, the managers and employes of four New York and New Orleans brokerage concerns were indicted by the Fulton County Grand Jury this morning on charges of violating the Georgia law prohibiting dealing in cotton futures on margins. Twenty-nine true bills were returned during the day, bringing the total number of indictments past the 100 mark.

Among the brokers indicted today were Charles Fenner and Algheus C. Beane, who were joint petitioners with three other houses in the petition denied yesterday. The other three were John F. Clark & Co., Livingston & Co. and H. & B. Beer, all of New York. Executive officers of the four concerns were named in the indictments as well as the Atlanta branch managers.

In each case the indicted broker was charged with dealing in futures on margin in violation of the State law, and also with operating a gambling house. Solicitor Boykin stated that he would not attempt to bring the case to trial until after Jan. 1. He said today that there would be no let-up in his fight.

"I am here to enforce the law and these men are violating it," said the Solicitor. "The lists of those already indicted include a score of names of men who have been convicted in the Fulton courts for violations of this very same law, and some of those who are kicking the hardest, and crying the loudest, are the very ones who have been convicted right here before."

Those indicted today were: Charles Fenner, Algheus C. Beane, Edmond J. Glenny, Joseph M. Carpenter Jr., John McManus, all of the New Orleans organization of Fenner & Beane and D. L. Layton, Atlanti manager for the firm.

Russell Clark, J. E. Marks, A. H. Catford, Joseph A. Meyers, John F. Clark Jr., James Roker, all of the New York organization of John F. Clark & Co., and F. A. Burgin and T. N. Hutchinson of the Atlanta branch of the firm.

Gerald M. Livingston, Hartman K. Evans, Walter F. Price, Frederick C. Du Veau, William S. Gilbert, Frederick E. Thompson, all of the New York organization of Livingston & Co., and Walter Hopkins, its Atlanta manager, Henry Beer, C. Morgan Abrams, Adrian S. Aitkens, G. Edward Cornwell, Walter B. Keller, J. William Bark Dull Jr., Andrew P. Richards, all of the New York organization of the H. & B. Beer, and Albert V. Curran.

French Birth Rate Still Declines.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—France's birth rate continues to dwindle, according to official statistics covering the first three quarters of the present year, while the number of marriages is virtually the same as for the corresponding period of 1923. Birth dropped from 584,000 to 573,000, and deaths increased from 506,000 to 521,000. Thus the excess of births over deaths fell from 78,000 to 52,000.

SEEKS EJECTION OF 300 SQUATTERS

MAYOR HYLAN IS BLAMED

Attorneys for Owner Declare He Has Instructed Police Not to Interfere.

Ejectment proceedings against 300 squatters in bungalows on the waterfront at Gravesend Bay, near the Coney Island Ship Canal, was started yesterday by the Harway Improvement Company, before Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn, who was asked to issue an injunction against the city to prevent further issue of bungalow permits. Attorneys for the owner of the property told the Court that a "situation for which Mayor Hylan is largely responsible," by reason of the permits issued, has developed to the point of "productive anarchy."

Three years ago Supreme Court Justice Lazansky held that the property, which is mainly filled land, belonged to the Harway Company, and that the bungalow occupants were "squatters." The owner has not been able to get possession of the land, though taxes have been regularly paid.

"The city continued to issue permits for dwellers to colonize on the company's lands," argued one of the attorneys of the company, which is represented by Cullen & Dykman and Deering & Deering. "It is claimed by the company that it has been unable to secure police protection and also that the Mayor has personally instructed the police not to interfere."

According to the complaint by the owner, "the Magistrates have been loath to act in the controversy, and the alleged squatters taken into the Magistrate's courts have been promptly released. It is charged that a representative from the Corporation Counsel's office appeared for the squatters on the order of Mayor Hylan."

Agents of the company and bands of squatters have had frequent conflicts over the question of possession of the property. It is alleged that the dwellers in the bungalows are enjoying free rent and taxes at the expense of the owner. The Court is asked to empower the Sheriff to assist the company to take possession. Decision was reserved.

EXCHANGE HOUSE CLOSED.

Creditors File Bankruptcy Against Dealers in Newark.

A petition of bankruptcy against the Casa Portuguesa, Inc., dealers in foreign exchange, was filed in the Federal court in Newark yesterday by three creditors, and resulted in the closing of the business pending an investigation by the State Banking Commission.

A large crowd of Portuguese gathered in front of the office in the afternoon, a number of them waving drafts for Portuguese exchanges that they had sent to the natives in Europe. Officials of the company were said to have promised reimbursement of all losses.

BROOKLYN DOCTOR UPHELD.

Report to Kings County Medical Society Denies Priest's Charge.

The special committee of the Kings County Medical Society investigating the charge made by Mgr. John L. Belford, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Nativity, in Brooklyn, that a Brooklyn physician had refused to take a patient to a hospital until he had been shown that the ill man had sufficient funds, has found no evidence to show that the physician was actuated by mercenary motives, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. Thomas M. Brennan of 89 Eighth Avenue, associate secretary of the medical society, has sent a copy of the report to Mgr. Belford. The report states that there is a conflict of evidence in the case and that "the outstanding fact is that financial consideration apparently delayed treatment, based largely on the feeling of Dr. Mucklow that the patient was seeking hospital accommodations and services beyond his means and that the doctor only sought to conserve the patient's resources."

The report finds that Dr. A. E. Mucklow, the physician accused by Mgr. Belford, has enjoyed a very high reputation and has been an able practitioner in Kings County for twenty-six years.

After reading the report Mgr. Belford wrote a letter to the council of the medical society in which he stated, "Every member of the council knows that each point in my complaint was proved by the testimony of John M. Griffith, the patient, his daughter and Father Brosnan, not to speak of his bank book and the operation at St. Mary's Hospital. Your report shows that the medical society is more anxious to protect its members than to secure the welfare of the people."

URGE USE OF PEACE DOLLAR.

Treasury Wants to Displace Poor Paper Currency by Coin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Use of the new, uncirculated 1924 peace dollar by persons who give money as Christmas gifts is being urged by the Treasury in its plan to re-establish the circulation of such coins.

The lack of linen rags is the cause. Printing of 200,000,000 Liberty bonds and the increased demand for currency during the war and after the armistice used all reserve stocks of linen money, with the result that unseasoned paper currency of much shorter life has been turned out.

It costs the Government 6 cents to make a one-dollar bill and keep it in circulation.

In view of the very poor quality of currency now out, the Treasury desires to place in circulation about 40,000,000 silver dollars to replace one month's supply of paper dollars. If that can be done, it is estimated that an annual saving of about $1,000,000 can be effected.

Sets Limit on Foreign Service Test.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With respect to the first examination for candidates for the foreign service to be held under the act of May 24, 1924, scheduled to take place in Washington during the week of Jan. 12, 1925, the State Department today announced that, while applications will continue to be received, no further designations will be made for the January examinations after Dec. 20.

AGUILAR PROPOSES REVISION OF CLAIMS

AND HIS COUNTRYMEN LOSE

Appreciation of Their Weakness, He Says, Would Mean Better Feeling.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—General Candido Aguila, who has figured prominently in Mexican affairs since the passing of the Diaz régime, issued a statement today favoring a revision of the recently negotiated Claims Conventions between Mexico and the United States on the ground that they do not afford "real" reciprocity in the treatment of claims of Mexican and American citizens.

Next to the late "Pancho" Villa, General Aguilar is one of the most picturesque leaders of the various revolutionary movements in Mexico, and, though yet a young man, has figured prominently in events of the past decade south of the Rio Grande. When the revolution of 1914 broke out he became a strong supporter of Venestiano Carranza, became Minister of Foreign Relations in the Carranza Cabinet, and also a son-in-law of General Carranza, marrying the latter's daughter, Virginia.

After the death of Carranza, General Aguilar left Mexico and lived abroad. When the de la Huerta revolt broke out some months ago, General Aguilar joined the forces of the latter and was wounded in Tabasco. After the collapse of the de la Huerta movement, General Aguilar escaped to Guatemala, and finally found his way into the United States, coming to Washington recently. He is not now in Washington, but before leaving this city prepared this statement, which was issued today:

"While visiting this city I availed myself of the opportunity to exchange views with noted journalists, officials and politicians of this country in regard to the international policy that has been carried out in recent dates between our two countries.

"I am deeply moved and even surprised to have found that there have a right and thorough comprehension of our problems, with the best disposition and good-will to solve the present embarrassing and unjust situation, in accordance with the principles of respect to the sovereignty of our country and its ambition for reconstruction, based on the popular aspiration.

"My continuous opposition to the claims conventions signed shortly ago between both countries has never borne the idea of wresting from foreigners of their investments the full protection to which all are entitled in Mexico, guaranty of their capital and respect for their rights; but the principle has been founded on the duty that every citizen of Mexico has to impede the idea that Mexicans may remain in their own fatherland, treated with rights and guarantees inferior to foreigners. In the foregoing exposition I do not only refer to citizens of the United States but to all other foreigners resident in Mexico.

"Would the people of the United States accept that their Government negotiate and sign a treaty, for example, with Japan, within which treaty the citizens of this country would be discriminated and Japanese enjoy greater privileges and rights, and that such rights would be discussed by especial mixed tribunals?

"The simple fact of making a question of this nature will undoubtedly hurt the feelings of any worthy American. Why not, then, respect the feelings of Mexicans? The question of dignity and honor has nothing to do with strength. The weak as well as the strong have dignity and honor and it is a matter of principle to respect it.

"The revision of such conventions or treaties respecting the sacred principles of a people will most certainly strengthen mutual relations and bring about a closer friendship between the two peoples. There is no doubt but that the Mexican people will do all in their power to give all kinds of guarantees to foreign capital and to fraternize likewise with other foreign people even though they might know they are strong and powerful, but they feel certain that their honor and dignity will be respected.

"When such good understanding is reached, good-will can be displayed to treat with greater tolerance the interior difficulties of Mexico, as they are the consequence of historical moments, which other countries or peoples of the world have to and will undergo.

"Upon returning home I carry with me the impression that these noble ideas will be endorsed by the most prominent newspaper men and politicians of the United States of America. I am convicted that my attitude has been thoroughly understood, as the attitude of a sincere and patriotic Mexican, that wishes nothing else than the best understanding between my country and the United States; and I am positive that there is no better friend than the friend that tells the truth, waiving his personal interests, to sustain his principles of justice and rectitude and love for his country."

TO DISCUSS WAR'S CAUSE.

Final Plans for Conference in Washington Are Outlined.

Final plans for the program and speakers at the conference on the cause and cure of war, to be held in Washington, D. C., for one week beginning Jan. 18, were announced yesterday following a meeting of the committee at the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., 600 Lexington Avenue.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, General Chairman, said the purpose of the conference was "to clear our own brains of bewilderment arising through the great mass of conflicting opinions as to America's duty concerning war."

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, head of the Program Committee, in outlining the program said the conference would be educational and that its participants were not pacifists, but persons eager to find out the cause of wars. Among the subjects classified as causes of war she placed national fear and race antagonism, over-population and migrations of people, which complicate international relations; affronts to national honor, competitive armament, economic rivalries, secret diplomacy and the massed psychology for war.

GET MERCY FROM SMITH.

Five More Convicts Have Sentences Commuted by Governor.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Five more convicts had their sentences commuted by Governor Smith today, bringing the total number of commutations in the last three days to thirty. Those to whom clemency was extended today were:

Joseph Romano, convicted in Queens County of murder in the second degree and sentenced to a term of from twenty years to life; commuted to ten years.

James Parlato, convicted in Erie County of manslaughter in the first degree and sentenced to serve from seven to fifteen years; commuted to four years, one month, twelve days.

Antonio Magliacca, convicted in Allegany County of murder in the second degree and sentenced to from twenty years to life; commuted to fourteen years, eight months, six days.

Simeon B. Minden, convicted in Bronx of first degree manslaughter and sentenced to two and one-half to ten years; commuted to one year, four months, ten days.

Silmer Heidt, convicted in Erie County of criminally receiving stolen goods and sentenced to one and one-half to five years; commuted to seven months, eleven days.

$100,000 IS GIVEN TO COUNTY LAWYERS

Charles Strauss Contributes to $750,000 Building Fund for a Permanent Home.

Announcement was made yesterday of the contribution of $100,000 by Charles Strauss, former President of the New York County Lawyers' Association, toward the organization's fund for a permanent law building. It was also stated that William Nelson Cromwell, Vice President of the association, had added $5,000 to his gift of $125,000 made last January.

In announcing the gifts, in a letter to the members, former Senator James A. O'Gorman, the President, stated that plans for the site and character of the new home would be matured without delay. To carry the project into effect, he said that a building fund of at least $750,000 would be provided. It is proposed that the building will be free from mortgages or encumbrances.

"The committee having the matter in charge will be greatly heartened by prompt and generous response to this appeal which is designed to arouse the interest and secure the active cooperation of the members," Mr. O'Gorman said. Subscriptions and communications in reference thereto should be addressed to Abram J. Rose, Esq., Chairman of Committee on Building, Room 410, 165 Broadway, New York City. It should be noted that the Treasury Department has ruled that contributions for this purpose up to 15 per cent. of income are exempt from taxation.

A resolution, adopted at a meeting Dec. 1, provided that the new building be devoted exclusively to the professional uses of the organization, "and not to be utilized for business, restaurant, domicile or commercial purposes."

YALE TO SPEND $5,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 12.—Building plans aggregating a cost of more than $5,000,000 will be brought before the Yale Corporation at its December meeting tomorrow. The discussion involving the proposed additions on the campus near Connecticut Hall, termed by The Yale Daily News "Hush Hall," will be continued at the meeting.

Some of the features include turning the William Walter Phelps memorial gateway into another Harkness Tower; erecting buildings completely around the old quadrangle along High, York and Chapel Streets; rebuilding or removing Osborn Hall; building of a new chapel on College Street, near Wall, and putting up dormitories on the site of the old; locating the new gymnasium, locating a new dormitory and new classroom buildings for the Law School.

All these are included in the plans which the Committee on Architectural Design is working upon. Part of its report will be submitted on Saturday, it was stated today.

The Yale Corporation is said to favor erecting immediately a new dormitory, not on the site where ground has been broken between Connecticut Hall and the library, but at the corner of Library and Lord Streets. Funds have been offered for this by a graduate of twenty-six years ago.

Buildings on High Street, between Elm and Wall, are to be refaced, and the new gymnasium probably will be put up on High Street opposite them, according to present plans.

Vanderbilt Dormitory will be enclosed on the Chapel Street side, and Osborn and Phelps Halls will be completely altered in appearance. The ramparts of the new Yale will look like those of the Harkness buildings. Phelps Gateway will be made higher, to a point resembling the Harkness Tower, standing opposite it, and will be refaced.

Battell Chapel will be torn down, the new college chapel built a block away and the present site given over to new buildings, probably dormitories. The buildings on the north side of Elm Street between High and York, will be torn down and new dormitory and other buildings will be built on their site.

BAY STATE WOMEN UNITE.

Formation of Massachusetts Society of New York Is Announced.

The formation of the Society of Massachusetts Women in New York, of which Mrs. Eugene J. Grant has been chosen the first President, was announced yesterday. There are three classes eligible to active membership—namely, any American woman of Massachusetts birth and New England ancestry; any American woman who has two or more generations of Massachusetts ancestry, and any American woman of Massachusetts birth, who has resided in that State eighteen years.

The officers elected for the first year are Mrs. Grant, President; Mrs. Albion N. Doe, First Vice President; Miss Helen V. Blake, Second Vice President; Mrs. George H. Dame, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Dean G. Edwards, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Herbert E. Davidson, Treasurer, and Mrs. George Beveridge, Registrar, with Mrs. Valentine H. Everson, Mrs. Burleigh E. Smart, Mrs. Henry W. McWorrell, Miss Florence Stereford, Mrs. John A. Redmon, Mrs. Henry Holch and Mrs. Thomas J. Vivian, directors.

The society has chosen the Neighborhood Club, 100 Clark Street, Brooklyn, for its temporary meeting place.

Philadelphian Is Convicted of Robbery Half Hour After Quitting Force

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—Convicted of having held up and robbed two young men half an hour after he had resigned from the police force, Vincent Kee was today sentenced to eight to twenty years' imprisonment.

"When the guardian of the flock turns sheep-killer there is no safety anywhere," said Judge James Gay Gordon in imposing sentence.

In his own behalf Kee said he had been drinking when he turned in his keys and badge at a police station and resigned. He denied the robbery, testifying that he was in a restaurant five miles from the scene of the hold-up.

He was identified by the victims as the man who backed them against a wall at the point of a pistol and robbed them.

PASTOR FACES HIS JUDGE.

Court Suspends Sentence for a Traffic Violation.

Judge Charles W. Boote, who is accustomed to hear his pastor, the Rev. Dr. Archibald Mann of the Park Hill Reformed Church, Yonkers, preach to him had a chance to preach to the minister when he was arraigned before him yesterday in Yonkers City Court.

The offense charged, by Patrolman John Balint was trifling. He alleged Dr. Mann left an automobile parked between two signs that warned there was no parking allowed. The minister testified that he left his car behind another one parked on Hudson Street and did not know he was in a restricted zone. Judge Boote smiled and suspended sentence.

BASEBALL MAN INDICTED.

Frank Shaughnessy Is Accused of Not Making Income Return.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Frank Shaughnessy, Manager of the Syracuse Club of the International Baseball League and during the Winter Rugby and hockey coach at McGill University in Montreal, Canada, yesterday was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in session in Utica for wilful refusal to file an income tax return, it was learned here today. Shaughnessy's home is in Montreal, where his wife and children live most of the year, but the revenue official here holds that he is a citizen of the United States and therefore liable to the income tax regulations.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A storm of marked intensity and wide extent was central over the northern lake region Friday night and moving east-northeastward. Pressure has remained high west of the Rocky Mountains and over the East Gulf States, and an area of high pressure of great magnitude, attended by a cold wave, moving southeastward from Alaska over the Canadian Northwest. At Eagle, Alaska, the temperature Friday morning was 64 degrees below zero, which is the lowest of record at that place for several years. High temperatures prevailed Friday almost generally east of the Rocky Mountains, except in the Canadian Northwest, and it was decidedly above normal in the Plains States and over the eastern slope of the Rockies. There have been local snows within the last twenty-four hours in the lake region, the North Atlantic States and in portions of the Northwest. Elsewhere generally fair weather has prevailed.

The storm will move eastward over the lower Lake region, the Upper Ohio Valley and the North Atlantic States, attended by light rain and mild temperature in these sections Saturday. Following the passage of this storm the area of high pressure and decidedly colder weather from Alaska will rapidly overspread practically all sections east of the Rocky Mountains, and by Monday morning the line of freezing temperature will extend southward into the interior of the Gulf States. Generally fair weather will prevail east of the Mississippi River Sunday, except that snow flurries are probable in the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley.

2 RADIO SETS FOR CRIPPLES.

Quick Responses Are Made to Appeal From Bellevue.

An appeal for a radio set for crippled children in one of the wards at Bellevue Hospital brought answers from two persons yesterday. One set came from Mrs. James P. Donahue of 9 East Eightieth Street, who said she desired to make the Christmas gift on behalf of her own two children. A little later Dr. Mildred Wicker, in charge of the ward, announced that Philip Owits, President of the Imperial Economy Radio Company of 61 Courtland Street, was coming with a three-tube set and loud speaker which he would install himself.

The officials at Bellevue mentioned that two more sets, one of them to be used for the benefit of the blind patients, would be appreciated.

DICTIONARIES ON TRAINS.

B. & O. Railroad Comes to Aid of Cross-Word Puzzle Fans.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has come to the aid of traveling cross-word puzzle enthusiasts and has installed dictionaries on all observation and club cars on all through trains on the main lines.

If the fad continues to increase as it has in the past, the company probably will place dictionaries in the cars on its branch lines, it was said today at the general offices in Baltimore.

The enthusiasm for cross-word puzzles is not confined to those who travel on observation and club cars, but it is evident in the day coaches as well. Because of the number of dictionaries that would be needed, however, and the possibility that many enthusiasts would absentmindedly carry the dictionaries off with them when they left the trains, no steps have been taken to equip the day coaches.

VASSAR TO START BUILDING.

New $200,000 "Founders' Laboratory" Will House Physics Classes.

Special to The New York Times.

POUKHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Construction will start soon on a $200,000 physics building to be known as Founders' Laboratory, it was announced at Vassar College tonight. The names of the donors have not been made public yet, but it is understood that there are several. A fund for the building was started three years ago, but the sum was too small to finance the project.

The building will be located between the chemistry laboratory and the outdoor theatre, and will be finished by next Fall. Ewing & Allen of New York City are the architects.

HUNDRED NEEDIEST CASES

STONEHAM'S NAME PUT IN FULLER FIRM

He Must Prove That He Is Not Liable for $2,000,000 Bankruptcy Claims.

A VICTORY FOR CREDITORS

Judge Hand Rules Against Baseball Man in His Fight to Avoid Referee's Examination.

Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand amended the bankruptcy order against E. M. Fuller & Co. yesterday by adding the name of Charles A. Stoneham, part owner of the New York Giants, as a member of the firm. It will now be necessary for Stoneham to prove at a trial before a referee that he was not a silent partner, while the creditors try to prove that he received profits from Fuller & Co. If he is found to have been a partner, he will be liable with E. M. Fuller and W. Frank McGee, the active partners, who have been convicted of bucketing orders given to Fuller & Co. for a pro rata share of the $2,000,000 owed by the brokers to 4,000 customers when they failed. There is little likelihood of collecting anything from Fuller and McGee, who say they are penniless.

Judge Hand's decision was on a petition filed last April by the law firm of Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown, attorneys for the creditors, which was the first attempt made to collect the Fuller debts from Stoneham. The bankruptcy order which Judge Hand amended was filed in the Federal court on July 20, 1922.

The attempt to hold Stoneham responsible came after a long fight in which Fuller and McGee used every legal device to avoid punishment for their acts. After the United States Supreme Court ruled last year that the brokers must produce their books in court, and after Fuller and McGee were committed to prison for contempt of court in refusing to produce them, the brokers made a confession in which they were said to have told of Stoneham's connection with the firm.

Stoneham Charged With Perjury.

Stoneham was indicted last September on a charge of perjury, it being alleged that he gave false testimony before Referee Harold P. Coffin in the Fuller bankruptcy proceedings. He swore that $147,500, which he advanced to Fuller & Co. on checks drawn to the order of former Sheriff Thomas A. Foley, Tammany Hall district leader, were loans. Counsel for the creditors charged that his advances, which were said to have totaled $300,000, were made as a partner in the firm in an effort to save it from bankruptcy. The creditors' lawyers attempted to prove in testimony before Referee Coffin that Stoneham was a partner.

Thomas L. Chadbourne of counsel for the creditors argued before Judge Hand recently that Stoneham had concealed his partnership in the brokerage firm and was responsible for its losses. It was intimated during the argument before Judge Hand that Fuller and McGee would testify before the referee as to Stoneham's connection with their firm. Max D. Steuer appeared for Stoneham and argued that the attempt to name Stoneham as a partner was "outlawed," because it had been delayed so long.

Court Explains Procedure.

"The whole purpose of this proceeding is to bring in a dormant partner who is alleged to have concealed his membership in a bankrupt firm and bind him by the adjudication of the partnership. As I have heretofore held, the alleged partner is entitled to his day in court in respect to the issues of the insolvency of the firm and the commission of the acts of bankruptcy, as well as his membership therein. A partner who has concealed his partnership may be brought in nunc pro tunc by a petition, filed after the four months' period succeeding the original acts of bankruptcy has expired. Metcalf v. Officer, 17 Fed. Cas. 9496; In re Kaufman, 176 Fed. 93. While an amendment nunc pro tunc enables the intervening petitioners, if successful, to avail themselves of acts of bankruptcy long after the four months' period prescribed by the statute has expired, this is due to the denials of Mr. Stoneham that he was a partner and the difficulties which counsel for petitioning creditors met with in unearthing what they claim to have been the true state of facts. If they are right, and Stoneham was a partner, he would be profiting by his own wrong if he were allowed now to avoid the proceeding by having in the past concealed his membership in the firm and thwarted efforts to discover it. Indeed, if Stoneham be really a member of the firm it may fairly be said that his concealment of the fact operates as an estoppel which would prevent him from successfully urging as a bar to the proceeding that the acts of bankruptcy, if committed, were committed more than four months prior to the time when he was brought in as a party. If I am right in holding as I do that Stoneham may be brought in irrespective of the bare consideration that more than four months have expired since the date of the alleged acts of bankruptcy, the question of whether he should be joined as a party comes down to one of laches; in other words, to the general equities of the situation. These are to be determined by no fixed rule as to time or drastic requirements of diligence. Undoubtedly the beginning of a proceeding against Mr. Stoneham ought not to be delayed unreasonably, but upon the assumption of his counsel in their brief that the first information of Stoneham's membership in the firm was obtained by petitioning creditors in May, 1923, I cannot say that there has been any such delay as would bar the relief asked for. There is no definite limitation of time applicable. Counsel have not been obliged to institute a proceeding until they were in their sound discretion really prepared. The respondent has the burden of showing that they unreasonably delayed and could reasonably have prepared their case before they did institute it. This I do not think he has done. I can see no reason for refusing to give the petitioning creditors their day in court upon the merits, and I grant the motion to amend nunc pro tunc accordingly."

Now Subject to Examination.

The result of the decision is to make Stoneham subject to examination in bankruptcy proceedings before a referee. Counsel for the creditors will have to show at these proceedings in order to make Stoneham pay the debts of Fuller & Co., that he had invested money in the firm and had taken profits from it. Stoneham could dispose of the proceedings and avoid testifying, it was pointed out by counsel for the creditors, by making a settlement of the claims due the creditors.

Whether the bankruptcy proceedings against Stoneham will be delayed by other actions against him or whether it will be put ahead of these cases could not be learned yesterday. His trial on the charge of using the mails to defraud has been set down for next Monday in the Federal court. Together with Leo J. Bondy, one of his lawyers, and six others, Stoneham was indicted on this charge last January in connection with the transfer of the business of Charles A. Stoneham & Co., brokers, to the brokerage house of Hughes & Dier, which afterward became E. D. Dier & Co., failing with $4,000,000 liabilities.

Besides Stoneham and Bondy, the defendants in the Dier & Co. case are Horace A. Stoneham, brother of the baseball man; Ross P. Robertson, brother-in-law and partner of Stoneham; Elmore D. Dier, Fred Andrews, Bernard A. Andrews and August F. Stroh.

Doesn't this sound reasonable?

The proposal which we make to men who do not yet kno John Ward Shoes is simpl and, we believ, very practicl. It is this:

Study the shoe market as thoroly as you wil. Find out what is availabl in men's fine footwear at $8 to $10. Examin the shoes for style, lethers, workmanship. Then look at the shoes that John Ward sels for $7. If they ar not, in your judjment, equal in every particular to shoes that ar selling elswhere at $8 to $10, we do not ask you to buy.

If you ar interested in getting the greatest possibl value for your shoe dollar—and all careful men ar!—why not investigate?

The same good shoes they hav always been—everything the same except the price
